He started in New Orleans and eventually migrated to southern Illinois where he purchased some land just north of Pinckneyville to farm and raise his family there. Soon after moving to America, he decided to change the spelling of his name to suit how Americans pronounced it. The Italian language spells words exactly how they are pronounced, therefore, when Americans began pronouncing his name with a silent e and less s sound, Jiuseppe changed the spelling to Baudison at which the Americans began pronouncing it BOD-I-sun. In 1900, Jospeh married Magdalena Giacomo and they had several children, Peter Clement, John, Marie, Margaret, George, Isabelle, and Ina. Peter Clement, or Clem (died in 1967) married Anna Margaret (Ann) Kellerman in 1928 and they remained on the family farm. Cecil was known as a fun loving and kind hearted person. He was very helpful to others in need and it was often said that he would give you the shirt off of his back. He spent many years during his youth as a farm hand in northern Illinois and several other states. These admirable qualities and hardworking spirit are what attracted Myrtle May Armstrong to Cecil. She was the daughter of T. A. Armstrong and Maggie (Schwebel) Armstrong, who were also farmers southwest of Pinckneyville. Cecil and Myrtle did in fact marry on 16 September 1926.

Myrtle and Cecil Bigham.

After that marriage, Cecil took a position working in the John Deere Tractor plant in Moline, Illinois. It was May of 1929 in Moline that their only child, Verna Lee, was born. During the summer of 1935 Cecil, Myrtle and Verna Lee moved back to Perry County. Cecil rented some farm land and returned to his first love of farming. In a short time Cecil owned his own land and became a successful farmer. He continued to farm until his retirement at the age of 78. On 22 August 1981, at the age of 83, Cecil passed away. Eleven years later, he was followed by Myrtle on 12 May 1992. They are both laid to rest at Cutler Cemetery.

Their daughter, Verna Lee, married Lloyd "Dean" Bauersachs in Aug of 1946. They had four children: Lynn Dean (1948), Jerry Lee (1949), Gina Sue (1959), and Gail Denise (1965). They later produced eight grandchildren: Kimberly (1970), Ryan (1974), Christy (1975), Ginifer (1975), Jeremy (1979), Gerett (1983), Josephine (1993), and Andrew (1996). As of 1997 their were four great-grandchildren: Justin (1995), Katy (1997), Caleb (1997), and Lylee Ann (1997). Upon the death of Dean in February 1982, Verna Lee accepted a position at Southwest Baptist University in Bolivar, Missouri. Upon her retirement, Verna Lee moved back home to Pinckneyville. It was not long after her return, that she was taken with a Perry County farmer by the name of Edwin Mayer. They were married on 8 January 1994 and reside on the outskirts of Pinckneyville. They are spending their retirement together enjoying the grandchildren, and Edwin, in fact, has become a "PaPa" to them all.

BIGHAM-MARTIN

Shirley Jane Martin Bigham (11 September 1934) is the second daughter of Simon (27 July 1904-28 August 1945) and Florence Mentel Martin (02 September 1904-15 July 1960). She was born at 545 North Division Street, Du Quoin, Illinois. When she was about six months old her family moved to rural Pinckneyville where she lived with her parents and older sister, Pat. Her parents built a beautiful home on land that her mother inherited from her grandfather, Adam Mentel (25 December 1866-04 October 1939). The home is now owned by Jake Bergfeld.

Orel, Gary, Beth, Shirley, and Sandra—taken when Beth graduated from medical school.

When Shirley was five years old the family was blessed with another child, Joseph Adam, named for both his grandfathers, was born 04 November 1939.

Shirley was in the second grade at Nation when the school burnt. The student then finished the year at Duncan School near Rice, Illinois. They had to ride the Pinckneyville Community High School bus as it went north to make its morning run. Miss Bertha (Kellerman) was the teacher, and for this writer, she was the most wonderful person she had met, outside of her parents. When the new school was built, Miss Bertha had decided to marry Mr. Carson and Miss Coral Bryant was hired as the new teacher. There were over forty students and the board was trying to cut down the numbers. Simon, Shirley's father, was chairman of the board and he decided to help by sending his two girls to St. Bruno's Catholic School in town.

In the third week of her third grade she entered St. Bruno's and there she stayed until Christmas of her fifth grade when her family moved to Fairview, Illinois. Her father had accepted a job with the Fairview Colleries Coal Mine, near Canton, Illinois. Shirley completed her fifth grade at the grade school in Fairview.

In August 1945 the family was called to Du Quoin because Simon's father was very ill. After spending a couple of hours with his father, Joseph H. Martin, in Marshall Browning Hospital, Simon joined his family at his sister's, (Theresa Martin Mucha) house. It was there he was stricken with a perforated ulcer and was rushed to the hospital. He died six days later, 28 August 1945. The family, devastated, then moved back to Pinckneyville and lived that first year after his death with Shirley's Aunt Irene at the home where Florence had lived before she was married. That was the year that all the schools were closed because of the flu (about 1946-47).

Sometime during that year Florence and her sister, Irene, decided to buy a house in town, on Walnut Street. Florence worked for Thomas O'Keefe and Emil Boquillon in the sheriff's office before she decided to return to teaching. She then started teaching at Beaucoup School and continued until her sudden death, 15 July 1960. Irene moved back to the country about 1947 and Florence and her children continued to live on Walnut Street until 1949, when Florence decided to finish a house that Pete and Norma Hicks had started and move her family back to the country. Several years later she moved her family back to the house that she and her late husband, Simon, had built. Here she died.

Meanwhile, Shirley graduated from St. Bruno's Catholic School (1948), and Pinckneyville Community High School (1952). She then attended St. Louis University for three semesters before transferring to Southern Illinois University in Carbondale. She married Orel Edison Bigham (14 January 1930), son of William Leslie Bigham and the late Ernestine Heisner Bigham.

Shirley and Orel lived in Rockford, Illinois until June of 1964. Orel worked at Sundstrand Aviation and Shirley taught school in the Rockford City Schools. Here their three children were born: Beth Ann (11 August 1958), Gary Allan (31 July 1959), and Sandra Jane (07 December 1960).

When Shirley and Orel returned to Pinckneyville, Shirley taught at District #50 in the Junior High for five years. At this time, she returned to Southern Illinois University and completed her Masters Degree in Special Education in 1970. She started the Special Education Program at Pinckneyville High School. At that time there were no other secondary programs south of Springfield, except in Carbondale. Here she stayed until she retired in May 1993.

Orel went to Barber College in Belleville in 1964-65. He worked in Carbondale for a short time before purchasing Corky Fulton's Barber Shop. Lynn Gerrish worked with him for several years. In 1984 he moved his shop home and here he continues to practice his trade. He also drove a bus for the high school for several years. He especially enjoyed driving to various sporting events, mostly the basketball trips, and enjoyed the students.

Orel and Shirley have six grandchildren, five granddaughters and one grandson. Sandra's children are Sarah Jane (06 October 1987), and twins Elizabeth Anne and Katherine Anne (04 December 1990). Beth's children are Andrea Elizabeth (17 November 1993) and James Edison (03 September 1996). Gary had one daughter, Abigail Marie (28 May 1998).

BIRD-DAVIS

The marriage of Thomas C. Bird and Nancy Davis was recorded in Randolph County, Illinois on 5 April 1830. Nancy was the daughter of Augustin Davis and his wife Frances (Lively) Davis from South Carolina. The Davis and Lively families were some of the earliest settlers in Randolph, Washington and Perry Counties. To this union three children were born: John Bird, born in Randolph County, George Bird and Margaret Bird both born in Perry County, Illinois.

Nancy Bird Tombstone.

The youngest child of Thomas and Nancy was born in 1834 and from this date we can find no evidence that Thomas C. Bird was alive or dead. In later census records both John and George give their father's birth place as New York. There was a large family of "Birds" living in New England. Gustavus A. Bird, an attorney, from this family emigrated and lived in Perry County, Missouri. He married a woman from Randolph County, Illinois in 1819. There were also several "Bird" and "Byrd" families from both Virginia and North Carolina that emigrated to Illinois and Missouri. One family lived in Illinois at the confluence of the Mississippi and Ohio River, which at one time was called "Bird's Point." The "Byrd" and "Bird" family inter-married and bought land opposite this site in Missouri and it was called "Bird's Point." Just which family our Thomas C. Bird is from and just what happened to him is still an unsolved mystery. He either died, deserted his family or a divorce occurred.

Records in Perry County, Missouri, tell us that Nancy Davis united in marriage with Levi Zimmerman (AKA Zimmerman, Simmons) on 14 August 1837. We have found no record to tell us what happened to Levi. It is assumed that Levi, Sr. died. We do know that Levi was much older than Nancy since he had several children who were married, one of them being Levi, Jr., in Randolph County, Illinois. In the 1840 census of Perry County, Illinois the Nancy Bird family with her three children were living in this county.

In Lib Spurgeon's book Early Marriages in Perry County with Genealogy Notes, the marriage of Nancy Simmons to William A. Foster on 17 November 1844 is given. The footnote simply states "Nancy sister of Augustine and Orange Davis."

The 1850 census gives William A. Foster and wife Nancy with a blended family, including two of the Bird children, John and Margaret. Nancy's brothers, William, Orange and Augustine Davis with their families and their mother Frances, are living close to Nancy and William Foster. Unfortunately, the marriage of Nancy and William did not prove to be happy for very long. Records in the Perry County, Illinois Courthouse tell us that Nancy divorced William in 1864.

Nancy died in 1869. Her estate was probated in Perry County, Illinois and gives the following heirs: John Bird, George Bird, Margaret Bird Huggins, (also children by William A. Foster) Julia Foster Thompson, Charles Foster and Matthew Foster (minor).

Nancy is buried in the Cudgetown Cemetery with a simple head stone "NANCY BIRD departed this life, SEP. 6, 1869 AGED 65 Y's. Children." Submitted by Marie Bird Hutchings and Martha Pope Emling

August 15, 1862, John entered the 110 Regiment of the Illinois Volunteers and served in both Co. H and D. He almost lost his arm when he was vaccinated by the Army. In his pension papers a local man states in his affidavit that "his arm was so bad I thought it was going to rot off." He was sent home by the Company Doctor who later died in battle. In a letter from his local physician, Dr. Dyer, he confirms John's condition and states that he was in good health before the vaccination. Both these letters are missing from the information that was sent to us by the National Archives. He rejoined his company on 26 January 1864. Grace Bird Emling stated in a letter to her cousin "Grandfather was a Civil War Vet. I understand that he was wounded in the war, came home with a limp. I can remember grandfather. I think I was eight years old when he died. He walked with a cane, had a long beard." He was discharged from the army on 8 June 1865 in Chicago, Illinois. His

BRAATZ

Fred (or Fredrick) and Johanna Braatz came from Germany. Little is known about them. They are buried in the Round Prairie Cemetery (have also seen it as Goldman Cemetery) Perry County, Illinois. Fred's tombstone has no dates but from the fact there are four family graves, the other three in order of date of death rather than couples side by side, it is possible he died before August Kuhl who died on 23 August 1886 or 87. Johanna Braatz (1824-1896)

According to obituary of one child, there were eight children in the family. The oldest was Henrietta Wilhelmina (Braatz) Kuhl (article in this book). The youngest was Fredericke Braatz who married William Shermer. They also lived in Perry County. Fredericke had three children that is known about, order of birth is unknown: Frank C. Schermer, Oscar Frederick Schermer, and Mary (Schermer) Krmitzski. There was a Julius Braatz in the area but it has not been verified how he fits in this family. Submitted by Janeet Hutching Amelunke

BROSTMAYER-HARTWELL

Norman "Tex" Brostmeyer was born in January 1926, the son of William L. Brostmeyer and Emma E. Feltmeyer. He married the former Pat Hartwell Woolbright on 11 February 1961. Pat was a young widow who's husband was killed in a mining accident in 1959. She had two daughter's: Kathy who was almost three, and Peggy who was only 8 days old. Tex adopted the girls and has always been a loving father.

Tex was the last elected sheriff who's family lived in the residence quarters of the old county jail. Tex and his family moved into the jail in 1966 when he was 40 years old. Pat was 30, Kathy 10 and Peggy 7. At the time Tex was sheriff he was allowed one full time deputy and two part time. His full time deputy was Wilbur "Beak" McCrary, and the part time deputies were Loren Felts and Lawrence Caldwell. They were also allowed one full time employee and one part time to help at the jail. Theresa Schubert and Rowena Casey both worked there as housekeeper's and cooks. The prisoners ate the same meal that the sheriff's family was served. They kept coffee warm 24 hours a day. There was always a state trooper or some other law enforcement personnel transporting or bringing in prisoner's.

Tex and Pat Brostmeyer.

The girls enjoyed living at the jail. When the cell block was empty the girls and their friends would use it to roller skate and play "cops and robbers." They had a german shepherd, Gretchen, for a pet who was to protect them in case of a jail break. There were several jail breaks during this time. The concrete had gotten so old that they could literally dig their way out through the basement. One particular stormy night two inmates managed to dig out, but decided to crawl back in because the weather was so bad. At the time the county didn't want to pay the extra money to have a full time jailer. So if Tex was on patrol, his wife Pat or Rowena would fill in that capacity.

It was an unusual experience for the family and one they look back on fondly. At the time Tex was sheriff there was a one time term limit, so after he completed his time as sheriff he became an auditor for the state of Illinois. He retired in 1990 and he and Pat now live at 713 Palace Drive in Pinckneyville. They now have four grandchildren. Tod Hardacre who is married and lives at Ft. Polk, Louisiana with his wife, Ginger and step children, Jesus and Amber. Tod is a specialist in the army. Jon Hardacre lives in Pinckneyville with his mother, Kathy and step father, Joel Thompson. Knox and Campbell Allen live with their parents Peg and Mark in Oregon. Peg and Mark Allen have also lived in Pusan Korea and Bangkok, Thailand. Their grandchilderns birthdays are: Tod 25 September 1976; Jon 28 July 1981; Knox 10 August 1990 and Campbell 2 July 1992.

BROSTMAYER-KRISEL

Baltasar Brostmeyer was born 1 August 1828 near Kusel, Germany. Anna Chadarina Krisel was born on 15 July 1836 in the area of Hessen, Germany. Baltasar and Anna married on 1 January 1855 in Meadville, Pennsylvania and lived there until 1860. Three of their ten children were born in Meadville: Anna Gertrude, 25 December 1855 to 15 December 1942, never married; Henry W. 5 July 1857 to 1 March 1938, married Caroline Daniels on 12 October 1882; Lewis W., 6 June 1859 to 20 June 1939, married first wife Bertha Lambert on 17 October 1886 and second wife Victoria Himmelstalze.

They left Pennsylvania in a covered wagon and traveled to the Ohio River. They dismantled their wagon and took it on the boat with them to Cairo, Illinois and then up the Mississippi River to East St. Louis. They went to Belleville, Illinois where they stayed with friends until they were able to rent a farm which was south of New Athens, Illinois. Their son George was born there in 1861. He died in infancy and buried near the farm.

Fred J and Anna (Brostmeyer) Beck.

They purchased a farm eight miles west of Pinckneyville and lived in a log cabin until 1868 where they had three more children: Anna Rosina, 27 May 1864 to 14 April 1922 married to Fred J. Beck on 10 February 1887; Elizabeth born in 1865 (died in infancy); and Frank F. 11 July 1867 to 21 September 1918, never married. They built a home from bricks that they made by hand on their farm in 1868. They had three more children: Christina Anna, 3 April 1869 to 27 June 1913, never married; Emma Elizabeth 1871 to 10 July 1938, married Louis Frederici; and Francis Mary, known as "Fannie" 9 May 1873 to 17 February 1958, never married. BROWN-CRAIG

Elizabeth Margaret (Craig) (Beggs) Brown was the mother of seven children. She was born on 11 February 1872.

Elizabeth Margaret (Craig) (Beggs) Brown and James Leander Brown Jr.

Her 1st marriage was to Henry J. Beggs on 7 October 1886. They had three children: Jemimah Nicholson (born 19 February 1887-died about 1980), Susan Mattie (Smith) Stanhouse (born 29 May 1891-died 1 January 1963), and Elsie Mae Leemon (born 21 November 1894-died 8 July 1971).

Mother is superimposed on the left in a picture taken about 1902 at approximately age 30.

The 2nd marriage was to James Leander Brown, Jr. on 4 March 1898. He was born 14 November 1862 in Percy, Randolph County, Illinois and died on 21 or 17 of April 1907 (one report said 2nd or 4th of May 1907) at Cutler, Illinois. James Leander died at age 45. They had three boys and a girl: Amos Leander (born 20 March 1899-died 4 April 1991), George Robert Brown (born 26 January 1901, in Mt. Vernon, Illinois-died 21 August 1980), Thomas "Tom" Edward (born 9 June 1903-died 17 August 1969) and Vivian Elizabeth Lipe (born August 6, 1907-she is still living as of 1998).

The parents of Elizabeth Margaret were John and Jamima (Jemimah?) Ann (maiden name?) (Bridgewater) (Thomas) Craig. According to Elizabeth Spurgeon, John was born in 1835 in Ireland. He came to the U.S. at the age of 15 (or 1850). A bad case of typhoid fever, and not being properly turned while in the sick bed, handicapped him with a permanently paralyzed side. He rose above this however, and became a respected, hard working farmer. Jamima's parents were reported to be English, via Pennsylvania. It is not certain what her maiden name was, but the names Bridgewater and Evans seem to turn up frequently in the scattered literature, and her mother seems to have been married to a Thomas. There was also some relations to the Sprague family of Cutler, Illinois.

Elizabeth Margaret raised a loving and supportive family based upon Presbyterian Christian values and by the grace of God. Times were not easy for this young widow. She worked hard and taught the children to do the same. (See the picture accompanying this article of her as a young lady (about age 30) superimposed on a picture of the children. They were photographed together in 1980 during the 50th Wedding Anniversary celebration of Maurice W. and Vivian Elizabeth (Brown) Lipe.

A cousin, Thomas Jeremiah, "Uncle Jeremy" to the children, prevailed upon Elizabeth Margaret to operate a boarding house, in the "big house," on the southwest edge of Cutler, Illinois. This was so that the workers at the Willisville Hog and Dairy Farm would have a decent place to stay. Tom was a farm superintendent for the Willisville Coal Mine Company.

She also took in laundry and did baking for Cutler residents. She was an excellent cook and very resourceful. The whole family helped. The two older boys, Amos and George, worked on this farm as teenagers. When they got old enough, they "got on" at Barnard Mine (that built a temporary town called Aladin), Wilson Mine, "Whipperwill" Mine and the Elm Mine located around Cutler, Illinois. When the children were grown and had families of their own, she moved back into the home that she and James Leander, Jr. had owned, on the west edge of Cutler, Illinois.

Elizabeth Margaret died in the Marshall Browning Hospital at Du Quoin, Illinois, of a failed gall bladder operation at age 66.

The Perry County Volumes I and II contain histories of the seven children.

After James Leander Sr. was killed, Mary married a 2nd time to Edward Jones on 3 June 1869. Ed died on 28 September 1872. One of her husbands sons Ed Jones, Jr. helped Mary regain her pension (belonging to James Leander Brown Sr.) Another of Ed's sons was Thomas "Tom" Jones.

Mary (McClure) (Brown) Jones died 28 January 1918 and is buried in the Cutler Cemetery, in Perry County, Illinois. As of 1998, the two grandsons of Ed Jones were buried near by with simple boards for their grave markers.

John Brown was James Leander Sr.'s father. John was born 9 September 1805/06 in South Carolina, if records are correct. James' mother was Martha (Cunningham) Brown. She was born during 1807 in Kentucky. She died on 16 April 1886 and is also buried in the Hopewell Cemetery, Perry County, Illinois. Martha and her husband were married on 12 March 1829 in Perry County, Illinois.

COLEMAN-BARTON

Terry Alan Coleman is the fifth offspring of Billie E. Coleman and Mary (Dean) Coleman of Du Quoin. Terry was born on 29 May 1963 at Offutt Air Force Base, Nebraska. During his childhood, his family lived in many places, one of them being Madrid, Spain. His mother tells tales of a little two year old Terry taking to the streets of Spain alone as if he could travel the world and back without assistance from anyone. Somehow, he always found his way back home. When he was five years old, Terry's family moved back to the states and eventually back to Du Quoin, his mother's birthplace. Terry's father was born in Kentucky.

After graduating from Du Quoin High School in 1982, Terry followed in his father's footsteps and joined the U.S. Air Force. He remained for two years before opting to join the Reserves. Terry then took a job at MCA Records in Pinckneyville. It was here that he met his future wife, Tautchia Barton.

Tautchia was born to Terry and Sandra (Herrmann) Barton on 9 August 1971 in Pinckneyville. Although they left Illinois on two different occasions because of her father's job, they settled back in Pinckneyville by the time she was three years old. Tautchia was a 1988 graduate of Faith Christian School, and continued her studies at Rend Lake College in Ina, Illinois.

Terry and Tautchia married on 10 February 1990 and made their home in Pinckneyville. God blessed the couple with two precious daughters. The oldest, Taylor Shayne, arrived on 23 August 1993, followed by her sister, Madison Jayne, on 26 January 1996. Both were delivered at Carbondale Memorial Hospital.

On a pleasantly warm day, you can find the Coleman family outside their Victorian home with the children at play usually in the sandbox or on the swingset. Taylor and her dad occasionally enjoy a game of frisbee while Madi, as she is affectionately called, would rather build sand castles, play in the rocks or capture a bug which will be her pet for the day. You may see Tautchia on the porch swing enjoying a good book or tending to the flowers in the gardens.

Terry is employed at Universal Music and Video Distribution in Pinckneyville as a supervisor, while Tautchia manages a local printing business, Cavco Printers. Tautchia is also the proprietor of her own home-based business, Coleman Creations, which specialized in desktop publishing and design.

He is buried in Paradise Prairie Cemetery, Perry County, Illinois. Alfred was the son of Levi Ernest and Christianna (Fischer) Commean. Alfred married Cora May Keller 24 March 1891 in Perry County, Illinois, daughter of John A. Keller and Nancy V. Eakin. Cora May was born 4 April 1867 in Du Quoin, Illinois and died 27 December 1943 in Paradise Prairie from diabetes. Cora is buried in Paradise Prairie Cemetery, Perry county, Illinois.

Adults: Alfred Risden and Cora May (Keller) Commean Children: Lola Grace and Loren Lyle Commean.

Children of Alfred Commean and Cora Keller are: (1) Lola Grace Commean, born 16 December 1891 in Paradise Prairie, Illinois; died 5 December 1986 in Du Quoin, Perry County, Illinois; and (2) Loren Lyle Commean, born 31 May 1898 in Du Quoin, Perry County, Illinois; died 12 January 1970.

Alfred owned and lived at his parent's old homestead because he was the oldest son. From the Klyne Jack Keller's "History of the Keller Family" book, Alfred and Cora lived in Perry County, Illinois some six miles east of Du Quoin. Jack Keller's book contains much of Cora's family history. Alfred's occupation was farming and keeping it in tip top condition. They were still living in Perry County as of 1940. They were members of the Paradise Baptist Church known as the White Church in Perry County, Illinois. Twila (Jackson) Nagel, Alfred's grand daughter, remembers going to the White Church with her parents and grandparents. Lola often talked about people coming to their home and singing around the organ. She played the organ at church some. Alfred's hobbies were taking good care of the livestock and his dog, who was dreadfully afraid of lightning. Cora's hobbies were cooking and fixing people's hair. Alfred became gray in his 20's. Alfred had a 160 acre farm at the south end of 2375 East Magnolia Road about .8 miles south of Kimmel Road off of Highway 51 in Perry County, Illinois. There was a saw mill and plenty of water on the farm. Loren built a house across the yard from Alfred. Alfred gave the land to his daughter, Lola (Commean) Jackson. Lola willed the land to her children, Bob Jackson and Twila (Jackson) Nagel. The old Commean Homestead location still has the brick house on it that Loren Commean built. The old Levi Commean house was torn down and Alfred built a new home on the same location which was located across the street from Loren's house. Later, Alfred's house burned. COMMEAN-KING

Levi Ernest Commean (1st) was born 10 December 1841 in St. Clair County, Illinois, and died 16 November 1888, due to a run away horse team. He is buried in the Paradise Prairie Cemetery, Perry County, Illinois. Levi was the son of Risdon and Christiene (Fischer) Commean. Levi (1st) married Martha Canzada King 3 August 1862 in Perry County, Illinois daughter of Joshua King and Polly Brooks. Martha was born on 14 May 1843, in Paradise Prairie, Perry County, Illinois, and died 8 March 1936. Martha is buried in the Paradise Prairie Cemetery, Perry County, Illinois.

Levi Ernest Commean, 1st and Martha Canzada (King) Commean.

Children of Levi and Martha are: (1) Alice C. Commean, born October 1863 in Perry County, Illinois (2) Alfred Risden Commean, born 21 October 1865 in Du Quoin, Illinois; died 25 June 1957, in Paradise Prairie and buried in Paradise Prairie Cemetery; (3) Elmer Levi Commean, born 23 February 1872, in Paradise Prairie, Perry County, Illinois; died 21 November 1939 in Du Quoin, Illinois and buried in Paradise Prairie Cemetery; (4) Minnie Ethel Commean, born 2 October 1873, died 7 February 1897, and buried in Paradise Prairie Cemetery; and (5) Levi Ernest Commean (2nd), born 28 December 1883, in Du Quoin, Illinois; died 13 April 1963 in Herrin, Williamson County, Illinois and buried in Herrin City Cemetery Illinois.

Levi was a farmer and spent most of his adult life living in Paradise Prairie, Illinois. After Levi (1st) died, Martha married her brother-in-law, Elisha Gaines Keeling. Martha lived at 309 North Line Street in Du Quoin, Illinois.

Risdon Commean (1st) married Christiene Fischer on 18 March 1838 (License #317, St. Clair County, Illinois Marriages 1791-1845). After Risdon's death (approx. July 1843 per St. Clair County Illinois Probated and Non-Probated Wills, Book C, PP. 274-275), Christiene married Elam Silkwood and moved to Perry County, Illinois before 1850 with her two sons Levi (1st) and Risden (2nd) Commean. Elam and Christiene Silkwood moved to California before their deaths. Oral history of the Commean family states that Levi (1st) and his brother, Risden (2nd), walked beside a wagon to Illinois from North or South Carolina. Emily "Commean" Finegan and Paul Kevin Commean believe it was Levi's father "Risdon (1st)" who came to St. Clair County, Illinois with his father, Rickets Commean, from North Carolina or South Carolina because Levi (1st) and his brother, Risden (2nd), were both born in Illinois (1850 Census of Illinois, Perry County, Page 395). Risden (2nd) fought and died in the Civil War.

nois in 1977 and received his Electrical Engineering Degree from Georgia Institute of Technology in Atlanta, Georgia in 1982.

John married (1) Mereby Johnson on 24 August 1837, in St. Clair County, Illinois, and (2) Mary Fritz on 8 July 1848, in St. Clair County, Illinois John and Risdon (1st) were approximately the same age. Families with the last name Commean are found in 1850 and 1870 Census of Delaware with no verified relationship. Submitted by Paul Kevin Commean and Photographs provided by Twila (Jackson) Nagel

MINNIE ETHEL COMMEAN

Minnie Ethel Commean was born 2 October 1873, and died 07 February 1897 in Perry County, Illinois. Minnie is buried in Paradise Prairie Cemetery, Perry County, Illinois. Minnie Ethel was the daughter of Levi Ernest Commean (1st) and Martha Canzada King. Martha's middle name has been spelled Casander and Kensada. After reading John J. King's biography (Martha's brother) found in the Randolph, Jackson, Perry and Monroe Counties, Illinois book published in 1894, we find a Martha C. who is married to Levi Commean and there appears to be a second Martha Canzada who is deceased. Martha may have been named after a deceased sister. Minnie's grave marker is intricately carved, beautifully decorated and shaped like a tree trunk with the bark removed and the wording etched on the underlying wood, but the grave stone has weathered causing difficulty in reading some of the words and the top of the cylindrically shaped stone is missing. Minnie is buried next to her parents in the Paradise Prairie Cemetery. Minnie was a very pretty woman. It is rumored that Minnie died of tuberculosis, but there are no known documents which declare the cause of death.

Minnie Ethel Commean.

Minnie's father, Levi Ernest Commean (the first) was a farmer with $1500 of real estate in 1870. Levi (1st) and Martha Canzada (King) Commean were living next door in Perry County, Illinois to Levi's mother (Christiana or Christiene "Fischer" "Commean" Silkwood) and stepfather, Elam Silkwood in the 1870's per the 1870 Census of Illinois. Due to many spelling errors years ago that are found in public documents, we are uncertain as to the correct spelling of Christiene Fischer's first and last name. Her last name may have been spelled "Fisher." Christiana married Elam Silkwood after Risdon Commean (1st) died in St. Clair County, Illinois in June/July 1843. It is also important to note that Minnie Ethel Commean's grandfather's Risdon Commean (1st), first name may have been spelled Risden. Paul Kevin Commean has found the Commean name in many different 1800s Census records spelled as follows: Comein, Commene, Commean, Commen, Camen, Comnean, Comeen, and Commeans. Elam Silkwood was born in Kentucky. Christiana Fischer was born in Germany. Submitted by Paul Kevin Commean

CZAYO-KONARCIK

John Czayo was born 19 January 1873, in Dolna Zubreca, Trestna, Orava Austria-Hungary. He had one sister, Juliana. His mother died when he was a small child. His father remarried so there were some half-brothers. Because of a cruel stepmother he left home when he was six years old and hired out taking care of geese and sheep. As he grew older he worked as a mender of wares and then as an assistant in a blacksmith shop. When he was twenty-one it was compulsory for him to enter the military service. The army life was very rough and the soldiers received cruel treatment.

While training in Budapest he met Mary Konarcik and they were married in Budapest on 16 June 1898. When army life became unbearable he left the service and found his way to America. He worked in the coal mines of Providence and Marshwood, Pennsylvania about 1901.

Later he found work in the timberlands around Ashland, Wisconsin. He sent for his wife and three-year old son, John. The voyage was very rough especially for second class passengers and the little boy almost died during the trip. They were finally joined together in Ashland, Wisconsin.

Mrs. Mary Rose Czayo, John Jr., Mary, George M., Joe and "Sport" (dog).

When John Czayo and his friends heard about the coal fields in southern Illinois, he and his friends' families packed their belongings and bought their passage in a box car to Du Quoin, Illinois about 1904. He continually worked in Perry County coal mines around Du Quoin until 30 June 1938, when he was forced to quit due to pulmonary tuberculosis, now called miner's asthma or black lung. Although he worked in the deep pit coal mines for 34 years under the adverse conditions of those times, he was not allowed a pension or the benefits of black lung.

Mary Konarcik was born in Polhora, Ustia, Orafka, Austria-Hungary on 19 December 1879. When she was seventeen years old she left home to work in the city. She worked in Budapest as a hod carrier; however, because the lime caused sores on her hands and legs, she quit that work and worked as an assistant dressmaker. When her husband left to go to America she made a living for herself and son, John, by making ladies' hats and repairing them.

John and Mary Czayo received their naturalization papers in the City Court of Du Quoin, Perry County, Illinois on 16 January 1915.

Their family consisted of eight children: Anthony, John, Mary Ann (Hestand), George Mark, Joseph Francis, Anna Mary, Christopher and Frank Edward. Anthony died in infancy, John lived 26 years, Christopher died after 6 months, and George died 30 August 1995.

DALMAN

Rozalia Dalman born 19 February 1882 in Du Bois Twn. Washington County, Illinois was one of seven children born to Frank and Katharine Chlebowksi Dalman. Frank and Katharine both immigrated to Chicago around 1871 and their families. Frank was the son of Anton and Josephine Walcrewski Dalman. His parents and their other children: Joseph born abt. 1846 married Anna Maslowski; Anna born abt. 1854 married Joseph Gorski; Anton, 2 March 1856-14 February 1937 married Catherine Wachter; and Catherine born abt. 1861 settled in Lemont Twn., Cook County, Illinois around Sag Bridge and the city of Lemont. Frank married Katherine on 3 February 1873 at St. Stanislaus Kostka Catholic Church in Chicago. They resided in Sag Bridge where daughters, Mary 1873-7 February 1895 married John Kalas and Hedwiga 15 October 1875 - 21 October 1881 were born.

By February 1877 Frank and Katherine had moved to Du Bois Twn., Washington County, Illinois. There five children were born: Michael, 15 June 1877-20 December 1945 married Josephine Rybacki 4 November 1896 and Pele Marchwinski 5 May 1908; Frank 3 May 1880 - 10 June 1943 married Mary Bochantic 24 September 1907; Joseph 27 January 1884 - 17 January 1975 married Veronica Bochantic 26 September 1905 and Frances Gajewski 1914; Wladyslawa "Lottie" October 1885 - 22 March 1925 married Thomas Kuberski and Rozalia.

Rozalia or Rose as she was known was 18 years old when she married Joseph Grott on 7 May 1900 at St. Charles in Du Bois. Despite her diminutive build she gave birth to nine children with three of her sons more than two feet taller than her. Food was not always plentiful during those years. The children remember that livestock was raised primarily to be sold. Their tin lunch boxes carried sandwiches made of lard and bread. A Christmas orange was a much appreciated gift.

Joseph provided the children with wooden shoes he made and of course the girls wore dresses made from feedsacks. The shoes and the dresses were not uncommon among their schoolmates.

The family prospered and were able to build a new two story house to replace the small two room house with a summer kitchen out back that they moved into in 1918. Unfortunately the house burned in the 1940's shortly after Joseph and Rose had begun to build a smaller home across Route 51 from the original house on the north end of Tamaroa. They never finished the smaller home completely since Joseph became ill and died 16 June 1948. Rose's health had begun to fail and by 1950 she was bedridden with arthritis. During those years she had frequent visits from family, friends and acquaintances and correspondence from many who had left the area but still remembered her. On 21 July 1959, she passed away at home with several family members present. Rose and Joseph had 17 grandchildren, 30 great grandchildren, and 42 great, great grandchildren to this date. DAVIS-MUENCH

William Davis according to the US Census was born in Virginia (VA) abt 1803-4 of Welch descent and married Sarah Muench also born in Virginia abt 1808 of German descent. In the US Census of 1880, William and Sarah were living with their daughter Louisa T. and J.J. Fletcher and not found later. They had eight children: Guilford (1829—); Elizabeth (1833—); and Sarah Jane (9 September 1836 - 10 October 1903), wed 17 August 1836 to John Martin; all three born in Virginia. William, Sarah and family were in Perry County, Illinois in 1840; other children: Margaret Julet (1839—) wed 20 August 1857 William Henry Smith Jr; Emily (1845—); John S. (1849—) married Nancy B. and their children were Cyrus, Cletus C. and Bertha V.; Louisa T. (1851—) married J. J. Fletcher (1850—, Tennessee) and their children were: Sophia (1872); Ettie (1878); and Roy W. (1879); all three born in Illinois; and Chafa S. (1856) - all born in Illinois.

William and Sarah were members of the Swanwick Baptist Church from 1843 till it ceased to exist. "Uncle Billy Davis" was its clerk. There were 11 original members of Oak Grove Baptist Church which had its beginning 3 May 1864. According to W. S. D. Smith in about 1913 recalling the Church history, their first house of worship was a log cabin of round logs, then a larger hewed log house which served them until in 1886 when their present house was built (not sure, but there may have been a more recent house built).

There is another Davis family mentioned in the Perry County family book previously issued. The father is Isham David of Welch descent, settled in Virginia. He married Miss Gilliam. Family moved to Warren County, Kentucky in 1808 and then Isham died. The only child mentioned was Richard Gilliam Davis born 1806, Virginia. He married Mary Elizabeth Bradley. In 1828, he came to Illinois and settled in Randolph County near Steelville. In 1849, he came to Perry County and died near village of Denmark June 1851. Richard Gilliam was an ordained minister in the Baptist Church. He married in Jackson and his child is Richard M. Davis.

William Davis was born 1803 in Virginia, and Richard Gilliam Davis was born in 1808 both of Virginia. William was on Perry County's 1840 Census and Richard came to Illinois in 1828. William was a Baptist. According to Sarah Elizabeth Davis, when she was a child, her "Grandpa Davis" held Sunday School classes in his home and was later Sunday School Superintendent. (Could be time between Swanwick Baptist Church's demise and start up of Oak Grove Baptist. Both men were Baptist, so it's feasible they are of the same family. DAVIS-SANDERS

Patrick Joseph Davis married Martha C. Sanders 11 August 1859. They lived just south of Tamaroa, at first living in the home of Isaac Young. Patrick was an honest and upright man who provided for his family through farming and tilling the soil. To this union were born three girls and one boy: Edna Ann, Martha Elizabeth, Franklin Patrick (they were twins), and Mayme. Martha is thought to have died during childbirth in the 1870's. Sadly, the exact dates of death, or the burial places are at this time unknown for Patrick and Martha Davis.

The parents of Patrick and Martha are among those sturdy, stout hearted and courageous pioneers who labored together to help establish the early frontier lands of Illinois.

Patrick Joseph Davis was the second son of John and Elizabeth (Huggins) Davis. John Davis served with the Twelfth Infantry that was mustered into three years of service 1 August 1861. This Illinois Infantry fought bravely in many Civil War battles. They served as an important part of McArthur's Brigade fighting at Fort Donnelson, the battle of Shiloh and the siege of Corinth. Listed among the "Men from Perry County - Muster Roll Company F" was John H. Davis, missing in action at Sand Mountain, Alabama, 30 April 1863.

Patrick's mother, Elizabeth, was the daughter of Robert Huggins, who came to Illinois from South Carolina in 1803 and lived for some years in the Irish settlement. It is reported he then moved to the Opossumden Prairie. Robert was widely known as a very skilled backwoods huntsman, comparable to Daniel Boone. Elizabeth Davis' mother was Catherine Lively, who came from the Joseph Lively family which had settled in the Opposundun Prairie in 1823. The Lively's originated in the Abbeville District, South Carolina, coming to Illinois around 1805.

Martha Sanders Davis was the daughter of Thomas and Jemima Sanders. Thomas Sanders' name appears often in the early governmental and educational administration/development of Perry County. After the untimely death of wife, Jemima, Thomas married Mrs. Martha Stone, widow of Albert Stone, who already had four children: Zachariah, Willard, Ada and Edward.

The Davis/Sanders ancestors helped to establish, nurture, and maintain our personal and religious freedoms, at the same time imparting to their children the basic fundamentals of integrity, strong work ethics, good moral convictions, and belief in God. Among family group names formed from this original Davis/Sanders union are: Huie, Davis, Jeremiah and Salisbury.

DECKER-JOHNSON

John Decker was born 3 March 1879 in Perry County, Illinois. His father was Jacob Decker born 1844 in Germany. His mother was Maria Martin and they were married 26 November 1867 in Pinckneyville, Illinois. Their children were: Kate, Peter born 1875; Henry and John born 1879. Maria died in childbirth. Jacob remarried Josephine Martin Mangin on 11 January 1881 in Pinckneyville. She was Maria's sister. A son, George was born 1885. She raised the family.

John grew up in Perry County near Pinckneyville. He moved to Bureau County near New Bedford, Illinois around 1900. He married Nellie Josephine Johnson Kolb on 27 February 1901. They had seven children: William, born 20 January 1902, died 29 December 1921 of heart failure and typhoid fever. Mary Melvina, born 9 August 1904 died summer 1983. Edith Leota born 17 May 1906 is still living. John Clark born 13 June 1908 is still living. Florence Irene, born 30 September 1910 died 2 October 1985. Alvin born 31 July 1912 died 1950 and Emma Ruth born 15 August 1915 is still living. Alvin also served his country in World War II in Europe.

John Decker and Nellie Josephine Decker.

John and Nellie farmed most of their lives near New Bedford, Manlius, Thomas and Tampico. Their last years of farming were done near Kewanee, Illinois. Before moving to town, John got to work for the machinery and conveyor company during World War II. He had a good sense of humor and was quite good at telling stories. Sundays were spent with his children and grandchildren all gathered around to listen while he played old time songs and hymns on his fiddle. He was really quite good and could entertain all, on the harmonica. When John got tired, Florence would play the piano or organ and all would sing hymns for an hour.

Nellie had what's called green thumb. She raised gorgeous flowers, Christmas Cactus and grew great gardens. She raised tomatoes and potatoes by the bucket. Nellie also was a good cook as well as a wonderful crocheter. She also did quilting. Her dinners and holidays were fabulous. Nellie never believed in sparing the rod and spoiling the child. She had rules.

Their children all attended school and church on Sunday. Box lunch auctions, ball as well as other games of all sorts were enjoyed on Sundays by their family while growing up.

They have eight grandchildren and fifteen great grandchildren. The list goes even further than that. Edith's daughter Helen is a graduate nurse. She has three children. All graduated from college. Florence has two girls and a son Richard. He served his country in all parts of the world for twenty eight years in the Air Force. A daughter, Karen, is a minister in Kansas. Another daughter raised purebred Arabian horses and is now retired. Emma's daughter, Virginia, graduated from the University of California at Los Angeles and is in the real estate business. Her son also graduated from college. Mary's daughter, Ruth, is retired and has four daughters. All graduated from school. John Clark has two children. A daughter, Nancy, who runs a nursing home and his son, Alvin, is deceased. He left children. The great great grandchildren are all in the process of building a better life for themselves.

I believe Grandpa John and Grandma Nellie would be very proud of their family today and wouldn't Grandpa and Grandma have something great to talk about. Submitted by Beulah B. Porter

He is the third of eight children to John—Degenhardt (1875-1969) and Ida Friedricka Wilhelmina Niederbracht (1891-1966). His grandparents are Valentin Degenhardt (1850-1932) and Julia Mann Hess (1847-1926), and Friedrich Gottlieb Niederbracht (1834-1917) and Dorothea A ?Harges/Krumwiede? (1847-1905).

Eddie became a devout Catholic like his other siblings and demonstrated this by getting two tattoos, one for each forearm. A cross was on his right forearm, and clasped hands with his initials EVD was on left forearm.

Ed enlisted into the US Navy in January 1942. As a GM3c after boot camp, his first and only duty assignment was out of Brooklyn, New York, attached to the USS Oklahoma. He was assigned to be a member of the Armed Guard Unit on board the Armed Merchant Vessel SS Oklahoma.

The US Oklahoma was sent to the Atlantic Ocean where it was torpedoed in the aft section on 28 March 1945. Ed served just over 3 years of his 6 year service when the ship sank taking his life along with 49 others. The letter sent to Ed's parents from his surviving Lieutenant stated that those in the aft section most "reasonably" died instantaneously "without suffering" and the only life boat launched rescued the 22 others who were amid ship at the time of the blast.

DOMINICK-DIGNATH

Caroline Dignath married Carl Dominick in Germany. Carl was the first miner killed in Foster mine. Caroline was born in Germany in 1861. Caroline and Carl had three children born in Germany: Fritz, August, and Augusta. (Eve Kompa Dignath told her daughter Katherine Pflanz that Caroline had had three children out of wedlock in Germany and had given them up for adoption. This was confirmed by Mari Dignath Mucha to Katherine.) In the fall of 1907, Katherine Dignath was playing in the yard when she saw a dray coming with people following it. She ran into the house to tell her mother that some gypsies were coming. Her mother looked out and cried for joy that those weren't gypsies - they were the relatives from Germany: Caroline and Carl Dominick with Fritz, August and Augusta; and Marie Mucha with Charles, Fred, Marie and Augusta. They had arrived on the 4 pm train and the dray driver had taken them to St. Johns to a man named Ignatz. He finally figured out where they wanted to go and directed the dray driver to the William Dignath home. The dray was carrying a large gray trunk with all of their belongings. After Carl Dominick got killed in the Foster mine, Caroline took up with a fellow by the name of Stanly Shenkoviak? But they evidently never married. Submitted by Eric Pflanz

MIKE DOOLEY

Mike Dooley was born 18 July 1887 in Veliki Poganac, Croatia, son of Nikola and Mila Dulikravice, and named Mihail. Nikola (1865-1917) and Mila (1864-1930) were married 6 November 1883. Mike had a number of siblings but all died in infancy except brothers Joe and Sam who were killed in a war with Russia.

At the age of 18, Mike emigrated from Croatia, sailed from Liverpool, England abroad the S.S. Cedric on 14 March 1906, and arrived as the Port of New York (Ellis Island) 24 March. He had $20 in his possession and the ship's manifest listed his destination "Clarksburg, Richmond, Virginia." It is probable he had a mining job there. An Illinois Miners Examining Board Certificate indicates he had nine years experience when issued March 1916. It is believed he first worked at the West Mines in Johnston City, Illinois, then the Majestic Mine in Old Du Quoin.

Fleta Coffel was born 30 May 1899 in Du Quoin, Illinois, eldest daughter of George and Sarah (Branum) Coffel. She attended the Sacred Heart and John B. Ward schools.

Fleta first met Mike at a party at Anna Moyer's home in Old Du Quoin. Their second meeting was the result of matchmaking by friends, each being invited separately to help peel apples for apple butter. They courted by horse and buggy about six to eight months before marrying 15 February 1916.

Mike once ran an open-air theater on the West Side. It was fenced in but all seating was outdoors. About 1917 he bought a store from E. E. Summers named the "Little Red Goose" at 741 East Park Street. Mike made it a grocery/general store, selling also cosmetics, yard goods, patent medicines and toys at Christmas time. His daughters were thrilled each year to go with him to the wholesaler in St. Louis (first ride on an elevator) to choose the toys. He owned additional markets on East Cole Street and in St. John's. During the Depression, he fed many families whose fathers were without employment. When asked if he thought all the credit extended was getting out of hand, Mike simply replied, "Those children have to eat."

He developed land across the street from the store and family home, building one or two houses at a time. He was also a City Alderman in Du Quoin for some years. For a young immigrant who arrived in this country with $20 and unable to speak English, he was by all accounts a most successful man.

Many family reunions were held on Fleta's birthday (original Memorial Day) in the big side yard of the family home at 737 East Park Street. Long tables and chairs were rented from the church and funeral home. Grandparents, aunts, uncles and cousins gathered from far and near for the visit, bringing covered dishes for the feast.

Mike and Fleta were good parents and highly valued education and religious upbringing for their children: Louise (1919-1982), Audrey (1923-1996), Betty (1924-), Ruth (1926-) and Roberta (1928-). Mike died 25 March 1951; Fleta died 9 December 1981. Both are buried at Sunset Memorial Park. Submitted by Roberta D. Torrence

DRNEC

As the last decade of the 19th century was beginning, so began the journey of a lifetime for two young children, James Drnec and Tresa Davis, unknown to each other at this point in their lives, were migrating with their families from Bohemia to the United States. After coming through Ellis Island both families came to settle in Coal City, a small city in northern Illinois. James and Tresa met and grew up together. They married on 9 September 1903. They had four children: 2 sons, James and Frank and 2 daughters, Helen and Elsie. Elsie did not live to see her first birthday.

To R: Frank Drnec, James Drnec, Sr., Helen (Drnec) Moyers, Tresa Drnec, and James Drnec, Jr.

In 1916 the family moved from Coal City to Du Quoin. In 1921, the premanufactured Sears home the family left in Coal City was taken apart in two sections and put on two railroad flatcars. When the house arrived in Du Quoin it was set up at 623 West Park Street where it still stands today. James, Sr. was employed as a coal miner at the Majestic Mine until 1931. He then found employment as a night watchman near Chicago and moved the family to Maplewood. They recall memories of a neighbor from across the street being gunned down "Mafia Style" while they lived there. Once again, due to a lack of employment, the family moved back to West Park Street in 1933. James, Sr. and the two sons, Jim and Frank, eventually found employment at the Blue Bell Packing company. In 1935 Helen was employed by Pied and Nancy Naumer and worked as their housekeeper for the next 15 years. Within the next few years, Jim and Frank moved back up north to Coal City. Jim married Hazel Knupp from Zeigler, Illinois on 20 July 1929. They had 2 daughters, Ruth Ann and Janie. Jim was employed as a truck driver for his cousin and then went to work for the elementary school. Frank married Emily Cerny from Coal City, Illinois on 4 June 1938. They had 2 children, a son Jim and a daughter Karen. He was employed in the shop at a Peabody Coal company strip mine. Helen was married to Bill Moyers of Mulkeytown, Illinois. They had 2 daughters: Carolyn and Rebecca. Bill was also an employee of the Blue Bell Packing Company and was later employed at the Coca-Cola Bottling Company. Helen remained a homemaker in Mulkeytown until 1967 when she returned to work as a housekeeper for the late Jake Naumer. She was also employed for several years by Mary Ann Hess at Fairview Lanes in Du Quoin, Illinois.

James and Tresa remained on Park Street, next door to the Schleuter family, where they had the pleasure of listening to young Charles practicing to become the renown musician he is today. There are many good memories of time spent with family and friends. James enjoyed setting on the front porch watching little league ballgames at the West Park School. In the evenings the family would gather around the radio and listen to Harry Carey and Jack Buck announce the Cardinal games.

James Drnec Sr. Passed away in 1960 and in the later 1960's Tresa sold the house and moved back up to Coal City to live with her son, Jim. Tresa passed away in 1971. If James and Tresa were here today, they would still be welcoming their family, including 9 great grandchildren and 12 great great grandchildren into their home at 623 West Park Street, Du Quoin, Illinois.

DRY

There have been some changes in the Dry family since the first book came out. Maurice and Helen sold their home in Perry County and moved to Eureka, Indiana in Woodford, County. They reside in Maple Lawn, a retirement center. At present time, they live in a cottage, but if health changes, apartment living or health care is available. Van service is available for shopping, banking, trips out of town for various activities. It has caused several habit changes but we are happy and satisfied.

Son, Frank, and family live in Ruanuke which is about 12 miles away. Frank is still employed by state FFA. Shirley, his wife, is dietary supervisor at Apostolic Christian Home in Eureka. Melissa is a sophomore at the University of Illinois. She is going into an Agricultural field. Julie is a freshman at Illinois Central College. Ralph Alexander Dunn was born 28 February 1914 in Pinckneyville, Illinois the first child of M. Arthur Dunn (1886-1940) and Florence (Wilks) Dunn (1890-1949). The Dunns had five other children: Marion, Mildred, Margaret, James and Olive.

Ralph's paternal grandparents were William Edward (1844-1910) born near Toronto, Canada and Lucy A. (Gordon) Dunn. William E. Dunn was a veteran of the Civil War, Co. G. 12th Illinois Infantry.

Maternal grandparents were James Alexander Wilks (1839-1929) and Olive (Primm) Wilks (1854-1934). James A. Wilks was also a veteran of the Civil War; he also had a brother, Richard, who was captured and died in Andersonville Prison in 1865.

Ralph married Ellen Mae Fones in 1935. Ellen was born in Abdington, Illinois on 25 May 1916, the second child of Albert George and Opal Maude (Taylor) Fones. Albert and Opal had eleven other children. Albert Fones made his livelihood farming, saw milling, carpentry, and such.

Ellen's paternal grandparents were John Rolf Fones (1835-1904) and Elizabeth Henrietta Voderbrugge (1868-1932). Her maternal grandparents were Lorenzo Dahl and Jane Abbot Taylor.

Ralph and Ellen began their married life in Matthews, a small community about ten miles south of Pinckneyville on the Illinois Central Railroad. Ralph's father, Arthur, owned and operated the general store and served as Postmaster. In the community there was a small Baptist Church where the Dunns made up a large part of the congregation.

Their first child, Florence Roberta, was born 27 June 1936 in Matthews. In early 1939, Ellen and Ralph moved to Pinckneyville where Ralph worked as a truck driver on highway construction when Route 127 from Pinckneyville to Nashville was built. Ralph was president of the local Teamsters Union. Construction wages at that time were .75 cents per hour. Their second child, Gerald Ralph was born 12 May 1939.

As the highway construction was nearing completion, Ralph and his brothers, Marion and James had an opportunity to bid on their first joint venture. The contractor was just finishing the subway at the south edge of Pinckneyville on Route 127. The Dunn Brothers netted $800.00 by sodding the subway. The $800 just covered the cost of buying a concrete block machine. The business expanded to encompass ready mix concrete, trucking, coal hauling, etc. and the Dunn Brothers were off to successful business venture, which expanded to selling Kaiser-Frazer auto, Pontiacs and International trucks.

Ralph and Ellen had two more children: daughters Ellen Catherine (born 1943) and Janet (born 1945).

The Dunn Brothers expanded their business to Du Quoin, Murphysboro, and Carbondale. Ralph, Ellen and their family moved to Du Quoin in 1955.

In 1960, Ralph helped organize United Cerebral Palsy of Illinois, serving as state president from 1960-63. His state wide acquaintances led to his involvement in state politics.

Ralph's interest in Republican politics occupied most of his time for the next 35 years. He served as precinct committeeman, delegate to the 1968 Republican Convention, delegate to the Sixth Illinois Constitutional Convention (1969-70). Ralph was elected to the State of Illinois House of Representatives where he served six terms (1972-84). In 1984, 1988 and 1992, he was elected to the Illinois State Senate. He resigned from the Senate in 1995 and served in the office of State Treasurer until 30 April 1997.

DYER

Dr. Lewis Dyer was a Civil War surgeon from Du Quoin. Dr. Lewis Dyer served as surgeon for the 81st Illinois Vol. Inf. Reg.. It was organized from the Southern Illinois counties of Perry, Jackson, Williamson, and Franklin, etc. They were mustered in 26 August 1862 and were mustered out in Chicago, Illinois on 5 August 1865, the end of the Civil War.

The good Doctor left his Du Quoin medical practice to take care of his friends and neighbors during the war effort. According to the "1860 U.S. Census of Perry County, he left at home Susan M. (age 52), Henry W. (age 29), Louisa N. (age 16) and Lucy (age 11).

Dr. L. Dyer and his 1st wife, Laura A. Purdy (born 1810, died 11 October 1896) were originally from the State of Vermont. The IOOF Cemetery Book reported that he was born 1807 in Shaftsbury, Bennington, County, Vermont. He died on 11 October 1896. She was a Presbyterian. They moved to Ohio, then Iowa, before coming to Du Quoin, Illinois, about 1857. [It is assumed that Henry W. Dyer was their son] his occupation was listed as clerk in the 1860 census, and he was also from Vermont. If the wedding date of Dr. Dyer and his 1st wife were to be known, Henry might have been a brother. The two daughters were born in Ohio. Note: Laura died some 3 years before the m.i. of the 81st.

Dr. Lewis' 2nd wife was Elizabeth Campbell. Her parents were Samuel and Julia (Grains) Campbell.

After the truce was signed, Dr. Lewis Dyer returned to his family and medical practice in Du Quoin. He was often called upon to attest to the accuracy of claims for pensions and to otherwise verify war stories. There were many other veterans around to share their support.

One example of his valuable assistance was in the application of the widow of John R. Lipe to the State of Illinois for a pension. Dr. L. Dyer wrote a lengthy letter explaining how he had known John R. before the war as a farmer in the Du Quoin, Illinois area. He attested to his trustworthy character, witnessed his devotion to duty during the war, and vouched that, indeed, he had continued to treat him for ailments in civilian life that had begun while on active duty. John's widow received the pension.

The letter from Doctor Louis Dyer and other supportive notes by several neighbors can be found in the Perry County Court House: File #_____, Record #_____.

There is more information and a good biographical sketch in the "1883 History of Randolph, Monroe and Perry Counties of Illinois".

EISENHAUER-BOST

Leonard and Inez's genealogy is detailed in the Volume 1, History of Perry County, Illinois. Since the first volume they have gained new family members who will be in other biographies in this book. Leonard retired in 1981 from District 13 and Inez retired in 1989 from Southern Illinois University after 21 years. In the years between volumes this couple was involved in recording county cemeteries. They are both long time members of the Perry County Historical Society which was attempting to record all of the cemeteries in the county. In 1992 the couple read the tombstones in the Sacred Heart Cemetery, about 1,800, and Inez bought a computer to put the information in book form. (She had no idea what she was getting into.) However, with much support from computer-wise friends, mainly Mike Francois, who gave such wonderful help, and knowledgeable grandsons, the book was produced. This led to recording McElvain and Old Du Quoin Cemetery, Du Quoin area, and St. Bruno's in Pinckneyville. They were sometimes accompanied by one of their daughters, Vicki Morris, Gayle Eisenhauer, or grandson, Gene Eisenhauer.

Inez and Leonard Eisenhauer.

With no more cemeteries to read, Inez turned to other subjects—anything historical—old letters, lists of soldiers in various wars, et cetera. When that sort of thing ran out, she moved on to the census of Perry County, 1870, 1880, and 1900. Since the 1890 census had burned, she and Donna Vuichard did the real estate records. Donna has been constant with support and assistance on these projects.

Between times, the couple did genealogy and a 220 page family history book was produced from their efforts. Inez always did the book work, while Leonard did the leg work or drove her places, waiting patiently while information from ancestors' tombstones was recorded or records were searched. He also had to wait on more than one meal while she was typing. (Strange that typing was her most passionate hate in high school but now she spends a great time of each day doing just that.) One of her great triumphs was finding all of the siblings of Leonard's great-grandfather, five came to America while five remained in Germany.

After one year in the Navy during World War 2, Leonard spent most of his working days as an auto mechanic, about 26 years at the Copeland Motors. When he decided he'd had enough of that, he worked as grounds keeper at Scuttle Inn and the Perry County (now Red Hawk) golf course. He spent some time at District 13, Illinois State Police as a maintenance worker. He loved hunting, fishing, and doing carpenter work, building a fine set of cabinets in two of their homes. One of these homes was in Vergennes, the other their present home in Du Quoin where they moved in 1958. Many antiques were purchased and refinished for this last home with Leonard doing the repair work and Inez most of the rest. This home has been the scene of great family get-togethers with children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren filling the house with laughter and chatter.

Another interest is e-mail—with Inez doing the computer work and Leonard reading the results. Contact is maintained with many relatives in Canada, where Inez was born, daughter LT, (Linda) and her husband, Ralph Hill, a career Navy man stationed in Japan, and an ever-growing list of correspondents throughout the United States. Almost every day finds them at a local café chatting with friends and keeping up with the town news. Inez also loves crafts, handwork, growing flowers, and reading an average of three books a week.

Leonard watches much television these days, while Inez argues and fights with the computer and its 'glitches,' which always seem to be a part of the life of anyone dealing with such equipment. But it is so much fun!!!

Mary and Lawrence Ellison of Du Quoin, Illinois will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary this year on 17 January. Lawrence Elbert, the third son of Elbert and Stella (Quick) Ellison was born on 16 May 1924 in Cottonwood, Gallatin County, Illinois. Mary Elizabeth the first daughter and second child of Freeman and Nola (Langford) Reeder of Eldorado, was born on 1 April 1923 in Saline County, Illinois. Having lived most of their lives in the southeastern part of Southern Illinois, they moved across the state to Tamaroa in 1965, when Lawrence retained a job in Du Quoin working for the Phelps Dodge Cable Company. In 1975, Mary and Lawrence moved to Du Quoin where they reside today.

Lawrence and Mary Ellison.

The Ellison's raised six children during their marriage. Two daughters, Pearl and Joan were Mary's children by a previous marriage and were adopted by Lawrence upon their marriage. Nancy Ann was Lawrence and Mary's first child, followed by Lawrence Stephen, Stella Jean, and Thomas Richard.

By the time the Ellison's moved to Perry County the two oldest daughters were already married and had begun families of their own. When the other children began school in the Tamaroa district, Nancy was a senior, Steve a sophomore, Stella a freshman, and Tom was in the fifth grade.

Lawrence and Mary Ellison.

Nancy graduated in 1966 from Tamaroa High School and in 1967 married Ronald Arthur Keller, son of Arthur and Madge (Clampet) Keller of Tamaroa. Their daughter, Katrina LeeAnn born in 1974 became the wife of David Allen Waldman. They are the proud parents of Zachary Caleb who is soon to have a sister or brother sometime around March of 1998. They now reside in Mt. Vernon.

Lawrence Steven, known to everyone as Steve is self employed and owns Steve's Trash Service in Tamaroa. Steve's wife is the former Patricia Lou George, daughter of Louis and Rosie (Knapp) George of Tamaroa. They are the parents of Lawrence Edward (Larry), Joseph Wayne (Joe), and Robert Allen (Bobby). Each of these children are now married and still reside in Tamaroa. Larry wed Christine Bullington in 1995 and they have two children: Tyler Ryan and Taylor Dylan. Tracey Lynn Hammond became the wife of Joe Ellison on 9 March 1996 in Du Quoin and just recently gave birth to their first child, a son Nicholas Joseph on 21 December 1997. The youngest son, Bobby married Vicki Lynn Wilson and they are the proud parents of one child, Jeremiah Stephen. They are expecting their second child in February of 1998.

On 1 June 1967, Mary and Lawrence's youngest daughter, Stella Jean was killed in a car accident while taking her mother to Du Quoin to do the Saturday shopping errands. Mary, my mother, almost lost her life as well, but by the grace of God, she lived and has surprised her family, friends, and doctors with her continued good health throughout the following years. This incident left quite an impression on the young students of Tamaroa High School. They learned just how fast and swift one of their peers could be taken away from them, just days after school had dismissed for the summer. Even now in 1998, over 30 years have passed and people have not forgotten, for often I am asked for details of the accident and how my mother is doing now.

Lawrence and Mary's youngest child, Thomas Richard is the father of two boys, Chad Alan born in 1976 and Scott Michael born in Pordenone, Italy in 1983 while his father was serving in the Air Force in Aviano, Italy. Their mother is the former Carrie Lynn Rice of Du Quoin and today they reside in their recently purchased home on Mulberry Street in Du Quoin.

Mary, my mother has devoted her life to the raising of her family and has been a loving wife to my father. She has often commented that she would have loved to raise a dozen or more children, as that was her hobby in life. My father's many occupations have included that of a farmer, logger and sawmill operator, farm stockman, oil well painter, cable supervisor at Phelps Dodge Cable, and meat packer for Blue Bell industries in Du Quoin. But perhaps the occupation most people of Perry County will remember him for is that of self employed washer and dryer repairman. Over the years that he and my mother have lived in Perry County, he has serviced many families by keeping their washers and dryers repaired so that they may have an easier way of life. Many of his customers have often told me that if he couldn't fix it, no one could. When he is not working on washers or dryers, most of the time he can be found at Rend Lake fishing for the "big one," while mother, unable these days to join him, sits home waiting for him to bring home his "catch of the day." Submitted by Nancy Ann (Ellison) Keller

EUBANKS-MOODY

A postscript to the article written in the Perry County History Book, page 103 referring to William W. Barber-Eliza Mills Family History, page 36 submitted by Dorothy (Eubanks) Nicolaides, older sister of Ellsworth (Edison) Eubanks.

Dorothy is deceased and her son, Henry, has moved back to Carbondale. He has opened a Chiropractic Office in Carbondale with wife Cheryl. Older son, Ian, is going to Chiropractic school in St. Louis that his father attended. Cheryl trained at a school in Houston.

Ellsworth is also deceased (24 June 1990). Although we married a week after meeting, we remained together until his death. I reside in Du Quoin and now have Parkinson disease. Since the first History Book, I (Eileen) have been accepted in DAR through the Bird family. My grandfather, George Bird, was the connection.

Jack and Wilma Ewing.

Eileen Moody and Ellsworth Eubanks.

My daughter, Julie Mae, was divorced and has one son, Keith Alan Pyron. Later she married Bill Clark who died after 11 months of marriage. Julie works as an accountant. She is married to Michael McKinney and lives in Christopher, Illinois. Julie has two granddaughters, Ashlee and Wendi, and a grandson, Dylan Keith. Like me, she likes to read but also has a talent for crafts when she has time.

Son, Duane Ellsworth, was not married at the time of the last History Book, was married on 27 December 1992 to Evelyn Faye Herrick from Franklin, Nebraska. They met at Thanksgiving in Dallas, where she was living with a son, Monte White, by a former marriage. Duane, a mining engineer, is living and working in Indonesia in Borneo. He and Evelyn get stateside for a month once a year and time off for occasional rest and relaxation when time permits and is needed.

Monte is in Texas A & M College at Bryan, Texas.

Duane is known as Odie, a nickname from high school basketball teammates. Duane likes most all sports, hunting and fishing, but is forced to rely on golf in Indonesia. Submitted by Eileen Moody Eubanks

EWING-SCHRADER

Jack Ewing, son of the late George and Ollie Ewing, was raised in Browns, Illinois where he attended elementary school and Edwards County High School in Albion, Illinois. He is the youngest of four children. In his youth, he worked at a local awning factory and was a corn detasseler. He then worked for the United States Postal Service in Chicago at the Midway Airport. Later, he spent many years as a Postal Clerk on the Louisville/Nashville Railroad, sorting mail on a daily run from St. Louis to Nashville, Tennessee. When the railroad phased out of the mail business, Jack transferred to the main Post Office in St. Louis, Missouri and then at Lambert Field sorting air mail. It was through his career there, he met Wilma Schrader, a daughter of the late William T. and Clara Schrader of the rural Conant area. (See family history on page 304 and 305 of the Volume I Perry County History Book).

The Schraders lived in the Van Brunt school district. Wilma was the fifth child of seven children, and after working early in her life at the International Shoe Factory of Steeleville, Illinois, for a few years in the late 1940s, she went to St. Louis, Missouri and worked for the Rexall Drug Company. Later she became employed by the United States Postal Service, and met Jack at the airport terminal sorting mail. They were married on 2 October 1972 and lived in Creve Coeur, Missouri. When they reached their retirement goals, they yearned for a small town atmosphere and settled in the Oxbow Subdivision west of Pinckneyville in 1994. They busy themselves with their large lawn and garden, as well as church work, and travel a bit when they desire.

FEIK-DAVIS

Martha Marie (Davis) Feik born near Crenshaw Crossing north of Marion, Illinois in Williamson County is the oldest of the four children of William A. and Nellie P. (Throgmorton) Davis. Marie has one sister living; she is Mrs. Betsy D. Smith of St. Louis, Missouri. A brother, Dr. John W. Davis of Blacksburg, Virginia, passed away 1 February 1998, and a sister, Mrs. Mary R. Thomas of Pinckneyville, passed away 16 March 1998.

Early in life Marie decided to become a schoolteacher. This meant attending Marion High School until graduating in 1933 and then going on to college at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale. Financial circumstances forced Marie to take a two year course in college and begin teaching rather than staying in college for a four year degree. Years later in 1965 after taking night classes, college correspondence courses, and attending several Summer sessions, Marie got her B.S. degree in education from Southern Illinois University.

In 1936 Marie began her teaching career in Perry County at the one room Round Prairie School north of Pinckneyville. While teaching there, Marie met William "Billy" Feik. They were married in 1939 and Marie moved to Perry County in 1940 and has lived here ever since. In 1945 a son Lance was born to Billy and Marie Feik. William Feik passed away in 1978.

Marie's teaching career, besides Round Prairie School includes four years at La Master School north of Marion in Williamson County, five years at Cross School, nine years at Nation School, and ending with 17 years at Community Consolidated School #212. In 1960 Nation School district along with the Wylie, Duncan, and Eicholz districts were combined into Community Consolidated School #212. Marie Feik was named as principal of the new school and later Superintendent and remained in that position until her retirement from teaching in 1976.

In the 17 years of teaching at Community Consolidated #212, Marie would like to mention the names of some teachers she had the privilege of working with. Their names are: Miss Irene Mentel, Mrs. Zelma Jones, Mrs. Pernie Hensley, Mrs. Regina Grabowski, Mr. Dennis Wuehler, Mr. David Dickey, Mr. George Hopkins, Jr., and Mrs. Sue Ibendahl.

During her 36 years of teaching Marie met many intelligent, kind, polite, and lovable students who became a part of her life. Marie has never regretted becoming a teacher. Both her mother and her brother were teachers.

Since retiring Marie has used her time to catch up on reading the better authors and Bible reading. She also spends time on embroidery of pillowcases and quilt blocks. She has recently become a member of the First Apostolic Church in Pinckneyville.

FISHER-POIROT

John Thomas (Tom) Fisher was born on 1 October 1905 in Tamaroa, Illinois. He was the third of six sons and two daughters, born to Joseph and Melissa Pugh Fisher. His brothers were Harry, Charles, Frank, George, and Lee. His sisters were Marie Fisher Feltmeyer and Melissa. Their mother died during childbirth with their sister, Melissa. Frank, who resides in Marissa, Illinois, is the only surviving sibling.

Arillia and Tom Fisher.

When their mother died in 1921, Tom went to live with a family in Belleville to earn his board and keep. He had to quit school at an early age to live. His father could not afford to raise so many children. Their dad died in 1931.

Tom met Arillia Mae Poirot of Belleville, Illinois. Months later, on 15 February 1928, Tom and Arillia were married in Tamaroa. They had six children, James Julius (Jim), Thomas Kent (Jack), Betty Ann (now Rooney), Daniel Lee, Ann Merre (now Schubert), and Katherine Julia (now Sweitzer). The six children are all surviving.

Tom and Arillia lived in a few places in Illinois before moving to California for a couple years. When they returned to Illinois, they moved to Kaskaskia Island. Two of the vivid stories they told were of Tom walking across the frozen Mississippi to get to Chester. Another was of all the many floods and the frightening boat rides through the high water to go to Chester. They made many friends on the Island before finally tiring of the struggle with the floods. They moved to Tamaroa in 1947 when Kathy was just a few months old.

Tom was a farmer and a foundry worker. In those days, you did almost any work one could find to support a family. In the 1950s, he became foreman of Keene Housemoving Company in Pinckneyville and worked there until his death. Arillia established the school cafeteria at the new St. Bruno's School in the early 1950s and was head cook there for many years. Father McCormick was then pastor of St. Bruno's. Arillia later became a nurse's aide at Pinckneyville Community Hospital.

Tom and Arillia moved to a more rural farm, west of Tamaroa in the early 1970s. It was on their farm that "Air Illinois" plane crashed on 11 November 1983, killing all eleven people on board. Life was never the same for the Fisher family, nor for many other families. It was a tragedy that affected much of Perry County.

Tom died 19 May 1984. Arillia died 24 October 1987. The descendants of Tom and Arillia, besides the six children, are twenty grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. Jim and Ann live in Tamaroa. Jack lives in Perryville, Missouri. Betty has a home in Moro, Illinois. Dan lives in Cape Girardeau, Missouri (Dutchtown), and Kathy has a home in Cobden, Illinois. Submitted by Kathy Sweitzer

FONTANA-DAL SANTO

Guerino (Bill) Fontana was born in Forni, Italy, on 4 November 1878, the son of Valentino and Elizabetha (Fabretto) Fontana. Linda Dal Santo was born in Velo d' Astico on 9 April 1886, the daughter of Domenico and Giuseppina (Sandona) Dal Santo. Both villages of origin are located at the foot of the mountains in the province of Vicenza in northeastern Italy.

Guerino lived in Tonezza, a nearby mountain village, for a time before he left Italy. He and his only siblings, two brothers, Giovanni and Giuseppe, built a stone house with three apartments at that time. Linda had a twin brother, Lindo, and a sister named Augusta and unknown other siblings. Her family was in the tailoring business, and Linda, when young, did fancy handwork on cassocks for priests in Italy.

Guerino immigrated to the United States, arriving in New York City on 28 March 1902, with his brother, Giovanni. They sailed from Le Havre, France, aboard the S.S. Savoia for 6 days, and each had $30 and intentions of joining a cousin and finding employment as miners.

After their arrival in New York City, they moved on to work in Ohio. They were joined there by other men from their birthplace, among those a friend, Alberto Canale; but most of them eventually returned to Italy. Alberto also returned to Italy, and kept books until his death for Guerino's small plot of land on a mountainside in Tonezza.

Guerino came to Pinckneyville to work as a miner; he was listed in the 1910 census as being a 30 year old single man residing there as a boarder. In 1913, Linda immigrated to the United States and they were married in a civil ceremony on 27 December 1913! (On 6 July 1935, they were married in St. Bruno's Catholic Church by Father Joseph Fontana, S.V.D.)

Guerino worked as a coal miner for about 30 years. Linda kept busy rearing their seven surviving children. As a hobby, Guerino was quite adept in the art of grafting and pruning grapevines, and making wine from those grapes. Linda's children remember her as being quite generous, even to the point of giving their last bit of food to a passing tramp.

Two of Guerino's children have died. Albert died on 3 November 1972, and Val died on 4 January 1993. (see page 109 of Volume 1 Perry County History Book) Submitted by Donna (Fontana) Watson

FULTON/MIDWAY STATION

In the early part of 1900, an enterprising young man and his energetic young wife answered the door when opportunity knocked. This couple was William Enoch Fulton and Mary C. (Shute, daughter of George Shute and Rebecca Carson). When the new 'Hard Road,' the original Route 13 (now Route 154), was being built, connecting Sparta and Pinckneyville, he knew it would be well traveled. He also realized it would be a long days travel from one point to the other with people, horses, and machines needing respite before reaching their destination. They built the Midway Station, deriving the name from the location, about mid-way between the two towns.

Midway Station James A. Fulton and Mary Ann Eaton.

Until this time, William had been a farmer like his family before him. Mary was a homemaker who knew how to take care of people and cook good food. At first they offered lunches of whatever happened to be on the stove cooking at the time, tending the horses and carriages in the back. The machines (cars) needed more than William was experienced in giving, but his son Walter was adept at this and became the mechanic, as well as the blacksmith and carpenter. As time went on more was added to the business, a gas pump was installed, a restaurant like eatery that also served ice cream! Mary obtained a glass showcase in which she and her daughter Blanche kept filled with fancy-work and knickknacks. The business prospered.

At times, people had traveled for long distances and were weary, often camping beside the Station, sleeping in their automobiles and wagons. This opened up another area of revenue. William obtained lumber from old mining buildings in Jamestown and built small, one bedroom cabins and rented them out for the night. He provided his own electricity, using batteries and a gasoline engine.

In 1939 William died, leaving Mary and her children (Blanche, Walter, and Allen) to run the business, which they did until World War II started. With the gas and other rationing, they were unable to operate the business as before and started cutting back on services until eventually they had only the blacksmith shop and the gift section left. When Mary died in 1960, Blanche moved to Pinckneyville and the station was sold to Richard Tabing, who still lives there.

The strip mines bought the farmland of Walter and Allen just south of the station. Before the buildings were torn down, Tabing had the large barn and smokehouse of Allen's moved to his property across the highway. They are still there.

For seven generations, the Fultons have been in Perry County, with James A. Fulton (married Mary Ann Eaton, daughter of 'Judge' Enoch Eaton and Polly Hughs) coming from Guilford County, North Carolina.

Children of James and Mary Ann are: Marion Alexander born 2 August 1856, Rice Henry born 5 September 1858, Harriette Ann born 20 September 1860, Samuel Edward born 25 September 1862, Sarah Joanna born 26 February 1864, William Enoch born 18 August 1865, George Washington born 10 September 1867, James Franklin born 24 March 1870, Mary Rosettia born 2 February 1872, Nancy Violetta born 21 February 1875, Mary Anne born 28 May 1878, and Mollie Lucinda born 28 March 1878.

His son, Jacob, was born 28 September 1851 at Lenzburg. He married Christina Hendler 7 June 1875. She was also from Germany. After her mother died, Christina's father lived with her and Jacob on their Conant farm. Their children were Balthasar, Jacob, Catherine, Augusta, Frederick, Maria, George, Wilhemina, Ida, and Anna. The children attended Lost Prairie School. After his wife's death, the home burned and was rebuilt.

Jacob's daughter, Maria, was born 1 July 1887. Their daughter, Corarena, died shortly after birth. Other children were Clement, Wilbert, and Dorothy. They finally settled in Pinckneyville after Boon and Clement opened a tavern. Maria died March 1974 and is buried with Boon at Mueller Hill.

GILL-GRESHAM

George Washington Gill, son of William Gill and Mary Rogers, was born 1 February 1811 in Williamson County, Tennessee. His father, William Gill, was from Chesterfield County, Virginia, moving to Halifax County about 1800. Around 1807, the Gill family relocated to Williamson County, Tennessee, appearing on Tax Rolls there until 1812.

In 1813, the Gill family headed for Illinois, crossing the Ohio River at Golconda. Traveling through dense wilderness, they saw only two houses before reaching the Big Muddy River. On Christmas Day, 1813, they arrived in what later became Jackson County. William Gill settled upon land in Somerset Township on Beaucoup Creek, and ran a ferry close to where the Kimmel bridge now crosses the Big Muddy River on the DeSoto/Murphysboro road.

GILL-SMITH

Leo Fenwick "Wick" Gill, the sixth child of George Washington Gill and Martha "Patsy" Gresham Gill was born in Perry County Illinois 28 October 1844. The Missouri descendants of Wick Gill know very little about him. He was described by his daughter Hattie as not being much of a communicator, he would sit for hours and never say a word. According to census records collected, Wick Gill lived with his parents on the family farm in Perry County until after their deaths. There is no census record for him in 1870 but one of his younger sisters, Adelia Gill, is listed in the 1870 census in Jasper County Missouri living with a family from Illinois and probably Leo followed her to Missouri around this time. In 1880 Leo is listed in the Jasper County Census as being a servant, farm laborer, for the John Taylor family. On 23 August 1888, Leo F. Gill of Avilla married Lettie Smith, twenty years his junior, of Avilla in Carthage, Missouri. From the time of their marriage until Lettie's death, 12 July 1903 the couple farmed on rental property in the Avilla, La Russell, Missouri area near Leo's older brother, Thomas Gill, who along with his wife Nancy and children had followed his younger brother and sister to Missouri.

Leo and Lettie had three daughters. Lulu L. Gill born 1889, married Frank Knight at an early age. Lulu has at least six children and lived in

The second child, Hattie Burnett Gill Murphrey (born 6 October 1895 near Avilla, Missouri died 28 September 1984 in Jasper, Missouri) married Clarence Murphrey (born 29 January 1892 in Farmersville, Montgomery County, Illinois, died 21 January 1953 in Iantha, Barton County, Missouri) in Carthage, Missouri 30 June 1920. Hattie and Clarence owned a farm near Iantha and raised four daughters and a son. Hattie, Clarence, and Carroll, their son, are buried in Iantha, Missouri. Hattie's daughters are Arletta Murphrey Probert, Loretta Murphrey Sikes, Helen Murphrey Rice Keller, and Leora Murphrey VanBummel. Hattie Gill Murphrey was a strong Christian mother who was very proud of her family. Luella, the third daughter, born 12 July 1903 died with her mother during birth. After the death of his wife, Leo, in failing health, moved with Hattie to a farm east of Jasper to be near his sister, Adelia Campbell, who could help him raise Hattie. Leo died of cancer on 6 December 1914. Leo, Lettie, and Luella Gill are buried in Taylor Cemetery in Jasper County, Missouri.

GILLIS

The Gillis Family is first mentioned in the 1860 Census of this County. There are four Gillis children living with John W. and Lydia Pyatt. They were all born in Ohio. The oldest was Samuel Jackson then age 16, Frances Gertrude, 14; George Washington, 8; and Franklin Pierce, 5. Lydia Burnell Pyatt, the widow of Dr. James P. Burnell, was born in New York. Her maiden name was Andrews. She was the Aunt of the children in the Pyatt home. Her will at the Perry County Courthouse clearly states this.

Amanda E. "Mande" Andrews married Samuel Jackson Gillis in Portage County, Ohio on 2 February 1843. In the 1900 Census, the Gillis family in Perry County gives their father's birth place (Samuel) as Pennsylvania and the birth place of Amanda as Ohio. It is believed that Amanda was born in the New England States. Since no trace of them has been found in Perry County, it is believed that neither of them ever came to Illinois.

Lydia died and was buried with her first husband on land they had owned. She willed all of her land to the children. Samuel Jackson Gillis, Jr. started a store in Pinckneyville. Frances Gertrude married Dr. John Randolph Jones, son of Humphrey B. (both a Doctor and a Lawyer,) and Harriet Dobyns Jones. H. B. Jones entered land of which the City of Pinckneyville now stands. John finished Missouri Medical College of St. Louis and practiced in Perry County and later in Kansas. George Washington Gillis married Susan Aguste Wagner, who was the daughter of Christopher and Wilhelmina (Dutz) Wagner who had come from Germany. He farmed the land that was left to the Gillis family near Cutler, in the small community of Jamestown, Illinois. Franklin Pierce Gillis, according to AMA records, graduated from Agricultural College (later the University of Illinois) and Missouri Medical College. He graduated in 1876. He practiced in Chester and Cutler but ended in Du Quoin. Dr. Gillis was said to have opened the first real hospital in the city. People were afraid of hospitals and so the venture was a failure. It is said that he performed the first operation in the City, an appendectomy. The operations was a success but the patient died. Notes on Dr. Gillis from "Du Quoin/Gateway to Egypt, Report of History Committee" no date given. Willard Gillis told of an elderly farmer, "Mr. Mann who talked of Dr. Gillis with much respect." Mr. Mann said that "Dr. Gillis tried to save my boy's life but his appendix had burst by the time we brought him to town in a wagon. Doc tried to operate, but it was too late. He did everything he could for my boy." Dr. Gillis and his wife, Ette M (Chamness), retired to Florida. He died 12 March 1923, and is buried in De Land, Florida. Submitted by Martha Pope Emling

George W. and Susan Aguste Wagner Gillis.

GLENN-MAGERKURTH

Phoebe Ellen Porter was married first to Madison Elmer Glenn who died in 1917. See article in this book on her first marriage and their children. Robert Magerkurth was married twice before with one or more children by each wife.

Phoebe and Robert married 2 April 1920 in Perry County. They lived on the Magerkurth place near Rice, Perry County, Illinois. Robert died there on 8 December 1946. He is buried in the New Concord Cemetery in Rice.

Robert and Phoebe Magerkurth.

The Magerkurth place was in the direct path of the big fire around Halloween, 1951 or 1952. Phoebe's granddaughter, Helen Hutchings, had come to visit. When she started to leave, she saw the fire coming up through the woods south of them. It had been terribly dry. They didn't remember it raining for months. The fire was going strong with all the dry trees and brush. It was heading straight at the house. A lesser person would have left, but Phoebe wouldn't budge. Nothing would move her out of her house. Family, neighbors, and friends worked frantically setting little fires to burn stuff off, plowing up the fields on the south side of the house, and beating and beating the fire. The firemen were positioned to try to save the house. They had lines in the well and cistern as that is all the water they had. As the fire got closer to her house, what did Phoebe do? She took time to make coffee and finish the food she had been cooking. She knew the workers would need them when the fires was over! Incredibly, the fire got to the field they had dug up south of the house, did almost a 90 degree turn, went around the house and on up north. It burned all night and the next day. It did get someone else's barn on up north, but it did not get the Magerkurth place.

Phoebe was an incredible lady. She endured many hardships, including the early death of her first husband, losing children, and poverty, but she never complained. Never! Her only thought was for her children. She wanted nothing for herself. Phoebe and Robert had another set of children.

Goldie Esther Magerkurth (26 August 1921-4 December 1984), buried in Mueller Hill Cemetery, married Lee Kuhnert, children: Roger Lee, Alen Ross, Virgil Leslie, and Gloria Jean.

Myrtle Marie Magerkurth (born 28 December 1922), married Lester Otto Woodside, children

Richard Thomas Magerkurth (born 26 April 1926), married Emma Jones, children: Ray Thomas, Margie Ellen, and Nancy.

Roy Leo Magerkurth (16 June 1929-23 April 1995), married Doris Elaine Gaston, children: Mark Allen, Phillip Dale, Amy Elaine, Charles Ward. Submitted by Janet Hutchings Amelunke

GOLDMAN

Andrew (Andreas) Goldman was born 6 March 1848, in St. Clair County, Illinois to Bartholomew M. and Eva Koehler Goldman. Andrew fought in the Civil War as a private in Company K, 149th Volunteer Regiment, and was honorably discharged at Dalton, Georgia on 27 January 1866. He was described upon enlistment at 5 feet 3 inches tall, fair complexion, blue eyes, and light hair. He was a farmer by occupation.

Andrew (Andreas) Goldman.

Andrew and Mary Keller were married on 6 March 1869 by Allen Parlier, Justice of the Peace at Tamaroa, Perry County, Illinois. Misfortune came to Andrew a few days after the birth of their sixth child, Louis Phillip on 6 November 1882. His beloved Mary died 9 November.

Andrew's mother kept Louis for six months, Andrew taking care of the older children. Then Andrew hired Malinda Hutchings to care for his family. Malinda loved his children as if they were her own. Not only did she love them, she grew to love their father. Andrew was joined in marriage to Malinda on 30 May 1883 by W. A. Chapman, Justice of the Peace, in Perry County, Illinois.

Andrew took his family and moved to Texas, returning after 7 years to Perry County. Andrew Goldman was a good man and a fine father. He died 14 April 1933 in Pinckneyville, Illinois. Many of his descendants still make Perry County their home.

GORDON

The Gordons are a pioneer family whose relationship to Perry County began over two centuries ago. James E. and Lucy Ann (Jones) Gordon emigrated from Kentucky in the early part of the 19th century and were the first of this family to set down roots in the county. Lucy Ann was the sister of Dr. Humphrey Jones, considered by most local historians to be the most influential citizen during the county's formative period. James E. Gordon was the grandson of Captain John Gordon, who as a member of General George Rogers Clark's Virginia State Troops was one of the first white men to view the area which was later to become Perry County. General Clark's troops passed through Perry County in 1778 on their way home from Fort Massac, capturing the British-held forts at Kaskaskia, Cahokia, and Vincennes. Four years later in August of 1782, Captain Gordon died heroically in the last battle of the Revolutionary War, the Battle of Blue Licks, Kentucky.

Julia E. Gordon Romeo and Carol Ann Romeo.

Captain Gordon was the son of John Gordon, Sr., who came from Scotland to Virginia in about 1717 and became a prosperous plantation owner. He was married to Elizabeth Grayson, daughter of John Grayson who was the first cousin of Colonel William Grayson, aide-de-camp to George Washington during the Revolutionary War, elected as a member of the Continental Congress in 1784, and was one of Virginia's two first United States senators on the organization of the Federal Government. Colonel Grayson's mother, Susanna Monroe, was the sister of Andrew Monroe, grandfather of President James Monroe. Both Grayson men were the grandsons of John Grayson, Sr., a large plantation owner who first came to Virginia in the 1680s from Great Britain.

Captain Gordon and Elizabeth Grayson had eight children, the seventh being William Gordon, born 1779. William Gordon was a pioneer of Hopkins County, Kentucky, a lawyer, farmer, and member of the Kentucky State House of Representatives. William founded a family law practice in Madisonville, Kentucky, in 1807 which continued uninterrupted until 1965 when President Johnson appointed James Fleming Gordon, the great-great-grandson of William's brother, John Gordon III, to the Federal bench. William and his wife, Averella Darnaby, had seven children, the second being James E. Gordon of Pinckneyville.

James and Lucy Gordon had four children, the eldest being William Grayson Gordon. "Billy" was involved in one of the most audacious events to occur in Perry County's history. Billy was a Pinckneyville constable and coroner who in 1872 captured a Missouri desperado by the name of Sam Hildebrand. Sam was wanted in at least four states for murder and was responsible for up to 100 killings in his ten year crime spree. Billy, a member of Southern Illinois' 18th Illinois Regiment during the war Between the States, confronted the outlaw outside of Bischof's Saloon and boldly rushed headlong into a circle of the outlaw and his friends. Billy left the larger Hildebrand dazed and reeling after some fierce hand-to-hand fighting. Hildebrand's friends stood transfixed by Billy's audacity and, thus, could not react quickly enough to assist their comrade. Shortly thereafter, Hildebrand was shot dead by Constable John Ragland in an escape attempt.

James and Lucy were also the parents of Lucy Averella Gordon, who married Canadian immigrant, William E. Dunn. Their progeny are the members of the prominent Dunn family of Pinckneyville, including their grandson, the recently retired Illinois State Senator, Ralph Dunn. Another daughter, Mary Louisa Gordon, wife of Constable Matthew Charlton, was one of the area's first teachers and organized the Sunday School at the First Baptist Church of Pinckneyville. Their son, J. Quinn Charlton, was elected Perry County Sheriff in 1914. He died tragically on the Public Square in 1922 as he went to the aid of a disturbed citizen named Stevenson, who was threatening to kill himself with a knife which he was brandishing. While trying to calm the man, Stevenson suddenly thrust the weapon at Quinn Charlton, severing his carotid artery. Mary Gordon Charlton lost five of her other seven children in their infancy and youth including two in a tragic manner. She died in 1936 at the age of 93, a lady whose spirit was never broken in spite of the overwhelming tragedy in her life. Their fourth and last child was Laura Ann Gordon, who married W.S.D. Smith. Smith was a long-time county clerk whose impeccable handwriting can be found on so many of the county's early documents. Laura Gordon gave birth to 14 children (only 6 survived to adulthood), including the seventh born, Elsie. Elsie died in 1980 at the age of 97. She was the wife of former State Senator, Harry Wilson.

William Grayson Gordon married Mary Julia Vineyard in 1869. She was the daughter of Robert Vineyard and Catherine Ogie Willis. Robert died of cholera at the age of 32 and Catherine subsequently married Richard M. Davis, States' Attorney of Perry County. Catherine and Richard Davis, along with Lucy Jones Gordon (by then, Lucy Malone, as James Gordon had died in 1855) were three of the original nine founders of the First Baptist Church in Pinckneyville in 1865. William Grayson and Mary Julia Gordon were the parents of three children, the eldest being Edward William Gordon, a Pinckneyville mine engineer. Edward William Gordon married Sophie Margaret Hepp, daughter of George Jacob Hepp and Elizabeth Mueller, in 1903. The Hepps operated a delicatessen and general store on the west side of the public square from the 1870s until George's death in 1903. Edward and Sophie were the parents of six children. Their two daughters, Julia Elizabeth (born 1911) and Ruth Marie (born 1915) are the only survivors of this couple.

Julia E. married Frank Romeo of Du Quoin in 1934 and they made that city their home until 1957 when they removed to Orange, California. Their children, Carole Ann, Frank Jr., and Gloria Jean attended area schools in their formative years and all currently live in Orange. GRUNER

Philip Adolphus Gruner, Sr. was born in Ittlinger, Baden, Germany, and emigrated to the United States in 1848. After living in New York, Pittsburg, and St. Louis he finally settled in Chester, Illinois. In 1851, he was united in marriage to Mrs. Elizabeth Bart, whose maiden name was Zang. She was born in 1825 in Allenback, Prussia, and in 1836 arrived in Baltimore, Maryland from where she moved to Indiana and later to Chester, Illinois. In 1854 the couple came to Pinckneyville where Mr. Gruner founded the firm of P. Gruner and Sons, which he managed for many years. At the celebration of their 50th wedding anniversary it was noted that Mr. Gruner had the distinction of being the oldest merchant in Pinckneyville, or for that matter, in Perry County.

Sons, Philip A., Jr. and George went into the hardware department and Charley operated the tin shop which the firm maintained. For 10 years after Mr. Philip Gruner's death in 1901, the firm operated under the name of Gruner Brothers. Philip A. Gruner became the sole proprietor of the business in 1914 and carried on its operation with the assistance of his two sons, Homer and Curtis. Upon their father's death in 1915 Homer and Curtis formed a partnership that existed until 1932. At that time Homer took over and, with the help of his wife, Maude, further expanded the business by the addition of a line of gifts.

On 16 December 1945 disaster hit. A fire that completely destroyed the building and most of the merchandise would have whipped a less resolute couple than Homer and Maude Gruner. They, however, immediately rented a building and continued selling hardware until the keys to their new, completely modern building on the town square were turned over to them by the contractor in March 1945. Mr. and Mrs. Gruner were soon doing more business than ever. They were also very active in the Methodist Church as well as in community affairs. Homer served as Mayor of Pinckneyville for several years.

Their son, James Philip, known about the town as "Jimmie," worked in the store with them before and after his three year hitch in the Navy Air Corps. His final year of studies at Bob Jones University was interrupted by the illness and subsequent death of his father in December 1953. He, as the three generations of Gruners preceding him, proved to be an able hardware man until the store was finally sold in 1965.

Homer and Maude also had two daughters, Marjorie Gruner Keene and Jeanette Gruner Evans, eight grandchildren, 22 great-grandchildren, and 3 great-great-grandchildren. Marjorie and her husband, David Keene and their three children lived in Pinckneyville until 1957 when they moved to Carbondale, Illinois. Marjorie now resides in Homestead, Florida. Jeanette and her husband, Robert Evans, were missionaries in Europe where they lived with their two children in France for 42 years. They now live in Naples, Florida. Phil lives in Nashville, Tennessee with his wife, JoAnn, his first wife, Ande, having died in 1993. They have three children.

GUY-REISINGER

Charles Newton Guy, the son of Jasper Newton Guy and Emma W. (Guenther) Guy was born in Grand Cote Prairie, northeast of Swanwick, Illinois on 2 November 1891. He was the next to youngest of six children, having had five sisters: Grace Guy, who died in infancy, Bertha (Guy) Kelly, Alice (Guy) Campbell, Ida (Guy) Ervin, and Justina Guy, who never married.

The early Guys of this family immigrated to this country from Alsace-Lorraine, France. Richard Guy, the great-grandfather of Charles Newton Guy, was born 15 January 1787, in South Carolina; William Guy, the grandfather of Charles Newton Guy, was born 13 November 1817 in Kentucky and Jasper Newton Guy, the father of Charles, was born in Swanwick, Illinois, 9 May 1855. With limited access to material, Charles Guy did considerable work on the Guy lineage. He jokingly stated that he ran into distant horse thieves, at which point he discontinued the project.

Jasper Newton Guy farmed his land in Grand Cote Prairie. As a young boy, Charles helped his father on the farm. Receiving a scholarship, he was able to attend Southern Illinois Teachers College (now Southern Illinois University) in Carbondale. He taught at the Franklin School, a rural elementary school near his home.

Later, Charles took an exam to work in the post office in Pinckneyville, and with his new bride, Maud (Reisinger) Guy, whom he married 20 May 1915 in Swanwick, they moved to Pinckneyville. Charles was a rural mail carrier for a period of time, driving a team of horses to deliver the mail.

He later became an employee of the First National Bank in Pinckneyville, and at the time of his retirement, he was cost accountant for Pyramid Coal Company, south of Pinckneyville.

Maud and Charles Guy had four children, Dale, a retired house painter, Doris, who married Charles Becker and lived in Wichita, Kansas, where she died 5 December 1990, David Wayne, who is a retired machinist, and Wilma, a retired school teacher. At the time of this writing, the three remaining children are living in Pinckneyville. Their parents are buried in Mueller Hill Cemetery west of Pinckneyville, and Doris (Guy) Becker is buried in Wichita, Kansas.

(Stories containing Hammel and/or Laufer information were excerpted from the 'Hammel-Laufer Families' printed in 1978 by Martha Mae Schmidt)

Jacob Hammel born 9 May 1791 at Steinwenden, Germany came to America with his 5 children and 2 chests. They arrived 12 August 1840 from Port of Marec listed as Swiss on the Vessel Union of New Orleans. Jacob's wife Magdalena nee Laufer, whom he married 13 September 1814 at Steinwenden, Germany, died 22 December 1834 in Weltersbach, Germany. Four children also died in infancy.

This family settled near Millstadt, at Roachtown and engaged in farming. The daughters: Maria Elisabeth (married Johann George Hammel) and Catharine [married Jacob Schwartz and Michael Mueller (Miller)] stayed in St. Clair County.

Son Jacob was first married to Katharina Anhauser. Three children were born near Millstadt before the family moved to Randolph County sometime between 1852 and 1855. Jacob second married Elizabeth Rathmacher.

HEAPE-DRY

Horace Heape, the son of George and Sarah Elizabeth (Benson) Heape, was born 7 January

1885. He was the seventh of nine children—Mary, Addie, an infant who died, Nellie, Scott, Lucretia, Horace, Lillie Belle, George Jr., and Grace.

When Horace was seven, his mother inherited the Samuel Benson home place. Horace and Scott helped their father enlarge the house, build a bigger barn, dig additional wells, and still found time to race horses. Horace enjoyed playing baseball, but tragically lost an eye while catching. Traditionally, the Heape family were Campbellites. Horace, Lou, Lillie, and Scott were converted to Christianity at a Friendship Christian Church Revival in November 1900.

Hazel Lovina (Dry) and Horace Heape.

Eleven years later, on 30 March 1911, Horace and Hazel Lovina Dry were married at the home of her parents, Marion Carroll and Clara Isabelle (House) Dry, by her cousin, Reverend John Carroll Harris. They bought a forty acre farm, near the Sunfield wye from Mr. George Senior, and Horace inherited an additional 80 acres from his father. Horace was a grain and stock farmer all of his life but worked as a laborer on the U.S. 51 Highway project. He and Hazel raised four children—Delbert, Roy, Loren, and Eula Mae.

To increase their income, Hazel sold farm produce. She and the children delivered butter and eggs to patrons in Du Quoin and sold to customers at their home. Until the 1950s it was quite common for farmers to "do the trading" on Saturdays—trade butter and eggs for groceries with retail grocers in Du Quoin. Hazel also cut expenses by making most of the family's clothing. Her income and expense ledgers provide interesting insights into the economics of Perry County farm life in the first half of the twentieth century.

Hard work was the rule. For recreation the family celebrated holidays and birthdays with relatives and went to the country fairs. Religious activities were a very important part of their lives. Horace, Hazel, and the children worshipped at both Friendship Christian Church and Nine Mile Baptist. Early in his marriage, Horace served as a Deacon and then an Elder at Little Vine—Friendship. Hazel was a devout Christian and student of the Bible. She taught adult Sunday School at Nine Mile and worked in the Women's Missionary Union. After Horace's death, she worshipped with Loren's family at Sunfield United Methodist Church.

Three of their children left Perry County after they married. Delbert married Irma Grob and worked for LeTourneau in Peoria. Roy married Freda Trefftz, lived in East St. Louis, and was an International Vice-President for the United Transportation Union. Eula Mae married Erskine Lee Webb and taught at Indiana University—Purdue University in Terra Haute. Loren married Minnie Bishop, served in Patton's Third Army in World War II, mined coal, and bought his parents' farm. Horace and Hazel died in 1954 and 1967, respectively, and are interred in Sunset Memorial Gardens in Du Quoin. Submitted by Roger Kent Heape

HEAPE, GEORGE

George Heape, a pioneer of Perry County, the son of Robert and Polly (Rohrbough), was born on 18 November 1846, one half mile north of Roots School. George went to Roots School where he sat on log benches. His teacher was B. G. Roots. Then, having short winter schools, he took his books with him to the field and when resting his team would study. At night he would go to B. G. Roots' home and B. G. would teach him his lessons. He went to school at Old Du Quoin, also Carbondale. The first school he taught was Meyers where Fred, Ed, and Bill Springer were among his pupils.

George and Sarah Elizabeth (Benson) Heape.

His father and mother moved here from Ohio in 1841. They lived on a farm 1/2 mile north of Roots School. His brothers were Jehu, Samuel, Levi, John, Robert, and Abe, also two sisters, Lizzie and Eliza. Samuel and Jehu were in the Civil War. Jehu returned; but, Samuel died at Marietta, Georgia in 1864. Their Grandfather was Lysias Heape (1792-1877), an uncle of Lysias (1813-1889) who was the father of Gas, Sarah, Mattie, and Thomas Heape. Robert Heape, his father, was a brother to John Miller's wife, Catherine, who was the mother of Eliza Lisenby, Mrs. Tom Stockton, and Lizzie Ford.

In the year of 1873, 16 March, at the Samuel Benson home, he was married to Sarah Benson, the daughter of Samuel and Polly Benson, by Squire William Chapman of White Walnut. Witnesses were Eliza Benson and Eliza Hawkins.

They first lived in Upper Arm. The older children went to school at Lower Arm. There all the children were born except Grace. She was born at her mother's old home. They moved into the Benson home when George Jr. was just a baby. It had two fireplaces. George chopped all his wood and split rails for his fences. They had a large woods pasture fenced with an eight rail fence he made by hand. In this pasture he had sheep, horses, four or five brood mares, cows, hogs, and a team of oxen which pulled a large sled he had made. They also had chickens, geese, ducks, turkeys, and guineas.

He loved his farm and took great interest in it. He was a great lover of horses and loved to make them look nice. He kept horses and a jack several years. He did not have a tractor nor a car but did all his work with horses.

The George Heape biography was transcribed by Roger Kent Heape from a handwritten copy given to him in 1969 by Lillie Belle (Heape)

House. Birth and death dates were inserted for identification purposes. Submitted by Roger Heape

HEAPE, LYSIAS

Robert Heape Jr., a farmer, married a Quaker widow, Martha (Chocke) James on 21 August 1782. Lysias Heape, their fourth son, was born on 13 July 1792, in Harford County, Maryland. His brothers were Robert, John C., and Abraham.

The first two generations of the Heape family lived near Long Corner in northern Harford County, on the Pennsylvania border, from the time that Lysias' grandfather, Robert Sr., had emigrated from England before the Revolutionary War. Lysias and his older brother, John Chocke Heape, broke with tradition by leaving Harford County and moving west. In his eighty-four-and-a-half years, Lysias lived in Maryland, Pennsylvania, Ohio, and Illinois. His first move was north across the Mason Dixon Line into York County, Pennsylvania where he married Elizabeth Yeager in 1814. They had ten children, however, only six sons and a daughter reached adulthood: John A., Robert, Catherine, Levi, Abraham, Lysias (1826-1897), and George Washington.

In 1834 Lysias moved his family to Richland County, Ohio, just south of Mansfield. They were accompanied by York County neighbors, David Rohrbough and Jacob Miller. They settled near Lysias' brother, John Chocke Heape and his family, who had located in Ohio in 1816. The Heape families used sweat equity to improve their fortunes. They purchased government land at $1.25 per acre, cleared, improved, and sold it for as much as $6.25 an acre. Then, they migrated farther west and bought more government land at $1.25 per acre with their profits.

In 1839 Lysias' son, John A. moved to Jackson County, Illinois. In April 1840, Lysias signed a nine year agreement to clear and improve 46 acres of land for Matthew Henderson in Richland County. So Lysias, Elizabeth, and the younger members of the family stayed to fulfill this contract when Lysias' nephews, Thomas and Lysias (1813-1891), and a neighbor, John Miller moved to Perry County, Illinois in 1840, and when Catherine and Robert followed their cousins to Perry County, Illinois a year later.

By 1850 Lysias and his family had settled near their relatives in Perry County. Lysias bought the southeast 79 acres in section 1 of Township 5 South, Range 2 West, Township 4 South, Range 2 West—north of Friendship. Religion was an important part of the Heape families' lives. While in Ohio the Heape families all joined and became active in the Christian Church. They brought their religious activism with them when they came to Perry County.

Lysias closed out his life—a pioneer—clearing away and improving virgin prairie land in Illinois. Elizabeth died in 1869. Lysias passed away in 1877. Elizabeth and Lysias are buried in the Henry Miller Cemetery. After his death, his heirs sold his farm to Ephriam Miller. Submitted by Roger Kent Heape

HEAPE, ROBERT

Lysias and Elizabeth (Yeager) Heape's son, Robert, was born in York County, Pennsylvania on 8 March 1817. Robert was the second oldest of the children who reached adulthood—John A., Robert, Catherine, Levi, Abraham, Lysias, and George Washington.

Robert and Polly (Rohrbaugh) Heape.

When Robert was seventeen, his family and David Rohrbaugh moved to Richland County, Ohio, south of Mansfield. They settled near Robert's uncle, John Chocke Heape. On 16 January 1840 Robert Heape and Polly Rohrbaugh were married by Reverend Nehemiah Martin near Johnsville, Ohio. Polly's parents were residents of Shrewsbury Township, York County, Pennsylvania. In 1841 Robert and Polly, his sister Catherine, and Robert's sister-in-law Eliza (Rohrbaugh) Hawkins and her husband Napoleon Hawkins, all moved to Perry County, Illinois. Robert settled on the northeast 40 acres of Section 7, Township 5 South, Range 1 West, just north of the site of Roots School, near his cousins Thomas and Lysias Heape (1813-1889). Robert's father and the rest of his family remained in Richland County, Ohio until 1849 and then moved to Perry County.

The Heape families were pioneer farmers of the land southwest of Tamaroa. Robert prospered. He bought and sold 100 acres in sections 5 and 25 of Township 4. Then, he consolidated his land holdings, adding 120 more acres to his original 40 acre farm, until by 1876 he owned the northeast quarter section of Township 5 South, Range 1 West. Robert and Polly reared nine children: Jehu, Samuel, George, Elizabeth, Levi, John, Robert, Abraham, and Eliza. In 1862 Samuel joined the Eighty-First Illinois Infantry. He died of disease on 23 August 1864 and was buried in the National Cemetery in Marietta, Georgia. A month after Samuel's death, his brother Jehu enlisted in the Fourteenth Missouri Cavalry.

After the Civil War, Robert's brothers, Abraham and Levi, left Perry County to homestead farther west. Abraham moved to Montgomery County, Kansas in 1879, and Levi settled first in Jackson County and then moved on to Oklahoma. Robert and Polly's children, Jehu, John, and Elizabeth also moved to Jackson County, Illinois. Jehu married Sharlotti Clark. John was married to Harriet Benson, Abbie Cox, and Nora Wilson. Elizabeth married James Wisely and settled in Vergennes. Their other children: George, Robert, Abraham, and Eliza remained in Perry County. George married Sarah Elizabeth Benson, Robert married Josephine Wolfe, Abraham married Ann Kroeger, and Eliza married Frederick Holden.

Robert and Polly joined Friendship Church of Christ in October 1873 and were active members. "Uncle" Robert, as he was called, was regarded as a good neighbor. He became ill in the spring of 1891 after attending to the sick of the community. Robert and Mary died on 19 and 21 March 1891, respectively and were interred in the Henry Miller Cemetery. Submitted by Roger Kent Heape

HENKE, HENRY

When Henry Henke arrived in Du Quoin before March 1870, he faced two major challenges. Having been the second largest manufacturer of cigars in Belleville, he came with many Germans from that area, encouraged by the building of the Belleville and Southern Illinois Railroad, to launch that business here. But a year or so earlier, he had brought from Germany (Crollager Arohde, Nordrhein, Westphalia, where he was born in 1833) the five orphaned children of his brother. One story is that he had to meet them outside Germany as he would still be subject to military service. He had settled in Belleville at age 15, apparently alone. The Henke children were Louise (1850-1881) (spouse Henry F. Knebelkamp), Henry (1852-1885), Mary (1854-1881) (spouse Thomas Hayes)(see Volume 1, page 142), William (1856-1909), and Catherine (1858-1906)(spouse Charles Yehling). They joined Henry's (spouse Henrietta Siegele) daughter Matilda Henrietta (spouse Robert Klug).

Henry's cigar factory and store were open by March 1870, and he soon expanded to include boots. Then he moved four doors west to a large store on the northwest corner of Main and Oak where he added dry goods and groceries with his nephew William as junior partner. At one point Henry sold his cigar business to Henry F. Knebelkamp, who married his niece Louise. Knebelkamp later sold the store to Henry Henke, the nephew who had migrated to Kentucky. The elder Henke previously divorced his first wife and married Knebelkamp's sister, the widow of Charles Voss, an employee of Henke's. They had two sons, Henry and Adolph, who became a druggist in Danville. During these years Henke acquired property and built buildings, including with Thomas Hayes (husband of his niece Mary) the first building of the Du Quoin Bottling Works. After Thomas' death in a mining accident, Mary carried the business which their son, William R. Hayes (see Volume 1, page 142), developed into a large industry and enterprises well known in Perry County. Henke donated land for the new German Evangelical Church which he and some other German businessmen established (see Volume 1, page 402). His health was declining with a stomach ailment and he sold his business. Nephew William became a partner with W. F. Tecklenburg, formed the firm Tecklenburg and Henke, and operated two large grocery stores, one on each side of the railroad. Henry Henke, together with Lewedag and Sheain, bought the saloon of Joe Pyle. Henke's last venture was a saloon and billiard hall.

His death on 17 September 1877 was acknowledged by a long front-page obituary in the Du Quoin TRIBUNE, the fullest in many a year. It read, "His residence in our city was fraught with success in a business point of view, and being a man of means and enterprise, he had invested in real estate to considerable extent, and caused the erection of several...dwellings." And, "by his uprightness, kind treatment and fair dealing with all, had won the esteem and respect of a wide circle of friends." Submitted by Donald R. Yehling

HENSON

In 1808 Allen Henson, son of Jesse and Allen's son George Washington Green Henson came to Kentucky from North Carolina. Eventually they came to Southern Illinois. George settled near the mouth of the Big Muddy River south of Grand Tower. Allen came north a few miles and settled beside a trail that led along a big hill on the eastern side.

In North Carolina, Allen had fought Indians and was scalped but survived. He remained a kind man but the scalping possibly caused some kind of mental derangement as after that he went around singing funny songs.

In 1830, Allen with the help of a man named Boone, built a house of double logs on the west side of what is now route three in Southern Illinois, about four miles north of Grand Tower in Jackson County.

It must have been a very well constructed house as it stood for 150 years and since pre-Civil War days has been called the "Henson House." Some time in the 1970s it was burned by vandals.

In 1810, Philip, another son of Jesse, married Mathilda McKenny in Caldwell, Kentucky. They lived there until 1827 when he gave up his position as Justice of the Peace and moved to Southeast Missouri. They only lived there a short time when they moved to Southern Illinois.

There is an interesting story about the Hensons and an Indian squaw. While rabbit hunting they would see something flitting between the trees but could never see it well enough to know what it was. One day Philip was determined to know and he finally discovered an Indian woman hiding in a cave. She had been cast out of her tribe and sentenced to death, but managed to escape. She had lived in the woods alone for three years. She was half starved and half frozen but Philip managed to get her to his home, and she lived as one of the family from 1835 until her death in 1866. She is buried in the family cemetery.

Philip is a very popular name in the Henson family. One of them had the initial "R" in his name and was dubbed "Red" Phil because of his red hair. There was another one called "Black Phil" because he had dark hair.

Red Phil married Naomi Luthy in 1898 in Denmark, Perry County, Illinois. They produced six children but only three grew to adulthood. They were Ruth, Edith, and Philip Roy.

Red Phil worked in a coal mine called the "White Walnut" near Pinckneyville. He was killed in an underground accident in 1909.

His wife and children moved to Willisville and some of their descendants still live there. His only son Philip Roy never saw his father as he was born after Red Phil was killed.

One of Philip Roy's sons, Gary, is now doing a genealogy of the Henson family which will undoubtedly turn up more interesting stories. Submitted by Iris Henson

L. T. Hill is the middle daughter of Leonard J. and Inez I. (Bost) Eisenhauer. She was born Linda M. Eisenhauer on 15 May 1947 in Vergennes, Illinois. The family, with two other daughters, Vicki and Gayle, moved to Du Quoin in 1958 where L. T. attended Sacred Heart Catholic School and went on to graduate from Du Quoin High School in 1965. That same year she moved to St. Louis, Missouri and began her office career.

Here she met and married David Thacker. Their son, Rand D. Thacker, was born on 13 April 1969, while they were living in Arlington, Texas. Rand now lives in Rockford, Illinois. L. T. and Rand moved to San Diego, California in 1970. While here, her career in the field of insurance blossomed. She attended Lincoln Land Community College in Springfield, Illinois and Laney College near Alameda, California.

Ralph and L. T. Hill.

In 1991, she married her present husband, Ralph H. Hill. He was born in Waltham, Massachusetts in 1961. Ralph was the oldest of nine children of Ray N. Hill and Lona J. Patton. When L. T. met Ralph, he was a member of the United States Navy and this led to moves to several states and their present home in Yokohama, Japan. Ralph is stationed aboard the U. S. S. Cushing out of Yokosuka, Japan. His rating is Fire Controlman (FC) and his responsibilities include maintenance and operation of radar and weapons firing systems.

The move to Japan has proved very exciting and enlightening. While in Japan, L. T. has had no opportunities in the insurance field, but has been teaching English to Japanese students, mainly children. Ralph has visited many cities in the Pacific and L. T. has been able to join him in Hong Kong and Thailand, so far. Their dog, Max, a Schipperke, went with them to Japan and has enjoyed it just as much as they have.

L. T. keeps busy with Max, gardening, reading, teaching, and traveling. Ralph is finishing up his degree and is very much into computers. Ralph will retire from the military in March 2000 when they will return to the United States. After that, they pray that God will continue to guide them in their lives.

HILL-NICKENS

James W. Hill married Aley P. Nickens 25 July 1851 in Maury County, Tennessee, daughter of Lemuel Nickens and Sarah Rail.

Child of James Hill and Aley Nickens is, we believe, Sarah Elizabeth Hill, born April 1854 in Tennessee per the 1900 Census of Illinois; Sarah died about 1928 in Du Quoin, Perry County, Illinois, IOOF. Sarah married Andrew Jackson 21 February 1875 in Perry County, Illinois per the Perry County, Illinois Marriage Records 1868-1896.

In a letter from Alda "Crowe" Fred dated 30 March 1997, to Paul Kevin Commean states the following: When I, Alda, was a little girl, your grandmother (Lillian Faye "Dasher" Fred) used to visit my great-grandmother (Minerva "Nickens" Weisel). Lillian Faye called Minerva, Aunt "Nerv." When I asked questions years later I was told the following story. Grandpa Rederick Sanders "Sandy" Nickens was from Nashville, Tennessee. Rederick was a northern sympathizer. Now we know he was more than just a sympathizer since he fought for the Union. But he came to Illinois due to the hostile feelings in Tennessee. They brought along a little girl with them, whose parents had been killed during the war. That little girl, when grown, had become Della "Jackson" Dasher's mother, Sarah Elizabeth "Hill" Jackson. Evidently Sarah's parents were Aley (Nickens) and James Hill. I wonder if there would be a death certificate to verify their deaths and year in Maury County.

Jan "Nickens" Valdez wrote the following to Paul Kevin Commean in an electronic mail message: Manerva Nickens is probably the Manerve J. Nickens (born 1868) listed in the 1880 Perry County, Illinois, Census (Volume 46, Edition 72, Sheet 10). She is listed as the granddaughter of Lemuel and Sarah Nickens (misspelled Nekens). I, Jan (Nickens) Valdez, was assuming that she was the daughter of their son Reddick who was in the same household. Here is how they are listed: Lemuel 77 Tennessee, Sarah wife 77 Tennessee, Reddick son 45 Tennessee, Susan F. daughter 38 (this is Reddick's wife) Tennessee, Lemuel H. grandson 17 Illinois, Luisa J. granddaughter 15 Tennessee, Manerve J. granddaughter 12 Tennessee, Thomas R. grandson 10 Tennessee, William Samuel grandson 7 Illinois, and David grandson 3 Illinois.

This is what I, Jan (Nickens) Valdez, know about this family: Despite what the 1880 Census says, all other census records indicate Lemuel was born in North Carolina and his wife was born in Tennessee.

Lemuel married Sally Rail, 15 February 1826 in Maury County, Tennessee. Lemuel was listed in Wilson County tax list from 1825 through 1829. He was living in Maury County for the 1830 census, in proximity to his wife's family. At the time of the 1840 census they were in Marshall County, and then were enumerated in Maury County for the 1850, 1860, and 1870 censuses. They must have moved to Perry County, Illinois between 1870-1873. Submitted by Paul Kevin Commean and Alda (Crowe) Fred

Asa died first and then Phebe, both deaths occurring within a week of each other. William Henry Smith, Jr. became the guardian of their three children:

HIRSCH-LEE

Donald G. Hirsch and Nancy A. Lee were married on 7 September 1963. Their marriage united a descendant of German immigrants, Donald, and Nancy Lee who can trace her ancestry back to the Colonist Lees who were instrumental in the founding of the country.

L to R Back Row: Shannon and Barry Hirsch; L to R Front Row: Collin, Nancy, Don, and Tim Hirsch.

Donald is the great-grandson of William and Anna Hirsch, who came to America in 1862. William fathered nine children including Donald's grandfather, Herman John. Herman Hirsch and Mary Woll had eleven children that lived to adulthood, including Don's father Herman "Dutch" Hirsch. Donald and cousin Jerry Hirsch are the only male grandchildren of Herman and Mary to carry on the Hirsch name. Jerry Hirsch is unmarried.

Donald's maternal great-grandparents, Frederick Telkemeyer and Carolina Kutaman also emigrated from Germany in the 1890s. They homesteaded a 120 acre farm north of Sunfield. They parented four children including Don's grandmother, Marie Telkemeyer who married George H. Keiner. This couple had two children, Henry and Don's mother, Mildred. An interesting point is that Nancy's great-great-grandparents Richard and Julia Lee helped Don's great-grandparents Fred and Catherine Telkemeyer master English when they came here from Germany. The Lees and Telkemeyers lived on neighboring farms in the now Du Quoin Lake area north of Sunfield.

Nancy Lee Hirsch counts among her ancestors, Robert E. Lee of Civil War fame and brothers Richard Henry Lee and Frances Lightfoot Lee, both signers of the Declaration of Independence. A detailed account of the Lee family is found elsewhere in this book.

Nancy's parents are Norman Dean Lee and Emma Huggins. Donald, being the only male grandchild of Herman and Mary Woll Hirsch to marry and carry on the Hirsch name, has four sons. Don and Nancy's children are Timothy, Barry, Shannon, and Collin. The Hirsch's have nine grandchildren. Timothy, an auto salesman at Vogler Ford in Carbondale married Stacy Harrell. They have two sons, Brandon and Nicholas. Barry, a Certified Public Accountant and Controller for General Tire in Mt. Vernon, married Michelle Poiter. They have three children, Emily, Michael, and Samuel. Shannon, a food supervisor at Big Muddy Correctional Facility and self-employed businessman, married Denise Harsy. They have two children, Benjamin and Jessica. Collin, a youth minister at Holt's Prairie Baptist Church and owner of a lawn care business, married Rebecca Hartman. They have two children, Tyler and Alyssa. The four sons and six grandsons of Don and Nancy Hirsch assure that the Hirsch name will be alive and well around for some time in Perry County.

Donald graduated from Du Quoin High School in 1956 and Southern Illinois University in 1960 with a major in English and a minor in Spanish. He taught school for 22 years at Mascoutah High School, Tamaroa Grade School, and Consolidated 208 and 204. In 1984 Donald ran for Perry County Clerk and was elected. He was consequently re-elected in 1986, 1990, and 1994. He continues as County Clerk and Recorder and is a candidate for re-election to that office in 1998.

Nancy is a graduate of Pinckneyville Community High School. Prior to marriage Nancy was employed at Decca Records, now Uni. She remained a mother and homemaker until their youngest child, Collin, entered school. She then went to work as an aide in the Du Quoin Unit 300 Schools. She is currently the secretary to the principal at Wheatley Building in District 300, a position she has held for 20 years.

Donald and Nancy live on a small farm east of the Du Quoin City Lake on Route 154, where they raise strawberries, sweet corn, and other garden produce, as well as some field crops. The Hirsch's are members of Holt's Prairie Baptist Church where both are Sunday School teachers.

HOLMES-KELLEY

John Holmes was born 17 November 1845 in Ohio. He was the son of David Holmes. John married Lucinda Kelley 2 December 1869 in Madison County, Illinois. She was born in Missouri on 7 September 1848. Her parents were Thomas John Kelley (1808-?) and Frances Corey (1809-?), both born in Tennessee. Thomas and Frances had ten children. James T. (1834-?), Thomas H. (1836-?), Sarah C. (1839-?), Susanna (1841-?), Monroe (1842-?), Joseph and Newton (1843-?) twins, a daughter who married a Hill, Jasper, and Lucinda. All were born in Illinois.

1949) married William Campbell (see Campbell-Holmes biography), John Edwin (1876-1965) married Mamie King Summons, Horatio (1876-1876), Viola Lucinda (1877-1957), Cora Belle (1879-1922) married A. G. (Grant) Keith, Lula Mae (1882-1961) married Edel Bird, Bertie Grace (1887-1994) married Charles Beck, and Herschel Dempsey (1891-1921) married Mary Taylor.

Lucinda and John were divorced 17 December 1910. John went to live with his daughter, Ollie, in Du Quoin. He was a rough old man and scared his great-grandchildren with his antics. He had to use a cane to walk. He would sit on the front porch watching the kids play. If one got too close he would hook them by the ankle. His great-grandson, Loren, remembers having the old man rub his whiskers on his face which he hated. After his death the family was visiting the grave site and Loren was jumping over the grave. Loren's grandmother, Ollie, said "Loren, what if grandpa reached up with his cane and hooked your leg right now?" That scared poor little Loren so bad he gave up grave jumping. Lucinda died 5 November 1921 and is buried at the IOOF cemetery in Pinckneyville. John died 18 October 1932 and is buried at Holt's Prairie cemetery. Submitted by Steve Jackson

Harvey Creigh Hottes, born 25 June 1934, son of Louis G. Hottes, born 28 February 1907 and died 2 July 1991, and Anna M. Weil, born 2 September 1905, married Nancy Carroll Stahlheber, born 25 February 1938, daughter of Thurlow Emmons Stahlheber, born 4 April 1908 and died 4 March 1967, and Stella M. His great-grandfather, Louis (Jung) Yung Sr., being a founding father with eleven other German speaking families in the surrounding Pinckneyville area.

Harvey, having learned good farming practices growing up, wanted to farm. His great aunt Meta Yung invited him to take over her home farm in the spring of 1956. However, the United States government had other plans, in November of 1956 he received his draft notice and was to report in 30 days. Harvey was granted an extension to 25 February 1957 at there was livestock, crops, and machinery to be disposed of.

Harvey and Nancy Hottes on their 40th Anniversary.

In the service the men were given a battery of tests to see what they were best suited to do. Harvey is a gifted mechanic and had the highest test score for his unit, therefore given a choice of truck mechanic in Fort Hood, Arkansas or air plane, helicopter school at Fort Rucker, Alabama; he chose Fort Rucker. After graduation he was sent to Fort Benning, Georgia, where he was a crew chief for L-19 fixed wing aircraft. Within 3 months he was promoted to Aircraft Supply Clerk as he was one of the few who knew all the tools and where they were used. In February of 1959 the Army let him go with civilian job offers in Georgia, Florida, and Texas.

Harvey still wanted to farm so we came back to Southern Illinois and Perry County, with a deadline of 3 months of finding our own farm.

With 40 acres in Galum and Pipestone bottom, he wanted something close and found the Freeman Robinson farm in 6-3 township west of Galum and Pipestone bottom. The farm consisted of 160 acres of semi-bottom ground and another 40 adjoining from Alice Green. By May Harvey was doing what he loved most, farming.

To this union came three children: Perry Lee (13th generation) born 8 April 1960, married Doris Ann Morganthalier, born 24 January 1958, on 18 July 1980. They have two daughters (14th generation) Lauren Christine born 24 January 1982 and Morgan Brooke born 5 February 1990.

Patina Carroll, born 24 March 1967, married Glen Alan Kilpatrick, born 11 December 1962.

2 children: Kaylee Ida Carroll born 30 June 1989

Kensley Gene Alan born 24 January 1991 Divorced 4 June 1996.

Patina married Bart Quinten Glodo, born 20 March 1965, on 14 June 1996.

Bart had three children: Ryan 16 December 1981, Kendra born 13 October 1983, and Lance born 17 October 1989. Bart's first wife was Angela Wedemeyer born in 1966 and died 4 November 1995.

As the family grew, the farm grew to eventually 560 acres. Nancy started a baking business in 1976 making wedding and all occasion cakes. Harvey started a grain cleaning business, Hottes Seed Cleaning, in 1992 with the equipment from the old Zacher Milling Company of Pinckneyville. Farmers from surrounding counties and as far away as Missouri, Kentucky, Indiana, and Ohio bring seed to be cleaned.

HUBLER-MOSS

Ben Theodore Hubler married Amanda Bertha Moss on 20 October 1878 in Washington County. Their homestead was in the Rice area, Perry County. Ben was a farmer. At least later in his life, he had a mustache and goatee that was white as snow. He hunted mushrooms which were plentiful in his day and he always knew which ones were poisonous. He once bought his grandson Ted Kuhl (article in this book) a fishing pole with a cork on it. He attended the Old Concord Church in Washington County.

Ben T. and Amanda Hubler.

Ben's date of birth had some unresolved questions. According to a researcher in Germany, he was born 7 May 1837 in Germany. His parents were Bernhard Theodore and Anna Catharina (Debbert) Longenhovel. The family came to America in 1846 and were in the St. Louis, Missouri area at least by the 1850 census. This family later changed their name to Hubler.

However, when Ben married, he stated he was born in St. Louis, Missouri and the age he gave made him born in 1841. His tombstone did not have a birth date but states he was 71 years, 1 month, and between 2 and 8 days old when he died. Four different sources have four different numbers of days. Although these dates are not always accurate, figuring back from his date of death, he would have been born 24-30 November 1841. The discrepancy has not been resolved at this time.

Also, his name was usually listed as B. T. or Ben T. Hubler. The Germany researcher showed his name Bernhardt. His probate showed it as Benjamin. Ben died 2 January 1913 in Perry County.

Amanda, according to her tombstone was born 20 June 1859 and died 15 June 1897. Her parents listed on her marriage record were Martin and Ann Eliza Moss. Ben and Amanda are buried in the Old Concord Cemetery, Washington County.

Their known children are:

Amy Catherine Hubler (possibly born 5 March 1880)

Herman T. Hubler (3 September 1881-1 November 1962), married Catherine Zitt, children, order unknown, are Edna (Hubler) Brand, Irene (Hubler) Boomerscheim, John, and Herman G. ("Bud") Hubler.

Anna Bertha (Hubler) Kuhl (born 6 September 1883) (article in this book)

Ida May (Hubler) Amann Law (13 September 1885-20 May 1969), one daughter, Dorothy (Amann) Duehlmeier.

Mary Alvena ("Vena") Hubler (20 February 1891-21 June 1964), married Henry Anton Stern, children, order unknown, are Victor and Cecil Stern, Eunice (Mrs. Bernard) Smith, Alene (Mrs. Alvin) Bruns, and two sons who died in infancy.

Kate L. Hubler (possibly born 16 April 1889) died in infancy. Submitted by Janet Hutchings Amelunke

HUELSMANN-KOERBER

Adeline Catherine Huelsmann (Hulsmann) was the fourth child of eight to be born to Gerhard

Henry Huelsmann and Maria "Angela" Thelen. Her father Gerhard was born 1821 in Hanover, Germany. Her mother Angela was born 1828 in Osalage, Hanover, Germany. Angela's parents were John "Henry" and Mary "Rose" Thelen. Henry and Rose Thelen immigrated to St. Louis, Missouri in 1831 with their four daughters Mary, Maria G., Maria E., and Maria Angela, who was three years old.

Adeline Huelsmann Koerber.

Adeline's oldest brother was Tony Huelsmann, born 13 March 1852 in St. Louis—died 21 November 1936 in Du Quoin. About 1853 Gerhard and Angela Huelsmann with their son, Tony, moved to Waterloo, Monroe County, Illinois. Seven other Huelsmann children were born in Waterloo. (see Gerhard Huelsmann's article)

Adeline born 2 August 1858 was baptized 12 August 1858 at Sts. Peter and Paul Catholic Church, Waterloo, Illinois. At eighteen, she married John Koerber on 3 June 1879 at the same church. Witnesses were her brother Fred Koerber and sister Anna Huelsmann (Hulsmann).

Adeline and John Koerber moved to a farm four miles southwest of Du Quoin. In 1882 Adeline's brother Tony Huelsmann and new bride Helena "Lina" Gillenberg bought a farm six miles southwest of Du Quoin. Probably Adeline needed the assistance of her younger sister, Anna Huelsmann (Schleper) from Waterloo to assist her with the growing family. The Koerber family included 10 children: 1) John (3 May 1880-23 July 1925) who moved to Manhatten, Montana; 2) Anton (23 November 1881-) moved to Harding, Montana; 3) Anna Margaretha (3 March 1883-); 4) Adelaida Margaret (17 May 1886) married G. A. Van Eps, Evanston, Illinois; 5) Frank Joseph (10 October 1887-died after 1925) moved to Manhatten, Montana; 6) Theodore (1888 died as a baby); 7) Rudolph (21 February 1890-); 8) Agnes (20 June 1891-20 June 1892); 9) Fred (28 May 1893-); and 10) Herman Fred (2 November 1895-).

Adeline died at an early age of 38 years, 5 months, 14 days on 21 January 1897. She is buried at the Sacred Heart Cemetery, Du Quoin, alongside of her son Theodore.

Widower John Koerber and his children visited his brother-in-law, Tony Huelsmann along with the Schleper cousins on Sunday afternoons. The children enjoyed the open spaces on the farm. However, the Koerbers drifted away from the family after widower John married widow Antonette Goetz in 1898. ANNA HUELSMANN SCHLEPER

Mary "Anna" Huelsmann was the seventh of eight children born to Gerhard Henry Huelsmann and Maria "Angela" nee Thelen Huelsmann. Anna was born 3 December 1866 in Waterloo, Monroe County, Illinois. (See Huelsmann and Schleper files) Anton, John Earnest, Adeline, Anna, and Gerhard Henry were the five living Huelsmann children of Henry and Angela.

On 3 June 1879, eighteen-year-old sister Adeline Huelsmann married John Koerber and moved to Du Quoin, Perry County, Illinois which is about sixty miles from Waterloo. Two years later brother Tony Huelsmann moved to Du Quoin to be a farm hand and in 1882 married Helena "Lina" Gillenberg. Anna Huelsmann was a witness to this marriage in Du Quoin. Anna was in Du Quoin many times from 1880 to 1883, helping sister Adeline or sister-in-law Lina in childbirth since Adeline had ten children and Lina had eleven children. Anna also was in Du Quoin for many of the children's baptisms when she and her mother Angela nee Thelen Huelsmann would come by carriage from Waterloo to Freeport to catch the train for Du Quoin for these special occasions.

On these frequent trips to Du Quoin, Anna was introduced to widower Frank J. Schleper, Sr. who was the proprietor of a merchantile-grocery store on the corner of West Main Street. Frank Schleper had lost his first wife, Katherine nee Miller Schleper, on 8 November 1881. Frank and Katherine's only child was Frank J. Schleper, Jr. born 7 March 1880 in Du Quoin.

Widower Frank Sr., 32, married Anna Huelsmann, 16, his second marriage and her first marriage on 3 October 1883 at Sacred Heart Church in Du Quoin with Frank's close friend Reverend Charles Klocke officiating. Her mother, Angela Huelsmann had to sign a consent of approval of the marriage, filed at the Perry County Clerk's Office. Their home was above the corner merchantile store.

Frank and Anna's first child was Mary Anna ("Annie") born 7 February 1885. Annie joined her five-year-old half brother Frank. Then 1 September 1886 John "Henry" was born. Frank and Anna moved their three children to a newly constructed modest home on the corner of Walnut and Park Streets, a block north of the merchantile-grocery business.

This left their former business home on the second floor vacant. Frank established a knitting shop in this space.

The new home provided room for fourth baby Anthony Henry (Tony) born 20 August 1888; 5) Charles born 3 December 1889; 6) Beatrice born 26 December 1891; 7) Gertrude Wilhelmina born 11 May 1893; 8) Josephine Angela born 20 August 1895; 9) Gerhardt Anton (Jerry) born 28 January 1897; and 10) Clement Joseph born 14 September 1898.

About 1896 Grandma Angela Huelsmann from Waterloo was invited to move into the Schleper household. Also on 21 January 1897 Anna Schleper's sister Adeline nee Huelsmann Koerber died at age 38 years, 5 months, 14 days in Du Quoin.

On 3 March 1899 Frank Schleper Sr. had his residence at 103 North Walnut torn down and rebuilt on the same two lots. In August 1899 the spacious Schleper home was complete.

On 28 October 1901 Grandma Angela Huelsmann succumbed at age 73 years in Du Quoin. Her body was interred next to husband Gerhard at Sts. Peter and Paul Cemetery, Waterloo.

The Schleper family continued to increase: 11) Rosa Maria born 2 November 1900; 12) Adelhaide born 9 February 1902; 13) Edward Cytillus born 9 February 1094; and 14) Godfrey Aloysius Joseph born 13 October 1905.

Frank and Anna had 13 children of their own and Frank's son, Frank Jr., to equal 14 in the Schleper family. The babies deceased are Charles, Rose, Adelaide, and Edward. Those who are living are daughters Anna, Beatrice, Gertrude, Josephine, and sons are Frank Jr., Henry, Tony, Jerry, Clem, and Godfrey.

From 1904 Anna began failing in health. She went to St. Louis several times for medical treatment. On one occasion she attended the St. Louis World's Fair with her St. Louis cousins, the Anton Griesediecke and Henry Grone families.

On 15 August 1906 Anna Schleper lost her husband Frank Sr. from an accidental fall in his merchantile-grocery business, called F. J. Schleper and Sons. Her husband sustained a broken collarbone, a broken arm, and internal injuries as a result of an accident five days earlier on 10 August. He was preparing an order for shipment while standing on an elevated platform when he lost his balance and fell, thus causing his untimely death from blood poisoning.

Widow Anna Schleper became weaker in 1907-1908 for a period of eight months. Nine weeks of which time was spent in St. Anthony Hospital in St. Louis. She was diagnosed with magligant fibra myoma of the uterus, and the duration of the disease was 5 years and 2 months. Anna nee Huelsmann Schleper died at her home on the morning of 16 November 1908 at age 41 years, 11 months, 13 days. The funeral was Wednesday at 9 a.m. at Sacred Heart Church. Internment was at the Catholic Cemetery in the Schleper lot. (See Huelsmann, Schleper, Koerber articles) Submitted by Janet Schleper Austin (Mrs. Howard Bryant Austin)

HUELSMANN-THELEN

The Huelsmann family had three of their children move to Du Quoin, Illinois and raise their children and grandchildren. They were Anton Huelsmann, Adeline Huelsmann Koerber, and Anna Huelsmann Schleper. Here is the story.

Gerhard Henry Huelsmann (German is Hulsmann) was born in 1821 in Hanover, Northern Germany. He and his brother Anton came to St. Louis, Missouri between 1840-1850. Brother Anton moved to Carlyle, Clinton County, Illinois. He was a well-known and substantial farmer, recorded in Carlyle Constitution Obituary 26 February 1874. Gerhard married Maria Angela Thelen, called "Angela," in 1851 in St. Louis.

Angela Thelen's home in Osalage, Hanover, Germany in 1830.

Angela was born in 1828 in Osalage, Hanover, Germany. Her parents were John "Henry" Thelen and Mary "Rose" Brinkman. The Thelens with their four daughters immigrated to St. Louis in 1831 when Angela was three. The girls married in St. Louis: 1) "Mary" to John H. Morhmann on 11 February 1847; 2) "Maria G." to Ludges A. Osterholt on 25 November 1847; 3) "Maria E." to Henri Grone on 9 September 1852; 4) Angela to Gerhard Huelsmann in 1851. However, Mary Mohrman died after giving birth to their second child and Maria G. Osterholt died 1 year after her marriage.

Gerhard and Angela's first child was Anthony "Tony" Huelsmann, born 13 March 1852 in St. Louis. During the next year, Gerhard moved his young family across the Mississippi to Waterloo, Monroe County, Illinois.

Gerhard's occupation was a plasterer for buildings. During the years from 1854 to 1869, the next seven children were born and were baptized at Sts. Peter and Paul Catholic Church, Waterloo. They were: 2) Gerhard "Henry" (10 August 1854-23 December 1863); 3) John Ernest (1 October 1856-); 4) Adeline Catherine (2 August 1858-21 January 1897 Du Quoin); 5) Francis Henry (8 June 1861-March 1870); 6) George Henry (26 May 1864-13 June 1865); 7) Mary "Anna" (3 December 1866-16 November 1908 Du Quoin); 8) Gerhard Henry (6 August 1869-8 December 1889—20 years).

Gerhard, father, contacted Typhoid Fever at the age of 58 and lingered 13 days before dying on 15 April 1879. He was buried in a "tin" coffin, isolated from the other graves because of the fear of the spread of Typhoid at Sts. Peter and Paul Cemetery, Waterloo.

Angela stayed in Waterloo, even after her 20-year-old son died in 1889. In 1896 Grandma Angela came to live with her daughter "Anna" Huelsmann, wife of prominent businessman Frank J. Schleper, Sr. of Du Quoin, who operated a retail and wholesale grocery businesses. She was a great help with the ten Schleper children at this time (14 children total).

Grandma Angela's eldest son Tony Huelsmann and wife Helena "Lina" Gillenberg had a farm six miles southwest of Du Quoin. They had eleven children. Angela's older daughter Adeline and her husband John Koerber had a farm to the north of Tony Huelsmann. The Koerbers had ten children. Adeline Koerber died at age 38 on 21 January 1897.

Grandma Angela died on 28 October 1901 at the Schleper home. Her daughter and granddaughters prepared the body, which lay overnight in the Schleper parlor. The children took turns "sitting up" with Grandma through the night in the candle-light room. Funeral mass was offered by Father Klocke and her body was taken by train to Freeport and then by carriage to be interred next to her husband Gerhard H. Huelsmann in Sts. Peter and Paul Catholic Cemetery in Waterloo. Mrs. Anna Schleper and eldest brother Tony Huelsmann, both of Du Quoin, are the only two immediate survivors. They accompanied the body." (DQ TRIBUNE)

HUTCHINGS

The Hutchings families of Perry County, Illinois arrived from Logan County, Kentucky and Robertson County, Tennessee in the year of 1816. These families were of William and John Hutchings. John and William left a brother Richard and sister Anna Hutchings Rice in Tennessee. To this date, extensive research has failed to reveal the parents or birth origin of these four Hutchings.

Records have substantiated that they were in Logan County, Kentucky in 1796. Later in Robertson County, Tennessee, across the state line from their Red River Settlement.

After the death and burial of a child, which most likely belonged to John Hutchings. John and William Hutchings first purchased land on Beaucoup Creek in Section 19, T4S, R2W Randolph County, (later became Perry County). This area continued to be their residence and farming settlement for many years.

John Hutchings was married to Susannah Youree, 13 January 1806, Sumner County, Tennessee. They had four children, William, Alexander, and Mary Ann. One child died in infancy. John Hutchings died 5 November 1843. Buried in the Hutchings Cemetery, northwest quarter Section 19, T4S, R2W, now abandoned.

William was married to Selah Jones, prior to Illinois. His family consisted of Selah, John R., Richard, Cynthia Ann, Eli J., Elijah Martin, Wesley Washington, and Deliah Jones, most probably Selah's niece. William died 25 December 1824. Selah Jones Hutchings died 15 August 1836, Perry County, Illinois.

Eli J. Hutchings born 18 March 1810, Robertson County, Tennessee. Married Sabra G. Rice Hutchings, wife of Alexander Hutchings, who was killed in the Black Hawk War, 3 August 1832. Eli J. died 14 August 1866, buried in Old Concord Cemetery, Washington County, Illinois. Eli J. and Sabra G. had nine children. All the children, except Alexander M. Hutchings stayed in Illinois. Two of Eli J.'s sons, Martin Van Buren and William A. Hutchings, died in the Civil War.

Alexander M. Hutchings, second child of Eli J. Hutchings married Kiturah A. W. (Gunn) Dry, 25 January 1856. Kiturah was a widow of Daniel Dry. Alexander and Kiturah moved to Texas, a short period of time, back to Illinois circa 1860 or 1861. Alexander M. and Kiturah moved to Baxter County, Arkansas. Kiturah died in Newton County, Missouri circa 1906. There were nine known children born in this union. Mandy J., Henry W., James A., Sabra Alice, Eli Martin, Ulyssis Grant, Mary A., Zilla, and Noel Alexander Hutchings. The grandfather of this writer.

There has been genealogical books and supplements by Jack Randolph Hutchings published and available in many libraries across the country. John Hutchings of Joplin, Missouri and others have done extensive research in this line of Hutchings, and collateral lines of Rice, Jones, and etc. Books have been placed in Neohso, Joplin, Missouri, Springfield, Tennessee, Ada, Oklahoma, Chester, and Illinois. These books contain detailed land, marriage, death, and other pertinent information regarding the Hutchings families. Submitted by John L. Hutchings

HUTCHINGS-JONES

John R. Hutchings, according to his tombstone, was born 22 April 1802. His parents were William and Celia (Jones) Hutchings (article in this book.) Around 1816/1817, he came with his parents in a covered wagon from Robertson County, Tennessee and settled in the Illinois Territory in what would later become the Perry and Washington County areas.

Delilah Jones, according to her tombstone, was born 3 March 1800. She also came in the covered wagon with the William Hutchings family. Her possible relation to Celia Jones has not been proven. The date John R. and Delilah married is not known.

John R. Hutchings was prominent in the civil organization of Perry County. He is found in many old records of Perry County and held many county offices including County Treasurer (1830-1832), County Coroner (1840 and continued office until 1848), County Surveyor (1848), and judge. He was one of the first three elected Commissioners of Perry County. It has been said that he is credited with picking out the location of the Perry County courthouse. The story goes that they had a basket type dinner. Each commissioner put up a stake. Whoever got the most people to gather around his stake, that was where the courthouse would be. John R. got more people around his stake.

John R. Hutchings was one of the earliest teachers and Baptist ministers. He was baptized and ordained at the Nine Mile Church and afterwards was a member and pastor of the Concord Church. Concord was right across the Perry County line in Washington County. Long after John R. was gone, the church moved to Rice, Perry County, in 1924.

John R. died 23 June 1869 in Perry County. Delilah, according to her tombstone, died 9 December 1875, aged 75 years, 3 months, 6 days. Notice the number of months does not match, but it is not known whether it is the birth or death month or number of months that is incorrect. Both are buried in the Old Concord Cemetery, Washington County.

Their possible children that have been discovered at this time, order unknown, are: Minerva Catherine (Hutchings) Rice (article in this book), Eli, Felix, William, J. J. (possibly Jesse), John W., and Nancy (Hutchings) Cross. Submitted by Janet Hutchings Amelunke

William Hutchings married Celia (early records spell it Selah) Jones. Rumors say they possibly started out in North Carolina or Virginia, nothing proven. Later, they were in Robertson County, Tennessee. There are two possibilities, although it may be neither one or a combination of both, as to why they settled in Perry County.

The "1883 History of Randolph, Monroe, and Perry Counties" page 83, tells of the Hutchings coming to the Illinois Territory from Tennessee in old-fashioned horse drawn wagons. There were 18 persons in all: William Hutchings, his wife, and six children, a Delilah Jones, William's brother John Hutchings, his wife, four children, and three slaves. They were on their way to Missouri when they camped on the banks of the Beaucoup Creek in what later became Beaucoup Precinct, Perry County. After a few days rest, they pushed onward for about fifteen miles when "they abandoned their journey, and returned to their old former camping place, where they had found game and honey in abundance, and where the productive appearance of the surrounding country had favorably impressed them." The story states it was in 1816. However, a court record found in Tennessee makes the year possibly 1817.

That history was done when their son Wesley was still living. A second possibility comes from a researcher in the early 1900s who still had access to old letters, papers, and people closer to the action. He believed there was a child in the party who was ill and they stopped on the banks of the Beaucoup Creek to care for it. However, the child died and was buried there. The families moved but the grieving mother made them return to the grave and they settled there. He was not sure if the child belonged to William or John.

Whatever the exact reason, the Hutchings were one of the first permanent settlers in what would later become Perry County and were prominent and useful citizens. They are the first known settlers in what would become Beaucoup Precinct. Old maps showing all the early prairies in the county show Hutchings Prairie in T4S, R2W. Several Hutchings also spilled over into the Washington County area. There are many Hutchings now living in these counties who are descendants of the two brothers, William and John, who came to the Illinois Territory so long ago.

According to the "1879 History of Washington County, Illinois," page 75, William died

25 December 1824. His probate is in Randolph County since this was before Perry County was formed. Celia later remarried Solomon Stevens. According to the early Washington County history, Celia died 15 August 1836. However, her probate states her death was around 24 August 1836. She died in Perry County.

The early Washington County history states William and Celia had eight children, five boys and three girls. The children who have been found are John R. (article in this book), Richard, Eli J., Elijah M., Wesley Washington, and Cynthia Ann (Hutchings) Dillinger. Submitted by Janet Hutchings Amelunke

HUTCHINGS-KUHL

Bill Clyde Hutchings was born 30 November 1910 in Rice, Perry County, Illinois to Richard and Lanora Ann (Rice) Hutchings (article in this book). Bill attended Duncan School. He loved to hunt. He played on the Rice Baseball team. He attended the Old Concord Church in Washington County, Illinois and later the New Concord Church when it was moved to Rice. He worked on his parents' farm and sorghum mill when young. In 1936 he joined Local Union 644 (now 738) and was a member for over 60 years. He worked on numerous things in Perry County including many highways, the courthouse, and the Pinckneyville Community Hospital.

Bill and Helen Hutchings.

Bill served in the United States Army in World War II from 1941 to 1945 as a machine gunner in antiaircraft. His parents sent him "The Democrat" (a Pinckneyville newspaper). Other soldiers also read it for news from home. Bill left on the train at the Pinckneyville Depot and eventually ended up in California. He later fought in the Aleutians and then went west across the ocean to India. He came back on the U.S.S. General W. F. Hase to New York and then to Pinckneyville. He traveled west all around the world.

Helen Elsie Kuhl was born 12 August 1927 in Rice, Illinois to August Theodore and Edna Elsie (Glenn) Kuhl (article in this book). Helen graduated from the Old Brick School. She attended the Galum Presbyterian Church. She loved to help put flags on the Veteran's graves in the Galum Cemetery. Helen worked on the farm her parents' rented in Pinckneyville while growing up. She worked various places including the Windsor Hotel and the Pinckneyville Garment Factory. While there, the union officers were sent to Madison, Wisconsin to attend meetings and she got to go. That was a big trip back then.

After Helen married, she was a waitress at various places including Luke's Café during its heyday. When the Pinckneyville Panthers had an away game, they brought the kids back to town, stopped the bus at the stop sign next to Luke's and opened the doors. That was something to have all those kids hit at once. There was standing room only. Sometimes the bus got back to town late, but Luke's never closed until the team was home.

Bill and Helen married 27 February 1946 in Pinckneyville and were married over 51 years. In 1947 they moved into their home in Pinckneyville which at that time was next to the No. 5 mine. They lived there all their lives. Bill always had big gardens. He loved to watch things grow. Helen canned several hundred jars of food a year. They attended the Second Baptist Church at first. Later they joined the First Baptist Church where Bill became a deacon on 25 September 1966. Bill died 22 May 1997 in Du Quoin, Illinois and is buried in the New Concord Cemetery in Rice.

They have two children: Janet Elaine (Hutchings) Amelunke and Janelle Ann (Hutchings) Smith. Both have articles in this book. They have one granddaughter, Rachel Elizabeth Smith. Submitted by Janet Hutchings Amelunke

HUTCHINGS-RICE

Richard Hutchings ("Dick") was born 4 October 1873 in Rice, Perry County, Illinois to Francis Marion and Rachel (Corr) Hutchings (article in this book). He probably attended Duncan School. Lanora Ann Rice ("Nora") was born 1 May 1888 in Cross District, Perry County, Illinois to Thomas Jefferson and Nancy Romaine (Fulton) Rice (article in this book). She probably attended Cross School.

Dick and Nora Hutchings.

Dick and Nora went to St. Louis World's Fair together. They married 3 June 1907. Location is unverified, but a news article said they married in St. Louis. Their homestead was in Rice where they farmed, raised livestock, and had a big orchard.

They also had a sorghum mill where they made the best sorghum molasses. If someone brought the wrong kind of cane, Dick gave them seed to grow sorghum cane so the next year they had the right kind. They pressed the cane and Nora stirred the sap from the front of the pan to the end while Dick kept a big fire going underneath. During the fall, so many people brought cane to their mill that they worked six days a week from early morning to late evening.

They traded at Hunter's Store in Rice. They attended the Old Concord Church in Washington County, Illinois and later the New Concord Church when it moved to Rice.

Three sons, Bill, Nelson, and Donald, served in World War II. Bill and Nelson left the same day. Donald went in later. Nora had three blue stars in her window. All three came home safely.

While the boys were in the war, Dick died 28 May 1943 in Rice. Nora died 2 August 1954 at her son Bill's house in Pinckneyville. Both are buried in the New Concord Cemetery in Rice along with their children Opal, Bill, Nelson, Allene, Annabelle, and Marion. They had 11 children.

(Hutchings-Rice) (22 May 1839-8 December 1880) Hutchings. Living in the Tamaroa area and working most of his life for I.C.C. Railroad. Marrying Margaret Fulton (30 May 1868-4 June 1928) on 14 April 1886 in Perry County, to this union there were 12 children. After the death of his first wife, he married Dollie Ann Knapp Adams (26 January 1890-19 September 1980) on 1 January 1929 in Perry County. To this marriage were born two more children, Doris L. (Woodside) (2 December 1929) and Harry James (12 September 1932). He is buried at Round Prairie Cemetery, along with his first wife Margaret. His second wife Dollie is buried at Mueller Hill Cemetery.

Thomas Hutchings was a direct descendant of both John and William Hutchings. Thomas's father William A.'s parents were William (1808-28 August 1865) and Sarah (1807-June 1851)

Hutchings. William's parents were John (1778-5 November 1843) and Susan Youree (1779-9 November 1843) Hutchings.

Thomas Harvey (Harry) Hutchings.

Thomas's mother, Susan F., was the daughter of Eli J. (18 March 1810-14 August 1866) and Sabra G. Rice (19 November 1814-23 November 1873) Hutchings. Eli J. was the son of William (1776-15 August 1836) Hutchings.

Being of English descent, John and William Hutchings, two brothers, traveled from their home-stead near Halifax County, Virginia and Caswell County, North Carolina. After spending some years in Robertson County, Tennessee, in 1816 not being satisfied with the country, the families decided to move on to Missouri. The group consisting of William, his wife (Celia Jones), and six children, John, his wife (Susan Youree), and four children, a Miss Delilah Jones, who later became the wife of John R. Hutchins, three slaves, Landon, and Agis Parks and a young black woman named Dinah. They were given their freedom October 1830.

Because of a sick child, the band stopped at the banks of Beaucoup Creek. On 10 May 1816, the child was buried on a grassy knoll overlooking Beaucoup Creek, which is now called Bowles Bottom and the start of Hutchings Cemetery. The families stayed, for the productive appearance of the surrounding countryside had favorably impressed them.

Through the early years, Hutchings were prominent and useful citizens; they played a large part in the history of Perry County. They helped establish the towns of Pinckneyville and Rice. The connections between Hutchings and Rice families go back further than 180 years, with marriages between the two families. The Hutchings Cemetery is gone now, but John and William Hutchings owe their existence in Perry County, to the child who died 10 May 1816. Submitted by Ginger Smith and Marie Hutchings

IBENDAHL-TOWELL

Calvin F. Ibendahl, a World War II and Korean Veteran, came to Tamaroa, Illinois in March of 1958. He had purchased the Roots/Kimzey farm from Browning and quit SIU, Carbondale, in his senior year to farm. In December of 1958 he traveled to Tucson, Arizona to marry Jean Ayres Towell, a former classmate at the University of Illinois.

The Ibendahls began an intensive farm operation on the 650 acre farm growing corn, wheat, soybeans and hogs. They became involved in many farm organizations and were active in the Methodist Church in Pinckneyville. They won many honors as they became "agricultural activists" and promoted agriculture. Jean was a founder of the Ag in the Classroom program and served on the USDA Advisory committee in Washington, D.C. for ten years. She served on trade missions for the USDA and traveled to several foreign countries. Calvin was chosen as one of five U.S. farmers to travel to Russia and both Ibendahls visited China, Japan, Guatemala, Greece, Australia and New Zealand on Agricultural missions.

Jean and Calvin Ibendahl.

After a 27 year absence from school, Calvin returned to Southern Illinois University and received his B.S. degree in Ag Business in 1983. The Ibendahls give scholarships to two women who pursue careers in agriculture every year. The Daughters of American Agriculture scholarships amount to $500 per year. Jean taught school for 20 years and has a Bachelor's and Master's degree from the University of Illinois.

The Ibendahls are 4-H Club leaders and instill a work ethic and appreciation for agriculture in the members who have won many awards and honors, exemplifying their leaders.

JACKSON-CAMPBELL

Alva Jackson was born 23 October 1893 in Du Quoin, Illinois. He was the son of Lewis and Mary (Heape) Jackson. One of Alva's early lessons in life was when his father caught him smoking. Lewis took Alva by the heels and dunked him up and down in the rain barrel until he thought Alva had learned his lesson. He did not and still hadn't as of 1973. On 5 June 1917 at the age of 23, he registered for the military listing his occupation as a farmer. He entered the army and served in France during World War I. Although never wounded, he did catch the measles while stationed there. Knowing something about working the fields, he talked to farmers in France about the reason they used a team of horses harnessed in a row, like a dog sled, instead of side by side. After his return from service he worked at the Majestic Coal Mines until his retirement. He was married to Gertrude Viola Campbell on 24 November 1920 in Du Quoin. She was born 12 September 1892 in Pinckneyville, Illinois. Her parents were William and Olive Frances (Holmes) Campbell (see Campbell-Holmes biography). Gertrude worked as a bookkeeper for the VanKueren's grocery store. She would also substitute as a teacher for her sister, Ethel, at the Holt's Prairie School. She was a member of the Du Quoin Baptist Church. The women's Sunday School had a Halloween party in which everyone was supposed to dress up in disguise. Gertie dressed in Alva's old World War I uniform and took first prize.

Alva and Gertrude (Campbell) Jackson.

Alva and Gertrude lived most of their lives in Perry County. They had five children: Loren Campbell (1923) married Anna French and lives in Pendleton, Indiana. JACKSON-FRENCH

Loren Jackson was born 8 December 1923 in Du Quoin, Illinois. He was the eldest child of Alva and Gertrude (Campbell) Jackson. Mrs. Axley, who lived next door on East Park Street, delivered him into the world because the doctor's horse and buggy had been delayed by a train. Although he weighed only about four pounds at birth the doctor said "lets tell his mother he weighs five pounds." At the age of 13, his mother died. His father, with four children to raise, needed help as he had to work at the mine all day. Loren convinced his father to let him go to live with his Grandpa Jackson on the farm (near present day 9 Mile Cemetery). The rest of the family went to live with Gertrude's mother, Ollie Campbell, at 337 East Franklin Street in Du Quoin. Loren loved living on the farm with his grandfather. His bed was in the dining room behind the wood burning stove and his closet was a peg where he hung his overalls. Some of his happiest memories as a child were of the times spent at the farm. Loren attended Hardscrabble School where he was given the job as janitor. One of his duties was to arrive at school 30 minutes ahead of all the other kids and stoke the fires in the furnace downstairs so it would be warm by the time everyone arrived. As he walked to school, he would carry a gunny sack to pick up coal that had fallen from boxcars. He would hide his gunny sack in the weeds until after school and repeat the process on the way home at the end of the day.

Loren spent his freshman year at Pinckneyville High. He was on the tumbling team and was the first boy ever to earn a letter his first year. During high school he moved back with his father and graduated from Du Quoin High School in 1943.

Loren also was a good judge of dairy cows. During regional competitions held at the penal farm in Vandalia he placed first. After advancing to competition in Champaign-Urbana, he took third place in the entire state of Illinois.

Later in 1943 he moved to Indianapolis and stayed with his uncle, Charles Campbell. Charles convinced Loren to learn a trade. He entered watchmaking school at Bradley University in Peoria and became a watchmaker in 1945. Upon completing school he secured a job as a watchmaker at Tiemeier's Jewelry Store in Seymour, Indiana. Although his eyes were fine, he would visit an eye, ear and nose specialist where Anna French was the doctor's assistant.

He was married to Anna Rita French on 23 August 1947 in Seymour, Indiana. She was the daughter of Leo and Clara (Hill) French. Anna was born 2 December 1922 in Seymour, Indiana. Loren and Anna had three children: Stephen, (1949), Daniel (1950) and Michael (1954).

They moved from Seymour in 1964 when Loren bought Lang's Jewelry Store in Pendleton, Indiana. In 1985 he retired from being a jeweler and watchmaker after more than 50 years. Traveling is one of their favorite activities. They have been to all fifty states and many countries. Although they don't travel so much any more, they do visit his sister, Irma and her husband Rudy Michael, in Las Vegas during the winter.

JACKSON-HEAPE

Lewis Jackson was born 10 April 1867 in VanBuren County, Michigan. His parents were John and Lavise (Kinney) Jackson. With his parents and brothers, they moved to Perry County in 1873.

Lewis married Mary Heape on 27 October 1892 in Perry County, Illinois where they remained the rest of their lives. Mary was born on 31 January 1874 in Tamaroa, Illinois. Her parents were George and Sarah Elizabeth (Benson) Heape (see Heape-Benson biography).

Lewis and Mary had four children: Alva (1893-1973) married Gertrude Campbell, Leonard (1897-1949), Edna (1901-1997) who married Otto Zoekler and William Foutch, and George (1906-1995) who married Alburnes Scronce who still lives in Du Quoin.

Lewis, for a short time worked at the mine. He made $1 per day and was probably glad to get that. Mining didn't suit him so he spent the rest of his life farming. Lewis also raised peaches and watermelons. One season he had an entire load of peaches, already boxed and waiting for the truck to arrive the next day, stolen. When his watermelons ripened he camped out in the patch with his dog and shotgun. The watermelons got to market. Lewis and Mary also had an egg and butter route where they made deliveries every Saturday. They would load up the '34 Chevy and make the rounds of all their regular customers. Sometimes they would sell to the local grocery store. Mary's cold cellar had thick heavy door at the entrance to a 6 x 6 area about three foot in the ground. No one but Mary was allowed inside the cellar.

Lewis owned a Overland automobile. Every winter before the weather got bad he would park the car in the barn, jack the car up and hang the wheel from the walls wrapped in newspaper. Lewis' family attended the Little Vine Christian Church. The family would dress in their Sunday clothes, which was to be used only for attending church services. Although another church was closer to the homestead, Lewis would go the extra distance to attend Little Vine. When the minister could not make it for Sunday services Lewis would lead the congregation in song. Mary had a sister, Lillie (1887-1986). Although there was almost 13 years difference in their ages, they looked like identical twins in later life. Mary had long white hair that reached to her waist.

Lewis died in Du Quoin 24 February 1938. Mary died in Du Quoin 31 October 1943. They are buried in the IOOF Cemetery in Du Quoin.

FRIEDRICH JAUSEL

He was born 17 September 1835 in Alsace Lorraine (per his death certificate) along the German-French border. This conflicts with a census which lists his birthplace as Bavaria. He moved to the United States for a better life and lived in St. Louis which was a hot bed of civil war activity. Like many Germans in the area, he enlisted in the federal army on 1 August 1861 and served in Company A of the 1st Regiment Missouri Volunteer cavalry at Jefferson Barracks. In the spring of 1862, he had rheumatism and developed heart disease forcing him to be confined to the post for about 6 weeks. On 11 July 1862 Friedrich's unit under the command of Captain William A. Martin chased Quantrill's guerrillas to a defensive position in some rocky cliffs near Kansas City. Quantrill gained reinforcements from Matthew Houx and Colonel Upton Hayes' command. It took seven charges at rebels before they were routed from the cliffs. Friedrich was wounded in his left hand from the bursting of his Colt revolving carbine. These Colt carbines were similar to a pistol revolver except with a rifle stock and long barrel. As with the cap and ball pistols, they sometimes were inclined to chain fire, causing several cylinders to go off at once. He was also wounded in the right hand by enemy fire which fractured the bone in his thumb. After the Battle of Big Creek Cliffs, not much is known about the rest of his civil war service except that he continued to complete his full three year enlistment despite the permanent disability from these wounds.

After the war, he lived in St. Louis where he married Anna Elisabeth Bornscheuer in 1869. To the couple were born five children: Fred Jr., Lena (17 February 1872), August (21 November 1873), Gustaf Adolph (26 July 1877) and Henry (25 March 1881). Friedrich worked as a stonemason but continued to have problems with his right hand from the civil war injuries and was able to get his disability pension increased. In 1897, he purchased 325 acres in Perry County near Swanwick. The farm was handed down to the current generations. Friedrich died 10 October 1902 and Anna just 13 days later. Both are buried at Swanwick Cemetery. Submitted by Marshall Porter, a great, great grandson.

KABAT

John Kabat as a journeyman came to the Milwaukee, Wisconsin area from Poland. Nothing is known about the Kabats who stayed in the Milwaukee area. What is known is that Andrew and John, Jr. migrated to southern Illinois during the late 1830's or 1840's for the Illinois Homestead Act.

Nick and Anna Kabat.

The two brothers ended up near the Perry and Jefferson county line. Andrew settled in Perry County in Section 12 of 4-1 district. This is also 1 1/2 miles south of Washington County. The Scheller mail carrier of Jefferson County with the Du Bois carrier also delivers mail in the northeast part of Perry County. This creates a lot of confusion to what county people belong in.

Jon Kabat, Jr. ended up in Jefferson County where he started his new family and life. Most of his children stayed in the area.

Andrew Kabat married Agnes Godsyk. To this union eight children were born: Stanley (called Sam), Frank, John, Joe, Jane, Mary, Julia, and Cathern. Sam was the only one to stay in the area. He married Josephine Witowski and also settled down in Section 12 of Perry County next to his parents. To this marriage were born 4 children: Celia, Roman J., Frank, and Ignatius, (known as Nick) 1906-1989. One of Nick's earlier jobs was to work on building Route 51 near Du Bois. Nick was called a mule skinner. He took care of the mules as well as pulled little carts with rock and sand from the rail site in Du Bois out to the construction site. Other people loaded and unloaded the little carts that were pulled on little tracks.

In 1931, Nick, married Anna Skorczewski,. Anna was a granddaughter of Martin Skorczewski who was one of the main contracting engineers of the covered bridge over the St. Mary's River near Chester. He was also involved building other buildings near Chester. They originally settled near Chester, but his children did not take up carpentry, so they later moved up north of Tamaroa on a farm.

To Nick and Anna Kabat's marriage they raised 5 children: Paul, Carl, Leonard, (1934 - 1989), Robert (Bob), and Mary Ann.

Paul and Carl both became Missionary Priests and spent 3 years in the Philippines doing missionary work. Then a tour of 3 years in Brazil. On his second tour in Brazil, some official decided he didn't want him there and set him up to get rid of him in the country. Both priests were very active in nuclear disarmament and nuclear power.

In 1955 Leonard married Lorene Kiselewski of the Scheller - Sesser area. They bought a farm east of Du Bois in Washington County where they raised seven children. In 1989 at the age of 55, Leonard died due to a truck wreck in Chester.

In 1972, Mary Ann married Richard W. Radake. They bought a farm east of Tamaroa which is in 4-1 District of Perry County. They have four children. Submitted by Robert J. (Bob) Kabat

KABAT-TOMASZEWSKI

Robert J. (Bob) Kabat married Shirley Tomaszevski of the Radom area in 1959. Bob was born in Chester in 1936, while Shirley was born east of Radom in the Du Bois District in Washington County. She lived here until she married Bob. After moving from Granite City back to Section 1 of 4-1 District in 1942, basically lived in Perry County, besides for time in the Army.

Shirley and Robert J. (Bob) Kabat.

Eight children were born to this marriage: Paulette, Margaret, Robert A., Lawrence, Gary, Kenneth, Thomas, and Monica. The first seven children graduated from Tamaroa Community High School. The Tamaroa High School then closed and Monica graduated from Pinckneyville Community High School. Bob also graduated in 1955 from Tamaroa Community High School

All eight children have a college degree of some sort. Most of them have an associate degree of some sort.

Bob and Shirley have lived all their married life in one place. It's the Nick Boczek farm two miles south of Du Bois in section 10 of 4-1 of Perry County. The area is part of Du Bois rural route which is from Washington County.

Bob has worked almost all of his life in Perry County, first at Perry Metals by Pinckneyville, then Taylor Brothers in Tamaroa, then Central Shop for Consolidation. In 1979, he transferred to Burning Star #2. In the last part of 1985 Bob and many more got laid off. During these next nine years, Bob worked for Boyd Brothers for 4 years and also worked for Howard Heumann for some four years.

In July of 1994, Bob was lucky enough to be called off the panel to Burning Star #4. He worked from July to November when he had a second heart attack. He wasn't released to go back to work when, in June of 1995, he had his third heart attack. The doctors would not release him to go back to work, so Bob had to retire at age 59.

Since Andrew Kabat settled in the north east part of Perry County in the late 1830's or 1840's, there has been a Kabat living in this corner. Right now Bob is the only one living in 4-1 District. But Bob and Shirley have four children living in Perry County, most of them in the Du Quoin area.

Gary enjoys rabbit and deer hunting, fishing, and traveling.

Gary and Sharon met at a chicken and beer dance at the Du Bois K.C. Hall 11 November 1989. Gary's sister Wanda and her first husband Ruben were friends of Sharon's. Wanda arranged to introduce Sharon to Gary that night. After three hours of waiting, and Gary drinking several beers for courage, Gary finally asked Sharon to dance. They have been together ever since.

On 31 August 1990, Gary and Sharon had planned an one day trip to Kentucky Lake. They stopped at Paducah's Cracker Barrel Restaurant for breakfast and Sharon began to notice that Gary was acting strange. She thought something must be on his mind about the business or perhaps he was ill. Unbeknownst to Sharon, when Gary excused himself to go to the restroom, he actually slipped outside to his pickup truck. He returned, they finished breakfast, and prepared to journey on to Kentucky Lake. When Sharon went to get in the pickup there was something wrapped in a paper towel lying in the seat. Thinking it was a peach from her mother's refrigerator, Sharon was about to ask Gary why her mother had given him the "peach" when her hand closed around it. In an instant she realized the "peach" was a ring box! Gary was so nervous he pushed her on in the truck and drove back onto I-24. In true trucker fashion, his proposal was a simple "Will you?" between that exit and the next. Sharon answered yes and finally opened the box and slipped the ring on. At least once a year the couple return to Kentucky Lake. Each time they pass the "Will you?" spot they reminisce about the day they became engaged.

Sharon and Gary were married 8 February 1992 at First Baptist Church. A large well-attended reception was held at the K.C. Hall in Pinckneyville.

They live in their first home located on State Highway 127 North, just south of Oak Grove Baptist Church. They have no children.

KERN-BAILIE

Joseph Kern and Louise Bailie were married 29 November 1905 at Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Du Quoin.

Joseph was born 29 December 1874 in Du Quoin and was the ninth of eleven children born to Philip Jacob and Catherine (Kreher) Kern. Louise was the third of six children born to William and Bridget (McCarty) Bailie. Her father was Scotch-Irish and her mother was Irish. She grew up in Du Quoin in a house that still stands on South Walnut Street.

Joseph and Louise Kern.

Joseph was a talented musician and played the baritone masterfully. He along with two of his brothers, played for years in community bands that have been well-documented by area historians. Around the turn of the century, many of those bands would hold impromptu parades down Main Street and through residential sections of Du Quoin.

When Joe began courting Louise, rumor has it that he would serenade her outside her bedroom window. After they were married, they lived on Joe's parents home place along South Wells Street Road. There they had eight children, though the first and last born of them died in infancy. Their children were: Thomas Joseph (1908-1908); Catherine Rita Schubert Stone (1909-1990); Joseph Charles (1912-1988); Albert Bernard (1914-1991); Charles August (1916-1978); Philip Paul (1918-1998); William Francis (1920-1979); and Helen Louise (1922-1922).

Lula was known for her jovial and outgoing personality. She would regularly sing, laugh and spread her good humor. It is said she took after her father's personality. Joe, on the other hand, had his family's more stern German background.

Joe was a life-long coal miner who worked in several mines. He worked tirelessly to provide for the family, but years in the mines took their toll on this health. He suffered breathing problems for years. In those days, young men wishing to work in the mines had to find a currently-employed sponsor to show them the work first-hand. When some of his own sons wanted to go to work with him, he refused to sponsor any of them, saying he didn't want his sons to endure the hazards and health concerns he faced.

Joe's family came from a line of German sausage makers. He and his brothers regularly made their own sausage. Lula was known for her culinary skills and did all the baking, canning and cooking house wives raising large families were known for.

Both Joe and Lula were lifetime members at Sacred Heart and they instilled a great deal of faith in all of their children. Joe rarely attended church services. Usually it was on holidays or special occasions. Lula, however, attended mass almost daily. She would trod the dirt road to church every morning, then do her shopping downtown.

After Joe's parents died, the couple and their growing family lived in his parents' three room home they built around 1868. As the family grew, Joe decided a larger place was needed. He built the present home place around 1920 by tearing down the old home and using much of the lumber in the new two story place, immediately to the north. The family slept in tents outside until the new place was under roof. The home still stands and remains in the family today.

Four of their five sons fought in World War II and all came home safely, though neither Joe or Lula lived to see it. Lula died on 22 August 1941; Joe on 3 March 1942. They are buried at Sacred Heart Cemetery. Submitted by Kevin Kern

KUHL-BRAATZ

August Kuhl was born in 1838. Henrietta Wilhelmina Braatz was born 23 February 1844, Kratznick, Germany to Fred and Johanna Braatz (Article in this book).

Wilhelmina Kuhl.

August Kuhl first married Christina, had one child, William F. Kuhl. Christina died. Then on 20 May 1874, August married Henrietta Wilhelmina Braatz. They had two children in Germany, Frank and Albert. In 1882, they came by boat to America. They were late getting across the ocean due to bad weather. They were afraid they were going to run out of food because everyone had to take their own food for the whole journey and it took longer than they had planned. They came through Wisconsin and were in Milwaukee, Wisconsin when their daughter Bertha was born. In 1884, they came by train to Perry County, Illinois and got off at Tamaroa.

Their homestead was in the Todd's Mill area. August was a farmer. Their grandson said they built their barn first and lived above it like people did in Germany. Then they built their house. While working on the log house, August got a rupture of some kind and sent to Germany for a rupture belt or truss. It came the day he was buried. He died 23 August 1886 or 87. August filed an intent to become a naturalized citizen. It is unknown if he actually did this. All three sons became naturalized citizens.

It is thought that Wilhelmina was a Lutheran in Germany. However, she attended the St. Mark's Evangelical Church in Du Bois, Washington County, Illinois because they spoke German. She read the bible every night. She made the best catfish stew using clabbered milk when someone got lucky at the creek.

Wilhelmina died 21 July 1930. She and August both died in Perry County and are buried in the Round Prairie Cemetery (have heard it called Goldman Cemetery), Perry County, Illinois.

1) William F. Kuhl, born 15 January 1872, Stoneburg (spelling uncertain, possibly Steinburg), Germany. Married Louisa A. Kreger, no known children. Died 2 November 1965, Chester, Randolph County, Illinois. Buried in Chapel Hill Cemetery, Du Bois. 2) Albert J. Kuhl, born 11 March 1875, Steinburg, Germany. Died 28 December 1956. Buried Round Prairie Cemetery. First wife or wives unknown but last wife was Lula Doolin (September 12, 1897 to July 29, 1971) Centralia Cemetery. Known children (order unknown): Wilford, Melvin, Dale, Ray, Faye (Kuhl) Hargarten, Virginia (Kuhl) Hall. 3) August Frank Charles Kuhl, born 17 February 1878 (article in this book). 4) Bertha A. Kuhl, born 4 October 1882, Milwaukee, Wisconsin died 1 October 1978, New Athens, Illinois buried in Mueller Hill Cemetery, Pinckneyville, Illinois. Married Joseph P. Todd on 25 November 1902 in Todd's Mill. Children (5): Leonard F., Ralph J., William F., Orval C., Elcna W. (Todd) Anderson. Submitted by Janet Hutchings Amelunke

KUHL-GLENN

August Theodore Kuhl ("Ted") was born 12 February 1905 in Todd's Mill, Perry County, Illinois to August Frank Charles and Anna Bertha (Hubler) Kuhl (article in this book). Ted graduated from Round Prairie School. They hitched up the wagon and went to Pinckneyville to get his diploma. What a day!

Elsie and Ted Kuhl.

Ted worked on his parents' farm when young. Later he worked for Templeton's Dairy. On 12 May 1926, he was on his way back from a field when the wagon he was on was hit by an I.C.R.R. train at Templeton's crossing. Ted was thrown about 40 feet which saved his life. The two horses were killed and the wagon completely destroyed.

Edna Elsie Glenn ("Elsie") was born 8 December 1905 in rural Oakdale, Washington, County, Illinois to Madison Elmer and Phoebe Ellen (Porter) Glenn (article in this book). When Elsie was 11, her father failed to come home one night. She was the oldest and had to go out in the night, knocking on doors, looking for her dad but he was already dead. What a thing to have to do at that age.

Elsie's mother later remarried and they moved to Rice, Perry County, Illinois across the field from Ted's Uncle Henry Stern so they saw each other around. The first time Ted took Elsie home was from a dance because, "She was the best dancer there." Over the years, people cleared the floor to watch them dance. Ted had a great love of horses and always took great care of his. He came to court Elsie in the prettiest horse and buggy. They married 26 April 1927 in Pinckneyville.

Elsie did incredible needlework, crochet, embroidery and quilting. She made breads and things out of anything like pumpkin and zucchini. Ted was always proud of her things.

Around 1933, Ted and Elsie started farming and did so almost the rest of their lives. They did everything together. If Ted was outside working, so was Elsie. If Elsie was inside canning or something, so was Ted. The last farm they lived on was in Conant, a small farm community west of Pinckneyville which they loved. They belonged to the Trinity Lutheran Church in Conant. When the mines came through, they moved to Pinckneyville. Elsie died 26 April 1987 on their 60th wedding anniversary. Ted died 26 February 1994. Both died in Pinckneyville and are buried in the New Concord Cemetery in Rice. They had 4 children: 1) Helen Elsie (Kuhl) Hutchings (born 12 August 1927) (article in this book). 2) Elmer Frank Kuhl ("Doc"), born 19 September 1931, Pinckneyville. First married Helen, one child: Buryl Franklin Kuhl (born 19 June 1952). Elmer married second Connie Nickols. Children (2): Robert Vernon Kuhl (born 23 September 1955) and Rodney Theodore Kuhl (born 30 August 1962). 3) Juanita Mae Kuhl, born 18 March 1934, Pinckneyville. Married Lawrence James Kobus, 18 November 1950, Nashville, Illinois. Children (5): Susie Jane (Kobus) Boosinger (born 31 December 1951), Judith Ann Kobus (born 20 January 1953), Marilyn Jean (Kobus) Johnson (born 10 November 1954), Lawrence William Kobus (born 22 December 1955) and Daniel James Kobus (born 15 July 1957). 4) Norman Glenn Kuhl, born 22 September 1940, Pinckneyville. KUHL-HUBLER

August Frank Charles Kuhl ("Frank") was born 17 February 1878, in Steinburg, Germany to August and Henrietta Wilhelmina (Braatz) Kuhl (article in this book). In 1882, Frank came to America with his parents and siblings settling first in Milwaukee, Wisconsin. In 1884, the family came to Perry County getting off the train at Tamaroa. Frank was confirmed into the St. Mark's Evangelical Church in Du Bois, Washington County, Illinois on 10 April 1892. Frank became a naturalized citizen.

Ted, Frank, Anna and Harold Kuhl.

Anna Bertha Hubler was born 6 September 1883 in Three Mile Prairie, Perry County, Illinois to Ben Theodore and Amanda Bertha (Moss) Hubler (article in this book). Anna attended the Old Concord Church in Washington County, Illinois.

Frank and Anna married 18 November 1902 in Washington County, Illinois. Their homestead was in Todd's Mill, Perry County, Illinois. They built their home and barn and farmed there all their lives. Their property was on the north side of Frank's mother's land. Some say that Indians had camped on these two homesteads, especially by some small bluffs. The Kuhl's were always picking up Indian beads and arrow heads. Snakes were abundant. Once Frank stuck his hand in a brush pile to set it on fire and was bitten by a copperhead snake. When he didn't come home, Harold went to look for him. Frank almost died before he could get him to the doctor.

Frank had a blacksmith shop on his farm. He also whittled and once made a rocking horse out of a solid log (not several pieces) for his grandson Elmer Kuhl. He made a doll bed and table and chairs for his granddaughter Helen Kuhl. Anna could really sew. She took pieces of material from old clothes and coats and would make ones like new. Anna sang and could be heard by her neighbors singing "Amazing Grace" while gathering eggs.

Frank and Anna traded at both Suchomski Stores in Todd's Mill which were almost right at the end of the lane to get to their homestead. John Suchomski had a store on the north side of the road. Later his son, Louis Suchomski, started a store across the street which was at first just in his kitchen. Anna had a pretty basket she put eggs in to take to sell.

Anna died 6 October 1944 in St. Vincent's Hospital, St. Louis, Missouri. Frank died 13 July 1969 in The Community Hospital, Pinckneyville, Illinois. Both are buried in the New Concord Cemetery in Rice, Perry County, Illinois.

They had 4 children: 1. August Theodore Kuhl, born 12 February 1905 (article in this book). 2. Ilora attended Round Prairie School. When she died, 4 girls were pall bearers at her funeral. Buried New Concord Cemetery. 4. Herbert ("Bert") Frank Kuhl (6 March 1917 to 18 August 1985), served in World War II, married Mrs. Frances Webb on 18 December 1950, one child, Linda Mae Kuhl, born 8 February 1952. Frances had three children by a previous marriage: Judith, David and Michael Webb. Submitted by Janet Hutchings Amelunke

KUJAWA-SLUSHER

Sylvester John Kujawa was born 2 June 1917 in Perry County, Pinckneyville, Illinois, the son of Joseph (Joe) Kujawa and Ethel (Hill) Kujawa. He died 2 November 1987 in Pinckneyville, Illinois at the age of 70.

Sylvester married Thelma (Slusher) Kujawa on 29 February 1936 in Washington County, Nashville, Illinois. Thelma was born 21 January 1920 in St. Clair County, Freeburg, Illinois. At the age of three, her parents moved to Perry County on Pyatt Blacktop Road. Thelma was the daughter of David Earl and Sarah (Reese) Slusher.

Sylvester and Thelma Kujawa.

Sylvester worked in 1936 on construction of Route 127 north of Pinckneyville. It was a dirt road and nearly impassable during bad weather. He helped finish concrete for that road. He then started farming and was a very successful and dedicated farmer. He repaired most of his machinery. He was an active member of Oak Grove Baptist Church and was a deacon and song director for many years. He also helped lay brick for the remodeling of the Perry County Courthouse in the late 1930's. He was very musical and could play the accordion, guitar and piano. He was athletic and played on a softball league and held the position of pitcher and threw a wicked curve ball that almost no one could hit.

Thelma helped with farming and was an avid gardener. She also liked chickens, guineas, geese and ducks and raised them for food. She and Sylvester raised cattle and hogs and did their own butchering of hogs with the help of relatives. They milked cows by hand. Thelma liked to write poems. She was an active member of Oak Grove Baptist Church and helped in Bible School, Sunday School and in the kitchen.

Sylvester and Thelma raised three children: Lester Douglas, born 28 October 1936; Marilyn Judy, born 22 May 1943; and Johnny Ray (John) born 25 September 1953.

Nicolaus Laufer born 11 May 1831 in Germany was the eldest of 8 children of Johannes and Elisabetha (Hammel) Laufer. Johannes Laufer was the son of Jacob and Elisabeth (Hammel) Laufer. Just 2 of the intermarriages between the Hammel and Laufer families continue up to the present time. These families are covered in the 'Hammel-Laufer Families' published in 1978 by Martha Mae Schmidt.

Katharine was christened and confirmed Evangelical at Centralia, Illinois. Christian was confirmed Evangelical at Pinckneyville in 1882. LAUFER-VALENTIN

George Laufer the 2nd son of Nicolaus and Anna Regina (Kaffenberger) Laufer was born 29 September 1867, baptized 31 July 1870 and confirmed in 1881 both Evangelical at Centralia, Illinois. George was married 5 August 1896 at

Pinckneyville to Johanna Philippine Valentin born 16 March 1863 in St. Clair County, Illinois a daughter of John D. and Elizabeth (Brandt) Valentin. Johanna was confirmed in 1876 at St. Pauls Evangelical Church at Pinckneyville. George and Johanna had 3 children: Heinrich Christian, John R. and Mary Emma. Johanna died 19 July 1932 and George died 24 July 1951. (see LAUER-KAFFENBERGER)

Heinrich C. born 28 November 1897 at Tamaroa, Illinois was baptized 30 January 1898 and confirmed in 1914 Evangelical at St. Pauls in Pinckneyville. He never married and died 16 August 1949.

John R. born 25 September 1899 in Perry County was confirmed in 1914 Evangelical at Pinckneyville. He never married and died 14 March 1977.

Mary Emma born 28 March 1903 in Perry County was baptized 18 October 1903 and confirmed in 1920 at St. Pauls Evangelical Church at Pinckneyville. She also never married and died 22 July 1975 at Pinckneyville.

All members of this family are buried in the Mueller Hill Cemetery at Pinckneyville.

Johanna Philippine (Valentin) Laufer was the 5th child of Johann Daniel Valentin born about 1831 in Umstadt, Hessen Darmstadt a son of Dr. George Valentin. Johann Daniel was married 6 July 1851 in St. Clair County to Lisette Brand born about 1833 in Ausbach Nassau. In the 1860's J. D. Valentin and Christ Brand owned land in Section 7 of Marissa Township West of Hotz Rd and south of Route 13 (between Hillstown and Lenzburg, Illinois). Johann Daniel and Lisette had at least 5 children: Catherine born about 1852, Margaret, born about 1855, George born about 1857 (see Pg 341 Vol 1), Elionore born 19 November 1859 was baptized at Belleville, and Johanna Philippine born 16 March 1863 was baptized at Darmstadt, Illinois. Living with this family on the 1860 census was a George Valentin born about 1792 who might have been Johann Daniel's father. This family apparently moved to the Pinckneyville area prior to 1873, as George and Mary Valentin were confirmed at St. Pauls Evangelical Church in Pinckneyville in 1873.

The Christ Brand family lived on property adjoining the Johann Daniel Valentin family in St. Clair County as stated above. Christ Brand born about 1825 in Prussia was married 6 July 1851 to Eva Wien born about 1827 in Hessen Darmstadt. Their children on the 1860 census were: John born about 1852, George born about 1854, Mary about 1856 and Jacob born about 1860. It is assumed that Christ Brand was brother to Lisette Brand who married J. D. Valentin as they were married on the same day. Submitted by Martha Mae Schmidt

He graduated both from elementary school and high school in Tamms. Jefferson, and this was adopted by the first congress. He also signed the Declaration of Independence, and his brother, Francis Lightfoot was also a signer of the Declaration, so the Lee family had more to do with our laws than any other family. The Lee family were the aristocrats of that time. The family has furnished our military divisions with generals, captains, lieutenants, colonels and Robert E. Lee who is idolized by the South today and monuments to his memory are erected in various cities.

General Lee's son Fitzhugh fathered Issac Lee, who along with his ten year old son Peter immigrated to Illinois from Jackson County, Tennessee, about 1830. Peter's children were Richard Lee, John Drake Lee, Virginia Lee and Sara Lee. From these children of Peter Lee can most of the Perry County Lees trace their roots. Peter's oldest son Richard fathered Richard (Dickie) Lee, Alfred Lee, and Elnora Lee (Blakely). From Peter's son John Drake many of the Tamaroa Lees can trace their ancestry.

Richard (Dickie) Lee was the father of Clyde Lee, Nancy's grandfather. Other siblings of Clyde were Lawrence Lee, Ward Lee, George Lee and Ervin Lee, all now deceased. Clyde's children were Norman Dean (Nancy's father) Robert Lee, Nina Lee (Huggins), and Roger Lee. All of these Lees live in the Pinckneyville or Tamaroa area except Robert (Bob), who lives in Crossville, Tennessee, very near the area from which his 3rd great-grandfather, Issac Lee had emigrated in 1830.

Other descendants of Clyde Lee are Nancy's brother Gerald Lee and his son, Austin, Roger's son Rodney and his daughter, Sherrie, Nina's children, Brenda Witbracht, Donna Bagley, and Stephen Huggins.

Nancy's father, Norman Dean and wife Emma Huggins are a retired coal miner and factory worker. He is presently the oldest living Lee that we are aware of in Perry County descended from Robert E. Lee. Nancy is married to Donald Hirsch, a former school teacher and presently County Clerk of Perry County. They are the parents of four sons, Tim, Barry, Shannon and Collin.

The Hirsch's live on a small farm near the Du Quoin City Lake, on the same 40 acres that Nancy's great-great grandfather, Peter Lee once owned in the 1800's!

LEWIS-CHURCHILL

David Leon Lewis was born 15 May 1955 in Christopher, Franklin County, the fourth son of Kenneth and Vivian (Wilson) Lewis. David's family moved to Perry County, four miles east of Pinckneyville in 1963 and moved back to Franklin County in 1977. They had five sons: Roger Dale born 14 January 1951, Steven Edward born 22 July 1952, Terry Wayne born 11 September 1953, David Leon and Kendall Ray, born 30 September 1959. Kendall died in a car accident on 19 May 1978. All five graduated from Pinckneyville High School.

David has taught eighth grade math at Ward Middle School since 1977. He is a member of Nine Mile Baptist Church where he serves as a Deacon, Youth Director and teaches Sunday School every Sunday morning at the Fairview Nursing Center in Du Quoin. He enjoys playing most sports, computers, gardening, genealogy, and spending time with his loved ones.

George, Mandy, and Jill Lawrence.

George and Jill were married on 17 August 1973, at Paradise Baptist Church in rural Tamaroa. One daughter, Amanda "Mandy" Kathleen Lawrence was born to them on 07 December 1981. She is currently a sophomore in New Athens High School, where she is playing three varsity sports—softball, volleyball, and basketball. During her freshman year in softball, she was one of the leading hitters in the Metro-East area and was selected both on the Cahokia Conference's and Metro-East area's second teams.

The family resides in their home built on six and one-half acres between New Athens and Freeburg. All are members of St. John United Church of Christ in New Athens, Illinois. Submitted by George and Jill Lawrence.

LEE

Nancy Lee Hirsch, a member of the prominent Lee family of the east Pinckneyville area, can claim Robert E. Lee of Civil War fame as her 7th great grandfather. The Lees can trace their ancestry back to Colonial America.

To R: Norman Dean Lee, Clyde Lee and "Dickie" Lee; Standing in front: Nancy (Lee) Hirsch.

Richard Lee, founder of the Lee family in the year 1640, came from England. Richard Lee's second son, Arthur Lee, Ambassador to France, persuaded the French to help the colonies in their struggle for independence.

LIPE-MCLAUGHLIN

John Robert Lipe was born on 12 January 1825, in Liberty (now Rockwood area) of Jackson County Illinois, and died on 20 March 1885 at about age 60 years and 2 months. His father was Aaron Lipe (born circa 1800, died 24 January 1847). His mother was Emelia "Mollie" Quillman (born ?, died ?).

John R was married to Narcissa McLaughlin on 12 December 1844. Narcissa was born on 26 January 1829 and died on 2 February 1932. Both are buried in the McElvain Cemetery, Perry County Illinois, having lived most of their lives in the area south of Du Quoin in Perry County Illinois.

They had a large family of 12 children born in Perry County Illinois. As follows: Isaac (born 8 May 1847-24 October 1864/65); Marion Francis (born 26 January 1849-2 February 1932); Robert (born 15 September 1854-died ? in Orange County California); Tim (born 11 December 1858-21 September 1930); George Thomas (born 21 October 1868-died 23 February 1937); Mamie "Maim" (born 22 September 1866-died 1956 in Wyoming); Viola "Vie" R. (born 3 November 1860-died 1940); Julia (born 26 November 1850-died ?); Alma O. (born 28 February 1872-died ?); Harriet (born 16 November 1856-died 14 October 1857, at age 11 months); Vilena (born 17 March 1863-died 30 June 1864 at age 1 year 3 months); John (4 April 1865-7 April 1865 at 3 days of age)

John Robert served in the Civil War for 4 years. He was in Co. A of the 31st ("dirty-first") Infantry. In the summer of 1997, an affidavit was discovered in the Perry County Court House basement that provided some answers to some family questions. It was written by a 31st Infantry Regimental surgeon to help the widow Narcissa obtain her pension from the Federal Government. Dr. Doer was from Du Quoin also, and he knew John R. well.

Isaac had run away from home and (apparently lying about his age) to join the Civil War on the Union side. Maurice W. Lipe, often told the story while reading the tombstone inscription at the back of the McElvain Cemetery. He told of how Isaac had contracted cholera, was made even worse by not receiving proper treatment, and passed away back home.

Dr. Doer reported that when Isaac sickened, John R. had sent him home to die, choosing to stay on duty with his troops. John R. was reported to be in very ill health himself, but stayed on his post of duty. Dr. Doer was able to endure the horror of the war and tend to the sick and wounded until the unit was disbanded in 1865, the end of the war of the rebellion. John R. was also the "31st" when it was disbanded in Washington D.C.

Marion F. married Martha Reynolds on 28 September 1871. Their family consisted of Ema Schneider, Henrey, and Pearl Milligan. They lived on the east side of Beacoup Creek, on the south of Perry County Illinois.

Tillman "Tim" was married twice: 1st to Ellen N. Pyle, 2nd to Flora Milligan.

George Thomas married Mary Logan Walker. They had 3 children: Ina Dankliff, Geneva Harvey Dunn, and Maurice Walker.

Mamie married first to Joe Walker, separated, and married 2nd to Ed Durum. They lived in Wyoming.

Viola married first a man named Moore. Her husband was killed in a horse "runaway" accident. She was holding their young son John in her arms, and they survived. Then she married John H. Goforth on 1 October 1885.

Julia 1st married Elijah Wells. Their children were Walter, William W., John, and Lewis. Then she married E. C. Whittsett. The children were: E. C. (Kim ?) and Alfa Gourley. Then a 3rd marriage followed, with no children.

Alma O. married Pete H. Walker.

LEONARD LIPE, REV. WAR VETERAN

For years I collected information on Rev. War veterans in Perry County. Imagine my surprise when I discovered one of them was my ancestor. I had much material about Leonard Lipe and research brought more. The earliest found was:

I. Hans Leup, married 1635 to Ursula Vogelsanger, Beggingen, Switzerland, had 8 children. The family are said to have been a part of the Reformation movement.

II. Melchior Leup, born 28 November 1644, died 11 February 1724, married 14 August 1663/6 to Margaretha Muller, Reihen, Ger. She was born 1641, died 25 December 1704.

III. Hans Rudolph Leippe, born 21 October 1668, married 2/21 November 1689 to Maria Agnes Orth, had four children. Hans was a baker.

IV. Johannes Leipp, born or baptized 5 August 1696, died 1754/56, married 2 November 1724, Anna Margaretha Hertzel, baptized 24 September 1702, died between 1756-63. This couple were the immigrants, coming to Philadelphia on the 'William and Sarah' with about 300 others of Lutheran Reformed faith, escaping German religious reform. There is a possibility that father, Hans Rudolph, came also. Allegiance was sworn at the Philadelphia courthouse. The couple remained in York County Pennsylvania all of their lives. Seven children were born to them.

V. Johannes Gottfried (John Godfrey) Leib, born 1740, died prior to October 1791, first of this line born in America, married Barbara Rudisill, 22 December 1761 in York County Pennsylvania. It is believed Johannes was a Rev. War soldier in Fourth Co., Capt. Domen, Fourth Battalion, Lancaster, Pennsylvania Militia. They moved to North Carolina in 1764 between births of sons Jonas and Leonard. Three more sons and two daughters completed the family.

VI. Leonard Lipe, born 5 June 1763/5, North Carolina, died 4 April 1848, Perry County Illinois. There is some question about the birth date as the bible containing such information was "destroyed or lost" during the Rev. War. In 1781, he volunteered from North Carolina and spent ten months in service. In 1832, he applied for a soldier's pension and was given $33.34 per annum.

There are many discrepancies in Leonard's history. The late Elizabeth Spurgeon, Perry County historian, said he came to Illinois about 1818/18. He had married Barbara Wentz, born North Carolina 1767, died October 1849 in Perry County, exact burial places also questionable, first at Nine Mile, later moved to present Nine Mile Cemetery, but no markers.

Leonard and family came to Jackson County Illinois and by 1830 was in Perry County, a resident of Nine Mile Prairie. He and Barbara gave land for a meeting house there. Some records say eight children came with the family but this researcher found only seven: Rachel 1786-1848, married John Bost; Jonas 1790-1869, married Esther Lipe; Barbara 1795-1880, married Daniel Dry; Leonard Jr. 1801-1852, married Katharine Davis; Jacob J. 1803-1846, married Rosena Davis; and two other sons. Daughter Rachel, 1786-1848, had married John Bost in 1803 and stayed in Rowan County North Carolina. John was great-great grandfather of Inez Bost, Mrs. Leonard Eisenhauer. LIVELY-MEESE

George Lively and Bertha Meese were married on 22 July 1922 in Tamaroa, Illinois. George's great-great grandfather and family, Joseph Lively, came to Illinois in 1805 from Abbeyville, North Carolina. They settled in a lovely place 3 miles north of Kaskaskia in Florence precinct and called their home Lively Prairie. For the better part of 200 years, the Lively descendants have lived in or around Tamaroa, Illinois.

George and Bertha lived with George's parents, May and Alonzo Lively on the south edge of Tamaroa. George worked in the Blanchard coal mine to support his wife and seven children: Ruth, Eva, George, Helen, Richard, Mary and Hazel.

George was charged with manslaughter when a gun he was cleaning discharged during an argument and his father was killed. He was later cleared of all charges after witnesses testified in his behalf.

May and Bertha and all the children worked a very large garden and also a field of potatoes to get them through the very cold winters. A pig was butchered each winter to add to their larder. George also loved to hunt and fish, which added greatly to their dinner table.

May Lively died on 17 April 1941, from a kidney infection exactly 12 years and 9 months after her husband died 15 July 1928.

George and Bertha lived a good life for the next 4 years, watching their 3 daughters get married and their son, George go off to World War II. On 15 March 1945, While George was working in the mine and thinking about his son that he hadn't heard from in a few weeks, a ton of rock fell on him and he died instantly.

Bertha had been raised in an orphanage and with no education, she was numb with fear that her children would also have to be sent away, but she would not give up and set to work about caring for her 3 remaining children at home. She cleaned homes, washed clothes, ironed, gathered sassafras roots and they all survived. Living by the railroad tracks was really a god send since she would take a long pole and as the coal cars would go by, she would rake excess coal off the highly piled cars. The children would pick it up and pile it in a large shed for use in the winter time. They still remember sitting around the old potbellied coal stove in the winter and doing homework.

Bertha had a hard life but she never complained. She died at the age of 80, 22 September 1983 in a nursing home in Du Quoin, Illinois.

Ruth married Jim Hill of Tamaroa and had 3 children; Eva married Edgar Maynard of St. Louis, Missouri and had 8 children; George never married, had no children; Helen married Paul Arnold of Iowa and had 2 children; Richard married Berniece Rice and had 11 children; Berneice died 9 October 1984; Richard married Charlotte Newborn and had 1 daughter; Mary married Paul Chaney of Benton, Illinois and had 6 children; Hazel married Edmund Kotel of Worcester, Massachusetts and had 3 sons.

Richard and his wife and daughter still live on the old homestead at the south end of Tamaroa.

LONGSHORE-WRIGHT

I was named after my paternal grandfather, Noah Longshore. When the Civil War broke out, he lived on Canal Street in New Orleans, Louisiana, being a northern sympathizer, his land was confiscated. My Dad's name was Harry Hyram Allan Longshore and they called him H.A. Longshore. Dad ran away from home and came to Illinois at the age of nine. He was befriended and raised by Pete Resbond of Rosboro, Illinois (a community that existed between Percy and Sparta.) Pete took him into the mine and taught him mining.

He married Mariah Pernettie Luke, daughter of Pinckneyville farmer, Bob Luke. They had twelve children. Mabel and Ray died at birth. Surviving were Sherman Alexander, Bessie, Alice Adaline, Bertha, Murthell, Flora Bell, Alfred Raymond, Lyle Cleo, Noah Grannison (13 January 1906 - 16 February 1992) and Merwin Eugene (Chubby).

Although Dad was a coal miner, he also worked as a plasterer when the mine was on strike (which they did every summer). My mother died when I was six years old and we moved to Park Street, where the girls kept house and Dad worked at the Jewel Mine. Dad never remarried but kept us all together. Times were hard, but we had a wonderful life.

I met my wife Miss Georgia Margaret Wright in the summer of 1924. On 12 April 1926, we were married at the Franklin County Courthouse in Benton, Illinois, being unable to go to the Perry County Courthouse because of high water.

Georgia was the daughter of Samuel McCager and Martha Imorin (Sears) Wright. Samuel was a coal miner and also a bridge worker. There were eleven children born to this family: Stanford, Josie Jane, Gracie Pearl, Charles, Jonah Dewey, Milton Ernest, Eva Olive, Cora Elmina, Georgia Margaret (17 May 1908 to 12 October 1995), Iva Lucille and Arthur Elsworth.

I got a job at the Foster Mine. They only worked one to two days a week and after about a year they shut down and pulled the iron. We did many things to keep food on the table; picking peaches during peach season, cutting timber, making props and ties for the mine, cutting broom corn and playing the fiddle for dances.

In the winter of 1927, I wrote to my Uncle Curtis Lemmons, who was a mine manager, in Sparta, Illinois. Having a paid up card, I was given a job and we moved to Sparta. We returned to Perry County after a couple of years.

Our first son, Noah James lived only a few days. We have four living sons: Milton Sherman Longshore, born 16 February 1929; George Allen Longshore, born 18 March 1933; David Francis Longshore, born 5 November 1934; and Leon LaVern Longshore, born 28 June 1941.

Over a period of thirty seven years, I worked at the following mines: Foster, Moffat, Dowell, Citizen Coal Company, and Centralia Mine.

I have enjoyed a hobby of crocheting and making afghans. My wife also enjoys the hobby of quilting and crocheting.

We have been blessed with a good family and long marriage. God has been good to us, as of 12 April 1991, we celebrated our sixty fifth wedding anniversary.

MC CLURE-GASTON

The McClure family of Perry County, Illinois traces its history to the early Scottish Kings by direct male succession, and to more recent French royalty by the Gaston maternal line. James McClure (1710-1760) and his wife Mary Gaston (1710-1802) left Ireland for America in the company of her family. Mary was responsible for saving numerous women and children in those early years, earning her the title of "The Heroine of the Cherokee" in South Carolina history. Widowed shortly after settling in Chester County, South Carolina, she distinguished herself as a Revolutionary patriot in her own right. Of her four sons that fought in the war, only Captain John McClure lost his life in battle (18 August 1780). Captain John's leadership is historically held responsible for turning the tide against the British, after they had all but subdued the Carolinas. Captain John McClure (1740-1780) married Mary Porter (1750-1810) and named a son after his famous father. This John McClure (1770-1830) died in South Carolina before the family made its migration to Illinois. His widow, Eleanor Polston McClure (1783-1843) traveled with their children and settled in Cutler, Perry County, Illinois by 1831. Their son Samuel, a farmer (1806-1880), married Mary Ann Lackey from Ireland (1810-1875) and both are buried in Concord Cemetery, Cutler, Illinois. Their son, John McClure, a farmer and book dealer (1834-1917), married Mary M. Brown (1840-1910). Their children: Andrew, Elen, Samuel, John, and Elihu. Elihu H. McClure (1875-1958) was an auditor for the railroad. He married Eva Alice Cook (1878-1957) in 1899 and settled in Sparta, Illinois. Their children were: Marjorie, Myron, Leland, and Elihu Jr. Elihu Hawthorne McClure Jr. (1911-1994) was better known as Jack, a nickname his aunt supplied early in his life so that he would not have to be teased with the feminine derivative of Ellie. He married Mary Elizabeth Clendenin (born 1915) and moved to Chester, Illinois. He was quite successful as a funeral director, managing and then becoming a partner in the Schroeder Funeral Chapel and Home Furnishings. After his sons, Gary and Michael, bought out his other partners, the name was changed to Schroeder-McClure Funeral Chapel and later the furniture business became a separate entity as McClure Home Furnishings. Jack, Gary and Michael McClure also purchased the Neal Funeral Chapel in Du Quoin, changing the name to Neal-McClure Funeral Chapel. Jack and Mary's first child, Jacquelyn Sue McClure (born 1939), now resides in San Diego, California. She has two daughters, Christa and Betsy. Thomas and his three brothers all served in the South Carolina militia during the Revolutionary War. One brother, Archibald, was hung by the Tories in 1781.

The McClurkens were of the Reformed Presbyterian faith, who in 1820 decreed that all slave owners should free their slaves. Thomas and his entire family, with the exception of Archibald, came to Washington County, Illinois in 1833. Thomas and Elizabeth are buried at the Oakdale Cemetery in Washington County, Illinois.

MC DONNOUGH

The first McDonnough in the area was Eustace "Stacey" McDonnough (1768-1835). He was orphaned as an infant and was bound out to an "abusive master" and ran away at the age of 14. He joined the Kentucky Militia in 1785 and served as a soldier against marauding Indians north of the Ohio River. He served with Colonel George R. Clark in 1786 during his campaign against the Indians.

Stacey married Catherine Hughes, daughter of Thomas and Martha Hughes, on 15 February 1793 in Louisville, Kentucky and claimed land near Ellis Grove. He was a Captain in the United States Army and commanded a train of pack horses in General Josiah Harmer's company against the Indians. He contracted to carry the United States Mail from St. Louis to Shawneetown via Kaskaskia on the Old Shawneetown Trail. Remnants of this trail are still visible on the Gladson farm near Paradise Prairie. He commanded a boat on the Ohio River for the United States and was an excellent river pilot. He was shot in the shoulder by an Indian standing on the shore and never completely recovered.

Stacey and Catherine had nine children: James (1793-1846), Martha (1806), Margaret, Nancy (1808-1900), Sarah (1810-1844), Catherine (1827-1897), David, and Mary (1802-1883).

Descendants of Stacey have served in every war since the Revolutionary War.

James McDonnough (1793-1846) was the eldest of Stacey and Catherine's children. He served in the War of 1812 and he and Stacey were noted for their fearless relationship with the Indians. They were hired to protect the area surveyors from the Indians as they surveyed. James was one of the "most popular leaders" of the frontier community. He married Margaret "Peggy" Leard in 1817. They had seven children. James H. (1831) was their older son, who married Emily Tate in 1859, served with the Tenth Infantry in the Civil War from 1861-1865. They had eight children: William J. (1861-1938), Thomas A. (1862), Eve Alice (1863), Hester Ann (1868), Mary (1872), Guy (1875), Margaret, and Robert J. (1864-1940).

They dug the basement for the new part of the Perry County Court House and several businesses and homes in Pinckneyville using their teams of draft horses.

Vallie married Fannie Hutchings (1890-1962). She was the daughter of William Riley Hutchings (1854-1936), the son of William and Illinois (Watson) Hutchings. They were some of the earliest settlers and leaders in Perry County. Fannie's mother, Naomi (Moore) Hutchings, was the daughter of John and Ellen (Evans) Moore whose ancestors settled in the Belleville-New Athens area in 1812. They arrived from Georgia and were looking for a place to free their slaves. The Moores were members of the first legislature. Riddon Moore led the fight in the Senate to make Illinois a "Free State", thus setting all slaves free.

After their marriage, Vallie and Fannie lived in Steeleville, Percy, and Winkle prior to buying a new home in Quinntown, two miles west of Pinckneyville.

Fannie was a charter member of the Oak Grove Baptist Church and, while it was in its infancy, she purchased supplies for the church with her own meager funds. She became a member of Beaucoup Baptist Church in 1926 where she taught Sunday School, sang in the choir, and was president of the WMU for many years. She remained a faithful member there until her death.

Vallie and Fannie were members of the Perry County Fair Association for years being superintendents of the Agriculture and Horticulture De-

Their only son Philip Reddington Masquelette married Nelia Elizabeth Wilkins of Brenham, Washington County, Texas, in Galveston, Galveston County, Texas, on 24 July 1924. Their grandson Frank Reddington Masquelette died there on 20 January 1991 at the age of 60 years. Solomon's first wife died during the early 1820's, leaving eight children. By 1823, he married Mrs. Elizabeth White (1789-1856), a widow with three sons. To this union were born two daughters. By 1832, Solomon and Elizabeth migrated to Randolph County, Illinois with several of the children. About 1835, they moved onto a small farm in Perry County. Solomon and Elizabeth were buried at the Boyle Farm (Spring Hill) Cemetery near Winkle.

Ruth Maxwell Arens (circa 1801-?). John (1805-1875) married four times and had at least eight children plus several stepchildren. He died in Arkansas. Isaac (1808-1852) married twice and had at least nine children. He also died in Arkansas. Nathaniel married and had one child. He died about 1833.

Nancy (1810-?) perhaps married first John Armour (circa 1834) in Randolph County. John was survived (circa 1837) by a young son. By 1842, Nancy married John M. Allen, a widower with sons William and Robert. She then gave birth to Margaret, Elizabeth, Jemima, and Anna. The family lived in Perry County during 1850-1870 Census.

Elizabeth (1812-1892) married (1832) Kentucky native John Lewis McNulty (1813-1857) in Randolph County. This union produced nine children: Margaret (William) McMillen; Alfred; Isabella, who married Alex Beggs and Alex Elliott; Mary Ann (John) Kelley; James M.; Diantha Emaline (William Perry) Justice; Jemima; Bethia Amanda (Joseph) Maxwell; and Solomon. Elizabeth and John McNulty were buried in Randolph County.

Malcom Gilcrease, Sr., born between 1814 and 1819, Bedford County, Tennessee, married first (1837) Anna Davis, in Lauderdale County, Tennessee. Born in the same era as Malcom, she was the third of five children of Benjamin Davis (?-1825) and Mary Ann (Byler) Davis-White (1796-1868). By 1838, Malcom and Anna sold their farm to her grandfather, Jacob F. Byler, then settled near Solomon Maxwell in Illinois. Malcom and Anna moved (1840) into Missouri near her brother, returning to Illinois by 1850. There were eight children: Nathan (1838-1897) married (1861) Martha Ozborn (1841-1922), and settled with their eight children in Kansas (1880); John (1841-1863) was a Civil War casualty; Nancy (1843-1901) and William North (1835-1910) from Randolph County, married (1863) in Perry County. They moved to Saint Louis County, Missouri (1891) with four survivors of their six children: Anna (1849-?) resided in Perry County at 1900, single; Isaac (1851-?) married (1881) Kate E. Ward of Jackson County. She was a stepdaughter of Thomas North (1829-1900), elder brother of William and Robert. Kate had at least two children, and was still in Illinois at 1912; Malcom G. Anna (Davis) Maxwell probably died at the birth of Malcom Jr., Malcom Sr. married second (1856) Mary Ann North in Perry County. Born in Randolph County (circa 1833) and known as "Polly", she was a sister of Thomas, William, and Robert North. She had two, perhaps three children: Maria J. or Mona (1857-1935), married (1878) Joseph B. Justice (1847-1916) and had one child; Polly's son was recorded in the 1860 census as Solomon, one month old. However, 30 June 1861 was entered (1947) on his Death Certificate as his birthdate. At the 1870 census he was reportedly nine years of age which coincides with a 1861 birth, but was it 1860? He married (1886) Fannie Luna (1868-1941). They were buried in Randolph County. They had five children.

Malcom G. Maxwell Sr. married third (1872) widow Mrs. James D. (Ellen K. McNeill) McCrary (1830-1878) in Pinckneyville. Six of her seven children were living then. Charity Ann was born (1824) in Tennessee to Solomon and Elizabeth. She married (1842) in Randolph County James R. Guy of Kentucky. They settled in Washington County, with children: Nicholas; John; Cyrena; Mary (Thomas) Carrick; Nancy (George) Logan; Julia; Jemima (Thomas) Howell; Sarah (Thomas) Guthrie; Sophie; and James D. James R. Guy (1816-1867) was buried near Solomon and Elizabeth Maxwell at Winkle, Perry County, survived by Charity.

Mary (1827-1870) was born in Bedford County, Tennessee, and married (1848) Jesse Hall in Perry County, Illinois. They moved to Washington County, where she died in childbirth. Several members of the Hall family were buried in the Old Concord Baptist Cemetery, at the Perry and Washington County borderline. She had eight children.

In addition to Solomon Maxwell, four of his six siblings moved to Southern Illinois: Daniel (Mary Bell) Maxwell; Thomas (Lydia) Maxwell; Elizabeth (Meshack) Haile; and Jemima (Jonathon) King. The Kings settled in Perry County, the others choosing Washington County. Relatives who remained in Tennessee included John (Sarah Cooper) Maxwell, and Keziah Maxwell, wife of Evan Rushing, Robert Taylor, and Abner Steed. MAYER-ROETHE

The following is an update on the Vernon Mayer family. In the past ten years, many things have changed and some have remained the same so to catch everyone up on our family, here is a summary.

All the boys have graduated from Pinckneyville Community High School. John and Brian have also graduated from Rend Lake College with associate degrees in Production Ag and Ag Mechanics respectively. Kevin was graduated from Southeast Missouri University with a bachelors degree in business and finance. John and Brian are now active partners in Mayer Farm, with each of them taking on increasing responsibilities for the operation as each year goes by. Kevin is currently employed by William Mercer, Inc. in Deerfield, Illinois as an investment analyst. Kevin lives in Chicago. In addition to farming, John is currently chairman of Perry County Farm Bureau's Young Leaders; enjoys most sports, especially basketball, car racing and hockey. In Brian's "free" time, he is building up a wood working business. He enjoys building anything with wood, or repairing motors. With the driving involved with his job, Kevin doesn't have a lot of free time, but he enjoys reading and sports, as well as "surfing the internet".

Brian, John, Helen, Vernon, and Kevin Mayer 25 December 1997.

Vernon is still active in Farm Bureau, Extension council, Perry County No-till Association and watching Panther sports. Helen is still an Ag in the Class coordinator for the Illinois Farm Bureau, serving on the board of Five Star, the Perry County Soil and Water district board, and many other volunteer activities, now that the boys are taking on more of the farm work and she has more "free" time.

The whole family is still quite active in Trinity Lutheran Church of Conant and were involved in the planning and celebrating of Trinity's 100th Anniversary in 1997-1998. Our farm home is still just off Illinois Route 154 about eight and one half miles west of Pinckneyville.

Joseph F. Mendel came to the United States from Rakowo, Posen, Poland in 1872. His brother, John Mendel arrived in 1874. They each bought farmland in Tamaroa, Perry County, and sent for the rest of their family. In May 1880, their parents Michael and Marianne Mendel, and siblings Anna, Anton and Nellie came, and by June of 1880 the parents were living with Joseph's sister and brother-in-law, Frank and Frances (Mendel) Golomboski, who also farmed in Tamaroa. Michael Mendel died in 1893. Mary, his wife, lived with her son John's family to age 98, but died in 1919, and is buried in DuBois Catholic Cemetery.

The Mendel Family—Edward, Paul, Joseph, Tadeus, Leonard, Max, Anna, Genevieve, Anastacia 'Nettie', Pauline, Lorene, (front) Joseph and Catherine.

In 1900, Frank and Frances (Mendel) Golomboski were the parents of eight children, Joseph, Henry, Lottie, Walter, Blanche, Ike, Polly and Helen, raising them on the Tamaroa farm.

John Mendel married Veronica Marszalek in February of 1887, and they raised ten children in Tamaroa, Helen, Victoria, William, Frank, Louis, Martha, Elizabeth, Clara, Isadore, and Josephine. John and his wife lived in Road District 41, Tamaroa, and died there, both being buried in DuBois Cemetery.

In July of 1889 their first child, Anna Mendel, was born. Twelve more children were born to Joseph and Catherine: Genevieve, Ted, Nettie, Pauline, Leonard, Joseph, Edward, Max, Lorraine, Paul, Florence and Stanley.

Daughter Florence died shortly after her birth and is buried in DuBois. The children all helped in farming, and attended local schools when possible. As the children grew, some stayed in the area but most left to seek employment. Anna Mendel married Alex Bendrick and they lived and raised their four children in DuBois, where descendants still live. Leonard Mendel stayed in Tamaroa and helped his parents farm, leaving only on the death of his mother in 1945. Nettie Mendel married John Matlavish, son of Thomas and

MENTEL, FLORENCE (MRS. SIMON MARTIN)

Seldom do I go anyplace in Perry County that someone does not tell me, "Your mother, your aunt, or your sister was my teacher at 'some rural' school." That statement is always followed with "She was one of my favorite teachers." "She helped mold me into the person I am today." or "She really cared about all her students." I'm very proud of the fact that so many people in Perry County have so many good memories of my mother, Florence (Mentel) Martin (02 September 1904-15 July 1960); my aunt, Irene Mentel (31 October 1901-20 November 1997); and my sister, Patricia "Pat" Martin Gladson (born 13 July 1931). As people tell me about their memories it is obvious that they were well respected and loved by their students. I know they loved their students.

Florence Mentel Martin.

My mother, Florence, taught at several schools in Perry County before she married my father, Simon Martin (27 July 1904-28 August 1945) 04 June 1929.

In the 1920s teachers boarded in homes of the communities where they taught. Alma (?) Hearn brought me a picture of my mother when she boarded at their home when she taught at the Upper Holts School.

My mother kept a scrapbook. In it are pictures of the students at Kellerman School, 1924-1925, Vanbrunt School, 1925-1926, and lots of pictures of students who went to Beaucoup School where she taught the last fifteen years of her life.

Many people tell me about my mother as their teacher. The following comments from one of her former students say what many people have said.

Barbara Brown Penrod, now living in Rochester, Illinois, had Mom as her teacher for the third, fourth, and fifth grades at Beaucoup School from 1946-1949. She said, "I have so many good memories of those years. Mrs. Martin was probably my most favorite teacher of any I ever had, both in grade and high school. She was not a teacher to let anyone get by with any nonsense, but she was fair and I felt a really good teacher. I was an avid reader and she would always see that I got to read all the new books we got each year. She would always ask Charlie Neville, who taught sixth through eighth grades to let me also read the books in his room. I've thought of her often during my adult years. I am certain she helped mold and shape me in many ways."

When my sister Pat, brother Joe, and I left home, Mom's students became her extended family. Often, as I talked to her on the phone, she had stories to tell about her students. She would invite all the girls to her home for the weekend. Can any teacher imagine doing that today?

Mother's three sisters: Clare (1896-1918) was hired to teach at their home school, Nation School, before her sudden death; Rose taught before she married John Phillips; and Irene taught for forty-three years.

Mother's daughters, Pat and Shirley, also taught in Perry County. Her granddaughter, Sandra Bigham Bray, is the principal at St. Bruno Catholic School in Pinckneyville. So, for over eighty years, Florence and members of her family have helped to educate the youth of Perry County. Submitted by Shirley Martin Bigham.

MENTEL, IRENE

Irene H. Mentel (31 October 1901-20 November 1997), daughter of Adam Mentel (25 December 1866-04 October 1943) and Sarah Jane Todd (03 March 1870-26 March 1939) attended Nation School and St. Bruno Catholic School in Pinckneyville. She graduated with the Pinckneyville Community High School class of 1920. From high school she went, with her sister, Florence Mentel Martin (02 September 1904-15 July 1960), to the Athenaeum Business College in Fort Wayne, Indiana and they both attended the Southern Illinois Normal University in Carbondale, Illinois (1924-25).

Irene taught for 43 years in Perry County rural schools. During the late 1940s and 50s she taught schools south of Pinckneyville. Many of those years were at the Ozburn School located at the triangle at Pyatt's Wye.

During the consolidation of the one-room schools, she taught at the Brick School, south of Pinckneyville, and Kellerman School, north of Pinckneyville. In 1961, when the new District #212 School was completed, she taught the first and second grades, sometimes, also, third. As she had always had all eight grades in one room, before she started in the "new" consolidated school system, she could not imagine what it would be like to only have two or three grades in one room. She was so pleased to have this wonderful opportunity and as many of her former students have told the author she continued being the same caring, loving teacher that she had always been.

The following are memories of some of her former students.

Irene Mentel.

Helen Yung Lunnemann: "Irene Mentel taught two years at Brush Prairie School (1932-34). She was the teacher for two girls, Pierna Appinel Segafredo, now of Henderson, Nevada, and Helen Yung Lunnemann, and four boys who are all deceased. They were: Dorris Thompson, Clyde Yung, Harry Bernaix, and Howard Kelly. We all graduated under her in 1932.

Brush Prairie School was a one-room schoolhouse for the primary grades through eighth grade. There were usually about 20 students. Those were the "good old" days. We walked, morning and evening, to and from school. For us (Yungs), it was a mile and a half, one way. Irene was a very good, fair, caring teacher. She stayed at my Aunt Meta Yung's house, just a few steps from the school."

Mary Fones Blythe said, "I remember Miss Irene as being a very loving teacher. I had her in fifth grade at Ozburn School at Pyatt's Wye, south of town on Route 13-127. I was having trouble with arithmetic and she helped me over the 'hump'. I've always told people, over the years, she was my favorite teacher. Miss Irene also taught some of my brothers. We all appreciated her."

Bob Anderson, who lived on Galum Road where Bernard Buschschulte now lives, said, "I went to both Brick Schools that were located just about a quarter mile apart. Your Aunt Irene was my teacher in the seventh grade at the "new Brick School."

Jim Engelhardt spoke very highly of Miss Irene as well as many others who, over the years, have helped me to realize that daughters of Adam and Sarah Todd Mentel (Clara, Rose, Irene and Florence) educated many young people of Perry County.

Irene had three sisters, all teachers. Her older sisters were Clare Mentel (1896-1918), Rose Mentel Phillips (1899-) and younger sister, Florence Mental Martin. She had one brother, youngest child, James (1907-1963). Their father, Adam Mentel (25 December 1866-04 October 1943), was very active in all programs that were introduced to help improve the lives of the people throughout the county. (See page 235 in History of Perry County, Volume I.)

Irene never married. She remained at the family farm, taking care of, first her mother, and then her father. She stopped teaching when her father's health was failing and stayed home to care for him until he died 4 October 1943.

The tradition continues. Simon and Florence Mentel Martin's daughters, Patricia "Pat" Martin Gladson and Shirley Martin Bigham are also teachers. Shirley's daughter, Sandra Bigham Bray, is Principal of St. Bruno Catholic School in Pinckneyville.

There were eight children: James, George, Mary, John, Jeanette, Jane, Elizabeth, and Euphrasia, who married Peter Foster. John Ogilvie was age 44 when he volunteered in the Civil War. MORRIS-EISENHAUER

Continuing the family story from the 1988 Perry County History Book: Philip "Greg" and Vicki moved from Du Quoin to Tamaroa in 1970, when Jeff was one year old, Karla was three years old and twins, Ken and Eric were four and a half years old.

All four kids attended twelve grades in the Tamaroa schools. Tamaroa High School was transferred to Pinckneyville just after Jeff graduated.

Chase and Brittany McKinnies.

Vicki was a Tamaroa Grade School board member for twelve years; through the year when the school building was condemned, gutted and rebuilt to continue for many more years of educating Tamaroa's youth. Arthritis finally put an end to Vicki's 35 years of hair styling except for her family. She now has an antique and second-hand store, Lot of Stuff, in Pinckneyville.

Greg worked in southern Illinois coal mines from 1968 to 1992. With few jobs available locally, he continued his electrical work at a power plant in Florida, where Eric was already employed. He worked there, coming home only every couple of months, for two years. He was hired at Granite City Steel in September 1995 and he likes it except for that ninety minute drive every day and night.

Greg's father, Raymond, passed away in 1997 at 92 years of age. Folks in Du Quoin knew Ray as a hard working carpenter, gardener and avid nature lover all of his life. Greg's mother, Sylvia, has spent the last few years in a nursing home, a victim of Alzheimer's Disease. Vicki's parents, Leonard and Inez Eisenhauer, are in both of the Perry County History volumes.

Ken, Eric and Jeff all attended colleges and attained degrees. Karla was the first to marry and leave home (wedding photo in 1988 book). Karla and Dan McKinnies have two children, Brittany born 29 January 1992, and Chase born 26 April 1994. They are enjoying their lives in Syracuse, Indiana where Dan is the minister of a Pentecost Church. They have been settled there about four years. When Dan began his ministry they traveled a lot, spending weeks or months in Michigan, Arkansas, and South Carolina and were very missed by their families in southern Illinois.

Eric left home and worked in Florida for about four years; an electrician at West Palm Beach Power Company. He met Clair Flintoll there. Clair is a native of England and now Eric's wife. Her parents and two brothers remain in England. Eric and Clair moved back to Southern Illinois a couple of years ago and now live in St. Jacob, Illinois. Clair is finishing college in Edwardsville and Eric is an electrician at a steam power plant located right on the river in St. Louis, Missouri.

Ken and his wife, Brenda Schubert, live close by in Albers, Illinois. They recently moved from West Frankfort. Ken drives to work in St. Louis and Brenda to Mt. Vernon. There is a possibility that their first child could be born on Brenda or Vicki's birthday this year in July.

Jeff is still at home as his dad's "chief electrician". This keeps him quite busy at times, but he still has time for his good friends and summer water sports on ski and aqua jets. He loves music, plays a mean guitar, and is a fun "Uncle Jeff" to Brittany and Chase. This year the 911 emergency system has given the Morris home its first official address.

And so—Vicki and Greg's story this far covers four addresses and four kids, two sweet grandchildren, 15 vehicles and at least that many furry "babies" (cats), and how many more of any of these—(except kids!)? Submitted by Vicki Eisenhauer Morris.

They had one daughter, Amanda Marie Huffman, born 18 November 1995 at Edward's Hospital, Naperville, Illinois. Christopher was a very talented roofer and the historic Walter Payton's Roundhouse in Aurora, Illinois is a tribute to his talent and hard work, as he single-handedly shingled the entire roof. He was the only roofer allowed on the roof because he was the only man who could "not" start a pattern. The roof's design is of multi-colored shingles grouped by percentage of color distribution without creating a pattern. One day as he was working, he was heard shouting, "Oops, I almost made a pattern!" Right below that oops, is his commemorative brick. He was not a wealthy man but he was rich in love and life. Submitted by Sherre Lyn Neal.

NEAL-STANHOUSE

George Neal Sr. is the first child of James R. Neal and Ida Mae Doolin of Thompsonville, Franklin County, Illinois. James, 21, and Ida, 14, were married on 04 August 1887 in Williamson County, Illinois. Work was scarce and the couple moved to Carmi, Illinois. Children born were: 1) George Sr. (18 March 1891-18 April 1925) married Rachel Emma Stanhouse of Du Quoin; 2) Jeannetta "Jennie" (15 April 1895-07 March 1950) married McKinley Wall; 3) baby Clarence M. (03 July-23 September 1888); 4) baby James R. (01 May 1898). James, the father, died at a very early age. Ida moved back to Thompsonville.

Widow Ida married widower, Commodore Hicks on 18 February 1900 at Greenville, Franklin County, Illinois and from this union came Griffie, Ramos, Eva, and Tessie. George left home at 16 and went to Elgin to work at the state asylum. He sent money home weekly to his mother Ida who was again widowed for the second time with the death of Commodore in 1907. George was an ambitious and astute young man. He put himself through barber school and moved back to Du Quoin. George and Rachel had four children: George Jr., Earl, Phyllis and James.

Three barbers—George Neal, Clark and Walt Jones—rented the corner building on East Main and South Division and operated their barber shop. Then the three bought the building of C. N. Benton on North Division. The Midway Show was in the lower part and the Neal & Barber Supply Company, a barber shop, beauty shop, and a beauty supply shop on the second floor. The three barbers made "Palm-aid" for men's pompadour (hair style). Its consistency was similar to thick vaseline to make hair lay down. The three barbers mixed up the solution, bottled, labeled and sold it in the supply shop.

At the same time, George Sr. also contracted with Carbondale "Peerless Seamless Barbershop Supply." George bought a delivery truck. He collected and delivered towels from individual barber shops all over southern Illinois. The towels were laundered by his brother-in-law, C. E. Edison and wife at the Electric Laundry.

George Sr. was delivering towels with his seven-year-old son George Jr. They stopped to pick up a negro hitchhiker on the Illinois Central Railroad tracks at the little station at Ward, by De Soto. The hitchhiker was looking down the tracks at the fast approaching northern-bound train. He jumped clear. George was trying to get his son out of the car when both were killed suddenly on 18 April 1925 when the train collided with the truck. This was a heartache that his mother Ida always carried. George Neal, Sr. along with his son George Neal Jr. were killed by a train 18 April 1925 near DeSoto, Illinois. George Sr. was a businessman and entrepreneur with his barber business and seamless towel service. Josephine Stanhouse-Jones-Edison, George's sister-in-law, had been taking in washing after she became widowed, thus the idea for the seamless towel service and the laundry business. The Du Quoin Laundry was the first electric laundry in the Midwest. George promised to provide towels whenever needed, so as George Sr. and George Jr. were delivering seamless towels to Carbondale, their delivery truck stalled on the tracks at Hallidayboro Crossing. A train was bearing down of them as he tried to restart the car. A Negro hitch-hiker, who had been with them, jumped to safety.

Rachel was a member of the First Baptist Church, Eastern Star Chapter 395, and Du Quoin War Mothers in Du Quoin. She liked sewing and quilting and raised four children as a widow for eight years until she married Charles A. Davis.

NEHRING-BARTLET

Wilhelmenia Bartlet (1835-1908) was born in Pomeranian, Germany. She came to the United States in 1871 with Emelia (1861-1940), two other children and one boy who died aboard ship. He was wrapped in some kind of cloth or tarp and thrown overboard into the ocean. They supposedly came to St. Louis, then moved to Tamaroa. There she met and married Ferdinand Gross (1842-1881). They had only one child, Emma Louisa Maria, who was baptized at St. Marks Evangelical Reformed Church of DuBois (now St. Marks United Church of Christ) in 1876.

Emelia Bardle (Bartlet) (1861-1940) was born in Stetten-Pomeranian, Germany, and came across to the United States as a small child, ten years old, in 1871, with her mother, Wilhemenia Bartlet. They settled near Tamaroa. When a young girl she met and married Herman Nehring (1854-1908). He was born in Hardon, Germany. When a young man he left Germany to escape the draft and went to Poland. Then came to the United States. It is believed he went to Wisconsin to cousins there, then to Tamaroa.

Herman Nehring lived east of the Todds Mill area. He was known to be a healer of animals by putting his hand on them and saying something like a spell. He had old books that gave him the words to say. The elders were very serious about keeping the old books secured. They said if you did not understand the books properly, the spell would backfire and something terrible might happen. When Doris Porter (grand daughter) was young, her mother, Anna, told her never to go upstairs at Herman's house because those books were kept up there. After Herman died, Anna burned them in the cook stove. As the books started to burn, the lids blew off the top of the stove and scared her terribly.

There was another interesting story about Herman's barn. It had a doorway that would cause the death of any animal that passed through it. Later, they dug up the doorsill and found a jar with papers buried beneath. After removing the jar, the door no longer caused any harm for animals passing through. No one remembers what happened to the jar of papers. We also do not know if there was any link between the jar of papers and the book of spells. Or it could be that the book was brought over from Germany. We will likely never know. Doris would like to hear from anyone who remembers other details of the above mysteries.

As long as Doris can remember, Herman's wife, Emelia, was crippled in a wheel chair from a lightning strike. They lived at the same house as her uncle, Max. None of the buildings remain today.

The following children were born to Emelia and Herman: Mary Zink (1882-1946), Minnie (1883-1886), Max (1886-1960), Albert (1889-1889), Finnie Azick (1890-1966), Frank (1893-1969), Henry (1896-1963), Clara Yung (1898-1937), Otto (1901-1962) and Alga Roethemeyer (born 1904).

Clara, Otto and Alga were born in Tamaroa, the rest in St. Louis, Missouri. Submitted by Doris Porter.

NICKENS-RAIL

Lemuel Nickens, born 15 March 1804 in North Carolina, and died 28 April 1880. Lemuel married Sarah "Sally" Rail 15 February 1826 in Maury County, Tennessee. Sarah "Sally" Rail, born 04 July 1804 in Tennessee, died 13 November 1879. Lemuel and Sarah are buried in the Mulkey Grove Cemetery in Perry County, Illinois.

The children of Lemuel and Sarah are: Hester Nickens, born about 1826, married John Akers about 1841; Rederick Sanders "Sandy" Nickens, born about 1835 in Tennessee, married Susan Francis Leialuly 06 April 1855 in Maury County, Tennessee. Sandy lived in Nashville, Tennessee before moving to Perry County, Illinois; Aley P. Nickens, born about 1834 in Tennessee, married James W. Hill 25 July 1851 in Maury County, Tennessee (James' wife's name is later given as Susannah); Riley Nickens, born about 1836, married Susan Hill 27 December 1856 in Maury County, Tennessee; and Henry H. Nickens, born about 1844, married Elizabeth Humphrey 20 November 1861. Henry was killed early in the Civil War.

Despite what the 1880 census says, all other census records indicate Lemuel was born in North Carolina and his wife was born in Tennessee. Lemuel was listed in Wilson County tax list from 1825 through 1829. He was living in Maury County for the 1830 census, in proximity to his wife's family. At the time of the 1840 census they were in Marshall County, and then were enumerated in Maury County for the 1850, 1860, and 1870 census. They must have moved to Perry County, Illinois between 1870-1873 because Rederick's two youngest children are born in Illinois.

Lemuel and Sarah only had the two daughters, Hester and Aley P. Nickens. It was believed for awhile that a Nickens girl married a Jackson. Unless one later remarried a Jackson, it is unsure how a Nickens girl in this family could marry a Jackson before they moved to Illinois. We now believe that Aley P. Nickens married James W. Hill. We know that Sarah Hill married Andrew Jackson. There is also no record of a marriage of a Nickens and Jackson in Tennessee.

Rederick enlisted in the Union Army February 1864 and was mustered out 20 June 1865. He was a private in F Company 10th Infantry. His brother, Henry, fought for the Confederate Army. Much of the Nickens information was provided by Jan Nickens Valdez. Submitted by Paul Kevin Commeans and Alda Crowe Fred.

PITCHFORD

Priscilla Pitchford is the daughter of Paul and Marilyn June Adelman Pitchford. She worked at a local insurance office for nineteen years. Priscilla quit her job and within a few days had a nine-to-five job at the Perry County Counseling Center, which she thought she wanted. She found out really fast that this was not her "cup of tea". She had been in the insurance business too long, plus her acquaintances from her previous job all wanted her to get back into the insurance business.

On 01 January 1994, Priscilla opened up her own insurance, license and title office in half of her garage at her house. Priscilla likes being her own boss.

Priscilla also started attending real estate courses at Southern Illinois University in January 1994, as real estate and insurance seems to go hand-in-hand. On 04 May 1994 she became a real estate sales person for Morgan & Morgan Real Estate.

After Priscilla got into the real estate business she decided that she wanted to live in a house instead of a trailer. She looked at several houses, but none was really what she wanted. Then the last of January 1996 the house right beside her trailer came on the market. Priscilla purchased the house on 16 February 1996. There were several things she wanted to do to the house before she moved in. Thank goodness her parents, Paul and Marilyn, were around. They did the work she would have had to hire done. On 10 April 1996, Priscilla's parents came and started moving her into her "new" home. They moved for three full days and half of another day. Nobody to this day knows where Priscilla had everything in her 12 foot by 60 foot mobile home.

On 17 May 1996 the mobile home was sold and moved. Priscilla had mixed feelings about seeing the mobile home leave as that was her first home for thirteen years. In fact, she shed a few tears, but Priscilla realizes that she is so much better off in the house than in the mobile home. Priscilla enjoys her house very much, especially at Christmas time since she is now able to put up seven Christmas trees instead of just barely having room for one.

Priscilla is keeping busy with her insurance, license and title work, and selling houses. In fact, in March 1998, Priscilla passed her test and she is now a broker in real estate. She works several hours a week, but now it is for herself. Priscilla enjoys what she is doing very much.

PITCHFORD-ADELMAN

Since the last Perry County Historical Book there has been a few changes in the Pitchford family.

Paul and Marilyn (nee Adelman) Pitchford were busy enjoying their retirement by running to flea markets looking for antique clocks and other fine collectibles. Plus enjoying just traveling.

But that soon ended on 03 July 1989 when Paul's mother, Anne Elizabeth Pitchford, was diagnosed with cancer. Ann had to have several treatments from August until October, which meant several trips to Carbondale. Then on 07 December 1989 Ann was admitted to the Pinckneyville Hospital. She was a patient in the hospital until 17 December 1989 at which time she was transferred to Pinckneyville Skilled Care since she was not able to take care of herself.

Paul Jr. and Marilyn were taking care of both their house and Paul's mother's home. They were trying to keep both of them going. Then one day they decided it was time for them to sell one of the houses. Paul and Marilyn had a big decision to make—which home to keep and which to sell. Since Paul's mother's home had been in the family so long Priscilla thought they should keep it. So this is what they decided to do.

In the spring of 1991 Paul and Marilyn put their house on the market. The day the big earthquake was supposed to hit Southern Illinois, 06 December 1991, the phone call came and the real estate office had a buyer for their house. Needless to say, there was no Christmas tree up that Christmas as they had until 04 February 1992 to get all 32 years of their treasures moved from their house to their "new" home.

They moved from their house to Paul's mother's house, which was only half a mile away, the whole month of January 1992. In the meantime Paul had already started remodeling his mother's house before their house was sold. Paul had the bedroom, living room, and dining room done, but not the kitchen, bath or family room. But they ran out of time so they proceeded to move anyway.

The final paper work was signed on their "old" house on 04 February 1992 and they were all moved into their "new" home. It was really a big adjustment as they went from a four bedroom, living room, two kitchens, family room, and a full basement to a one bedroom, living room, dining room, family room, one kitchen, and no basement. They sold a lot of items, and stored a lot of items in the bus shed. Thank goodness they had the bus shed to fall back on.

On 02 April 1992 Paul Jr. lost his mother, Anne Elizabeth Zoeckler Pitchford. Anna was buried on 07 April 1992 at the Tamaroa Town Cemetery next to Paul Jr.'s father, Paul Arthur Pitchford who had passed away on 25 July 1982.

Paul and Marilyn finished remodeling the house both inside and out in 1993, in fact the house really does not look the same. They feel that Paul's mother would be quite proud of the house.

Paul and Marilyn have now gotten into rental property in Du Quoin and they currently have several houses they rent out. It seems like there is always something that needs to be done on one of them.

In their spare time, which they hardly ever have time for, Paul and Marilyn enjoy going to Elko, Nevada and to the riverboats. They also keep busy with their new addition to the family. Paul and Marilyn have a two-year-old cat, named Stormy, which is spoiled rotten. Paul and Marilyn also do a lot of secretarial work at their daughter's, Priscilla's, office in Du Quoin.

PITCHFORD-ZOECKLER

Since the last Perry County Historical Book there have been a few things happened in the Pitchford family.

On 10 May 1989, Anne Elizabeth (Zoeckler) Pitchford was pleasantly surprised with a 80th birthday party given by her son, Paul Jr., daughter-in-law, Marilyn, and grand daughter, Priscilla. This was the first surprise birthday party Ann had ever had. When all of her family and friends started arriving at the bus shed across the road from her house, she did not know what to say. Ann could not believe that they had pulled this off without her knowing what was going on.

Shortly after her birthday, Ann started feeling bad. Then on 03 July 1989, she was diagnosed with cancer. Ann had several treatments from August until October and then on 07 December 1989 Ann was admitted to the Pinckneyville Hospital. She was a patient in the hospital until 17 December 1989, at which time she was then transferred to Pinckneyville Skilled Care since she was too weak to walk and take care of herself.

Ann's son and daughter-in-law, Paul Jr. and Marilyn were taking care of both her home place and their house, which was a lot of work and worry. Then one day they decided it was time for them to sell one of the houses. Paul and Marilyn had a big decision to make which one to keep and which one to sell. Since Paul's mother's home had been in the family so long, Priscilla thought they should keep it. So this is what they decided to do.

Paul and Marilyn put their house on the market and their house was sold on 04 February 1992 and they moved into Paul's mother's old home place. Paul and Marilyn remodeled the house from top to bottom. Ann would be so proud of the house now. Paul and Marilyn even put in bigger kitchen windows since Ann always enjoyed looking out of them.

On 04 April 1992, Paul Jr. lost his mother, Anne Elizabeth Pitchford, at the Pinckneyville Community Hospital. Ann was buried on 07 April 1992 at the Tamaroa Town Cemetery next to Paul Jr.'s father, Paul Arthur Pitchford, who passed away on 25 July 1982.

Paul and Marilyn are still living in the old home place. No body recognizes it due to the remodeling. Paul and Marilyn still have some chickens just like Ann used to have. They keep busy with the house, the yard, and the garden.

REVELLE, AXUM MAJOR

Interview with Mr. Revelle, Du Quoin Evening Call, 10 September 1934:

Axum was born in Edgecomb County, North Carolina on 11 September 1834 and came over the Blue Ridge Mountains while a baby, with his parents, in a horse cart, to Brownsville, Tennessee (Post Office, Cherryville, Tennessee) in Haywood County (later named Crockett County).

When he was five years old, he had a spell of cramp colic and told his mother if he had another spell he thought he would die.

Axum says customs during his early years were very different from present time. He and his brothers were "wild bucks" as he expressed it. They made their own first wagon. Wheels were made out of blackgum wood and the vehicle drawn by oxen. They had one old horse cart, not buggies. A few horses came in later.

Axum voted first for John Bell, a Whig, in 1856, who was defeated by James Buchanan, a Democrat.

Axum was a member of the Rebel army under Captain Clay. He rode his own horse to the war and returned on it afterwards. After he returned on his own horse near the end of the war, he then rode his horse to Jackson, Tennessee where he formally surrendered to Provost Marshall Smith of the Union Army. The Marshall told him he could take his horse back home with him. He never was captured nor did he ever serve as a prisoner of war. He moved to Illinois in 1864 after his father-in-law, Isaac Edward Maclin had moved here in 1863. The rebels made it hard for them to remain in Tennessee. He first settled in Du Quoin, but in 1872 he moved to his present farm site. Miss Eliza Revelle, his daughter, born 08 January 1866, now cares for him on the farm home.

Local country near Du Quoin was mostly prairie when he located here in 1864, with very little woodlands. Main and Division streets were laid off and so was the city park. Three business buildings at the corner of Main and Division streets housed the only stores and the population was only a few hundred.

(From the Genevieve Rainey Genealogical Collection.)

Note: In 1934 very few people lived 100 years. When news of this Centenarian reached St. Louis and Chicago newspapers, he received letters from all over the United States, mostly congratulations, but many from other Revelles wondering if they might be distant kin. Submitted by Eunice Ritter, granddaughter.

REVELLE, EUGENE

Eugene Maclin Revelle, the third son of Major Axum and Elsie Martel Revelle was born 03 June 1917 (see Revelle-Martel histories in Volumes I and II). He was named for his paternal grandmother, Susan Alice Maclin Revelle, who passed away two weeks before he was born, and had requested that the baby be named Maclin if it was a boy. As he grew up on the farm near Sunfield, he attended Sunfield School and graduated from Du Quoin High School in 1935 when our country was in the throes of the Great Depression. In 1938 he joined the Civilian Conservation Corps, an agency set up as a part of the Emergency Program of 1933. It provided employment and training for young men. He was inducted at Sparta, Illinois, and soon stationed near Contact, Nevada, helping build a new CCC Camp. Here he learned welding, surveying, mechanics and other valuable skills.

Eugene M. Revelle.

In 1942 Gene began working for Pacific Bridge Company and was immediately transferred to Hawaii to help in the construction of overhead cranes and dry docks and raising United States ships, sunk when Japan bombed Pearl Harbor. He then worked for the United States Army Engineers on the Island of Guam, and was there when the Japanese surrendered 09 August 1945. At the end of the war, in 1945-46, he was involved in loading a huge electric power plant called "The Electra" and a giant suction dredge into a dry dock and towing it 1600 miles north into Tokyo Bay. They then built the long runway for the International Airport there, called Haneda. This completed, he returned to Honolulu, Hawaii and subsequently came home to the United States.

Glenn U. Revelle.

In 1948, in Las Vegas, Nevada, Gene married Vera Mae DeFur. Vera was born 03 April 1921, the daughter of Ira and Bertha Woodside DeFur, and grew up in Du Quoin, Illinois. Also in 1948, he started working for Chicago Bridge and Iron, a company that erected oil storage tanks and refinery pressure vessels. This took him to many areas in the United States, Asia, South Africa and Europe, as oil discoveries were being developed in the Arabian Gulf, Middle East, and the North Sea. He lived overseas during these years with intervals on leave spent at home in Du Quoin. In 1951 he spent eight months in Thule, Greenland working with a consortium building Thule Air Base for the Army.

On a job in Mandan, North Dakota in 1953, Gene and Vera took six year old Glenn Underdahl into their hearts and home. His mother, who could no longer take care of him, asked Gene and Vera to take him to raise as their own, which they did. However, when they sought to legally adopt him, his mother refused.

Glenn was born 17 June 1947 in Thief River Falls, Minnesota. He grew up in Du Quoin, the foster son of Gene and Vera and assumed the name Revelle. His education was in the Du Quoin Grade and High Schools and briefly in Sesser High School. After high school, he joined the United States Marines during the Vietnam War. After training he was immediately sent to Da Nang, South Vietnam, where on 11 September 1967, at the age of 20, he was killed when an ammunition depot was bombed. Gene was on a job near Karachi, Pakistan when he was notified of his foster son's death. Lance Corporal Glenn U. Revelle was laid to rest with full military honors in Sunset Memorial Park.

Gene returned to Pakistan. He and Vera had divorced in 1964. He continued with Chicago Bridge and Iron in the Middle East, Turkey, Italy and Ireland. He retired in 1982 and since then has lived in Sesser, Illinois. Submitted by Eunice Ritter.

While performing in a school play at Eureka College, Dale met Sharon Kimple. They married on 03 July 1965. To this union two sons were born, Christopher Dale and Nicholas James. The family settled in Eureka, Illinois where Dale had a State Farm Insurance Agency and Sharon entered the teaching and library science profession. Christmas 1982 found Dale being diagnosed with cancer which took his life within three months. Sharon continued working and rearing their boys. Chris, following his mother's profession, is finishing a Masters of English and Library Science degree, and Nick, after serving his country in the Air Force, is also attending college.

Dale graduated from Illinois State University with a Bachelor of Science degree in Education. He married Anita Kirchner on 02 January 1971 in Seneca, Illinois. REVELLE-MARTEL

Major Axum Revelle was the son of Axum Major Revelle (1834-1936) and Susan Maclin Revelle (1840-1917), interred in Nine Mile Cemetery. Axum Major had migrated to Du Quoin, Illinois, from western Tennessee in 1863, after serving a term in the Confederate Army. About the same time, Alice Maclin left Tennessee with her parents, Isaac and Eliza P. Farmer Maclin, and brothers and sister. Money from the sale of their property was secured in a money belt which Alice wore beneath her petticoats, as the family traveled under protection of Union soldiers until they safely boarded a flat boat which took them to Cairo, Illinois. They then traveled by wagon to Du Quoin, Illinois. In 1865 Axum Major Revelle and Susan Alice Maclin married and later settled on a farm one mile west of Sunfield, Illinois. Here their son, Major Axum was born 28 September 1875.

Axum had four sisters-Eliza, who never married, Annie Kirkpatrick, Alice Richardson, and Bettie Dry. He attended Sunfield School, but quit at age twelve to take a full time job driving a delivery wagon for the Company Store owned by the Sunfield Coal Company. Later he became the storekeeper, buying and selling all the merchandise for the Company. He then worked in the mine, and as a coal salesman, traveling by train from Du Quoin through central and northern Illinois. In 1903, he became part of a group who sank and developed a new mine at Sunfield, which later became the Bailey Brothers Mine.

On 09 October 1904, Axum married Elsie Lou Martel, born 08 July 1882, a schoolteacher who lived in the Bear Point Community in Franklin County, Illinois, the daughter of Oscar Martel (1857-1951) and Elnora Hargett Martel (1860-1944), interred in Sesser City Cemetery. Axum and Elsie settled on a farm half a mile west of Sunfield and started their family of eight children. Six are now living. Evalyn Madge died in infancy and is interred in Nine Mile Cemetery. RICE

Hiram Rice's tombstone states he was 65 years, 6 months and 17 days old when he died. Many times these numbers are not accurate but if they are, figuring back from his date of death, he would have been born 12 March 1805. His parents were Hiram and Anna (Hutchings) Rice whose origins are unknown with rumors including Virginia and the Carolinas but nothing proven. They were in Robertson County, Tennessee when they died. Hiram Rice's paternal grandparents were James and Alice (Hix/Hicks) Rice. This James is listed in the DAR and was living in Logan County, Kentucky when he died. This is right across the border from Robertson County, Kentucky.

Hiram's first wife's name is not verified but a researcher in the early 1900s thought she might also have been a Rice, no verification. They had one known child, George W. P. Rice (article in this book). Details are sketchy but apparently something happened to Hiram's first wife. Hiram ended up in Perry County, Illinois and George apparently stayed with his grandparents Hiram and Anna Rice in Tennessee. George later ended up in Perry County also.

Hiram's second wife was Mary Ann Hutchings. According to her tombstone, she was born 16 May 1811. Her parents were John and Susannah (Youree/Yource) Hutchings. Around 1816/17 Mary Ann came with her parents and her Uncle William and Aunt Celia Hutchings (article in this book) in a covered wagon to the Illinois Territory to what would later become Perry County.

Hiram and Mary Ann were married 25 December 1827 in Perry County. Theirs was the second marriage license issued in the county. It is not known what all Hiram did but his probate showed horses, cattle and farming utensils. He died 29 September 1870 in Perry County. Mary Ann, according to her tombstone, died 13 December 1894. Both are buried in the Round Prairie Cemetery (have also seen it as Goldman Cemetery), Perry County.

Hiram and Mary Ann's known children, although there may be others, order unknown, are: Gilbert S., Alexander, John W., Thomas J., Mary C., Marion Jackson and James. Do not confuse this Thomas J. Rice with Hiram's grandson also named Thomas J. Rice (article in this book). Submitted by Janet Hutchings Amelunke.

RICE-FULTON

Thomas "Tom" Jefferson Rice was born 31 January 1851/52 near Round Prairie, Perry County, Illinois to George Washington Perrin and Minerva Catherine (Hutchings) Rice (article in this book).

Tom and Nancy Rice.

Nancy Romane Fulton (sometimes called "Rome") was born 01 January 1858 in Ohio (possibly Gallia County). According to her marriage certificate, her parents were James H. and Mary A. (Viers) Fulton who later lived in Perry County. Do not confuse them with a James A. and Mary A. Fulton family living in the Lost Prairie area, Perry County. Another researcher thought Nancy's parents were Harvey and Ruth Fulton. It is unknown where this information came from.

Tom and Nancy married 10 October 1880 in Perry County. Tom was a farmer. Later records show, at one time, he was a section foreman on the railroad. Tom played the fiddle. He played at wedding dances and things and could play up a storm. He loved to play for his grandchildren and tell them stories. Tom Rice united with the Missionary Baptist Church now known as Cross Baptist Church.

Nancy died 01 April 1907 in Tamaroa, Perry County, Illinois. Tom was married twice after Nancy died. Tom died 11 June 1928 in Tamaroa. Tom and Nancy are buried in the Round Prairie Cemetery (have heard it called Goldman Cemetery), Perry County.

Charles Rice (1882-1932) is buried in Tamaroa Cemetery. He first married Nellie and had Ralph Rice and Winnie Rice Anderson. Charles married second Julie.

Lanora Ann Rice Hutchings (01 May 1888-02 August 1954) (article in this book).

Lola Henrietta Rice (08 September 1893-24 May 1972) is buried in Mueller Hill Cemetery. She married Harry West and had Kenneth West, Arthur West, Mary "Faye" West Opp, and Robert West.

Vida "Grace" Rice (11 May 1895-13 August 1957) is buried at Mueller Hill Cemetery. She married Whitsel H. Smith who already had a daughter, Pearl Smith Barrett, by his first wife. Grace and Whitsel's children are Jewell Smith Ahlers, Billy Dean Smith, Stanley Smith, and Betty Smith Hill. Submitted by Janet Hutchings Amelunke.

RICE-HUTCHINGS

George W. P. Rice, according to hearsay only, no verification, is said to have been born 07 April 1826 in Robertson County, Tennessee. An early researcher thought his middle initials might stand for Washington Perrin. George's father was Hiram Rice (article in this book). Details are sketchy but it is believed that something happened to George's mother. His father came to Perry County, Illinois and remarried and George lived with his paternal grandparents, Hiram and Anna (Hutchings) Rice, in Robertson County, Tennessee. Sometime later, George also came to Perry County.

George married Minerva Catherine Hutchings on 07 December 1848 in Perry County, Illinois. Minerva's parents were John R. and Delilah (Jones) Hutchings (article in this book). It is unsure what all else he did but G. W. P. Rice was issued a license "to peddle goods wares & merchandize in this County for the Term of twelve months, commencing on the third day of February 1853" for which he paid five dollars. George died on 04 January 1962 in Perry County. Minerva later remarried Alfred Taylor.

George and Minerva's known children, although they may have had others, order unknown are: Sarah Jane (Rice) Uhles, Mary Ann (Rice) Cross, Thomas Jefferson Rice (article in this book), Delilah Elizabeth (Rice) Morgan and George Washington Rice. Submitted by Janet Hutchings Amelunke.

RITTER-BLUM

George Ritter was born on a farm in the Todd's Mill Community 13 June 1860. His parents were Christian Ritter (1833-1910) and Caroline Beck Ritter (1835-1921) both of German ancestry. Christian was buried in the Todd's Mill Cemetery and Caroline in the Lost Prairie Lutheran Cemetery. George attended school very little, and as a young man moved to Pinckneyville where he worked for his uncle, Matthew (Mathias) Schneider, a carpenter. George soon became a skilled carpenter.

George Ritter with Automobile Jack Patented 1920.

On 06 November 1883, he married Susanna Blum born 10 December 1863, daughter of George Blum (1820-1881) and Henrietta Jaimet Blum (1822-1883) who are buried in the Galum Presbyterian Cemetery. They had moved from Freeburg, Illinois, and settled south of Pinckneyville near the Brick School, which Susanna attended. This was then a wooded area, and one of her chores, as a child, was keeping the deer chased out of the garden.

George and Susanna first lived on St. Louis Avenue in Pinckneyville. Several years later they bought the Duckworth home located on a large tract on County Road. George divided the tract into lots and began building and selling houses. When this became part of the Ritter Addition to Pinckneyville, he gave Ritter Street the family name and named Elizabeth Street for his young daughter.

In the early 1900s George started a concrete business. He developed and patented a high quality concrete block and a machine for its manufacture. Ritter Blocks were widely used in Pinckneyville and the surrounding area. Many prominent homes and buildings still standing were built by George Ritter. He also built the block wall in front of the Pinckneyville City Cemetery. Now, after nearly 100 years, Ritter Blocks, known for their high quality, are being salvaged from old dismantled buildings in landfills and put to use. George also manufactured patented cast granite grave monuments, concrete tiles, coping, and well curbs. He held several other patents, including a folding ironing board, a water filter used to purify cistern water, and an automobile jack that lifted the entire car.

In 1922 George built a new house for Susanna who had borne fifteen children. Six died in infancy. Of the nine who grew to adulthood, seven are now deceased-Lena Catron (1886-1969), Elizabeth Ullrich (1889-1965), William Ritter (1890-1976), operator of Ritter Cleaners, Charles Ritter (1896-1940), gifted musician and Pinckneyville City Band Leader, George "Pete" Ritter (1900-1972), Loretta Koenegstein (1903-1988), and Leo Ritter (1907-1991), operator of Ritter Coal Company. Living are Marcella Terry, born 25 August 1903, twin sister of Loretta, and Gertrude Hammack, born 17 August 1898. We hope to celebrate her 100th birthday in August of 1998.

Note: Volume I of the History of Perry County (1988) contained a printing error in identifying the grandchildren of George and Susanna Blum Ritter. The following paragraph gives correct identification.

The grandchildren of George and Susanna are Frank, George, and Dale Ullrich, deceased, and Gertrude Neuberger, Elizabeth Bessinger, and James Ullrich, living, children of Elizabeth Ritter Ullrich; Charles "Teeter" Ritter, Evelyn Patterson, Dorothy Elliott, and Jimmie Ritter, all deceased, children of William Ritter; Donald and Robert Ritter and Patricia Price, children of Charles Ritter; Billie Koenegstein and Sylvia Eaton, children of Loretta Ritter Koenegstein; Robert Terry, who lost his life in World War II, and Kenneth Terry, sons of Marcella Ritter Terry; Virginia Klingenberg, deceased and Natalie Rottet, Leola Rushing, and Melody Douglas, M.D., daughters of Leo Ritter.

George Ritter died 27 March 1935, and Susanna 10 May 1967, with interment in Mueller Hill Cemetery.

ROACH

Ralph E. "Tiny" Roach was born 23 December 1909 in Du Quoin, the second son of Charles and Allie (Swallers) Roach. As was very typical of young men in the 1920s, he quit school after the eighth grade to go to work in the coal mines. In his youth Ralph was small for his age and was nicknamed "Tiny", but as he grew to be over six feet tall, friends shortened the name to

"Tine". He spent many years working in various coal mines in the vicinity. During summers Tiny and his brother, Joe, played amateur and minor league baseball.

In 1932 Ralph married Ivo Golligher Barnfield.

In 1943 Tiny was inducted into the United States Navy where he served until the end of World War II as a deep sea diver. Upon returning to Du Quoin he went back to the coal mines where he worked until he became a Du Quoin Police Officer during the 1950s.

In December 1957 Tine and Ivo adopted a son, Tim, who now resides in Nashville, Illinois. Tim also served in the United States Navy.

Tiny was elected as City Commissioner twice. He served as Police and Fire Commissioner from 1969 to 1973 and then served as Street Commissioner from 1973 to 1977.

In May 1977 Ivo passed away following a lengthy illness. A few years later Tine remarried, purchased a mobile home, and took his new wife, Ruth, in search of the best fishing places they could locate. Tiny and Ruth traveled across the country and finally settled in Nashville, Illinois where he passed away very suddenly in March 1988.

Many old-timers in Du Quoin have their favorite tales involving Tiny Roach. He was a very generous, prominent man of the people.

ROACH-SRONCE

Joseph H. Roach was born 29 September 1907 in Du Quoin, the elder son of Charles G. and Allie (Swallers) Roach. He left school at a very early age to work in the area coal mines, but always found time during the spring and summer to play baseball. Friends remember seeing Joe and his brother, Tiny, playing for the local Coca Cola amateur team, then later for the Jacksonville Athletics minor league team. In February 1940 Joe signed a contract to officiate as umpire in the Kitty League, following his training as an umpire. He met and worked with several dignitaries of baseball, including Bob Feller, Dizzy Dean, Gabby Street, and many others.

Joseph H. Roach.

On 08 April 1925 Joe married Ruby Lucille Sronce. They had four children: Thomas Edward (born 08 December 1928; died 29 May 1975 in Capron, Illinois), Carlie Ray (born 02 July 1931), Barbara Jean (born 15 October 1933), and Conrad Eugene (born 24 September 1935).

Carlie, his son, Carlie Jr., and their families, as well as Conrad and his family still make Du Quoin their home. Barbara married and lives with her family in St. Louis.

With the outbreak of World War II, Joe continued to umpire and work in the local mines until 1942, when he was employed by the Federal Government to work on the Alaskan Highway, once known as the AlCan Highway, which was to be used as a route for military supplies. He went to Canada with a few other men from the area. During this time his only brother, Ralph ("Tiny"), was inducted into the Navy. When the men returned from Alaska most of them returned to the coal mines.

On 25 August 1944 Joe was killed in a mining accident at Truax-Traer Coal Company in De Soto, Illinois. He was 36 years old. Ruby died 01 September 1976.

He bought out his brother-in-law's (Harry Marlow) teaming interest to haul freight in 1923. In 1928 Joseph Thomas was voted on as Police Magistrate by write-in vote and lost by only two votes to William Taylor.

I have been told Joseph Thomas was a tall, stately gentleman, was very kind and well liked by most that knew him. He liked peppermint candy.

On 13 February 1938 Joseph passed away from a heart condition at the Anna State Hospital. His wife, Myrtle, passed away 01 August 1969. Both are interred at the Antioch Cemetery in Tamaroa, Perry County, Illinois. Submitted by Alice Jane Roberts Dorsey (grand daughter).

until Dorothy's death in 1985 and he could no longer live alone. In 1987 he moved in with a family member.

Joseph and his wife moved to Du Quoin in the early 1930s until the 1960s so he could be closer to his employment. He worked for the Sims Motor Sales in Du Quoin in the early 1920s and would tell of putting the first Model Ts together. They were shipped in crates by train from Sears, Roebuck and Company, taken to the Ford garage, assembled by him, then sold. After the Depression he worked as a coal miner for the Ritter Coal Company for several years. When it closed he worked for the Joleanna Coal Company in Vergennes, Illinois. When it closed he went back being a mechanic. He worked for Sims Motor Sales for a very short time then worked for the United Electric Farms. He then joined the Rodely Farm Equipment Company. Their table was always large enough for anyone wanting to join in the family meal. They helped many people less fortunate than themselves. Not so much financially but with an open heart and a helping hand. Joseph never cared for politics and very seldom went to church but read the Bible very often.

Several of the Roethe brothers worked for the railroad. Some people may remember the Illinois Central train engineer who, for over twenty-five years, made his train whistle sound like "whippoorwill". That engineer was Albert Roethe. From the time he could lisp "choo-choo" it was his ambition to become an engineer. He started work as a section hand, worked out of East St. Louis as a fireman and, after six years, finally grasped the throttle and the whistle cord which made him so popular as an Illinois Central engineer. ROETHE-LYKINS

James Ervin Roethe was born to Ervin and Hilda Roethe of Pinckneyville, Illinois on 16 January 1950. The second of three children, Jim spent his early years learning the value of hard work from his parents. He attended Pinckneyville Community High School where he was involved in several student and sports organizations. After graduation, Jim attended Southern Illinois University in Carbondale, majoring in Industrial Arts. In 1970 he married Susan Lykins of Pinckneyville who was also attending Southern. Susan and Jim continued to live in Pinckneyville until they graduated from college in 1972. They then relocated to Momence, Illinois where Jim taught Industrial Arts at Momence Junior High while Susan worked as a secretary.

Susan(Lykins), Jami, Niki, and James E. Roethe.

After three years in Momence the couple moved to Evansville, Indiana where Susan worked at St. Mary's Hospital and Jim taught at Howard Roosa School. In 1976 twin daughters arrived on 28 November. Jami and Niki were quite a surprise to their proud parents because they arrived exactly one month early. Jim then left the field of teaching in order to expand his horizons.

He began working as a salesman for Bell Manufacturing based in Bowie, Texas which manufactured oil field engines and parts. This change in employment led to relocating the family to Golden Gate, Illinois in 1982. It was here that his daughters began first grade at Merriam Elementary School. Susan began working at Fairfield National Bank.

After many years of employment at Bell, Jim began working for Arrow Specialty Company, another oil field engine supplier, based in Tulsa, Oklahoma. After several years at Fairfield National Bank, Susan changed careers and began working for Champion Laboratories as a Personnel Specialist in 1992. In 1995, Jami and Niki graduated from high school and obtained full tuition scholarships for Frontier Community College in Fairfield, Illinois.

In 1997, the girls graduated from Frontier where they were awarded the President's Award for Outstanding Students. They now attend Eastern Illinois University at Charleston, Illinois where they are majoring in Early Childhood Education. After they graduate in the spring of 1999 they plan to teach in the Southern Illinois area. Jim is now running his own business called Engine Efficiency Systems which is based in his home. It relies heavily on Jim's many years of experience in the oil field industry. Currently Susan is employed at Citizens National Bank of Albion, Illinois where she works with the Chief Financial Officer.

Throughout the fifteen years that the Roethe family has resided in Golden Gate, they have been very involved in the Ellery Christian Church and many other community activities. In spite of the fact that Jim and Susan have now lived outside of Perry County for 24 years, they still are frequent visitors to the Pinckneyville area due to the fact that Jim's parents and one sister and Susan's mother and one sister still reside in the area. Submitted by the combined work of Jim, Susan, Jami, and Niki Roethe.

A later clapboard home had an L-shaped addition which housed a classroom and boarding services for several students. Finally, between 1854 and 1856, Locust Hill Academy was built, a home that is still standing south of Tamaroa. It is now the Calvin Ibendahl home. ROOTS

Benjah Guernsey Roots was a pioneer educator and abolitionist who came to Perry County early in 1839. He had spent some time in Shawneetown awaiting subsidence of swollen streams and drier weather as he picked his way along the old Shawneetown to St. Louis trail. The Connecticut native was looking for a spot where he could locate and build a home.

Locust Hill Academy at Kimzey Crossing-Home of Calvin and Jean Ibendahl.

B. G., as he was known, found that spot, a total of 1200 acres, about a mile south of the present village of Tamaroa. He built a log cabin and went back to Connecticut for his family.

Roots was an avid abolitionist and aided many run-away slaves as they escaped to the North. His "underground railway" station was probably in his basement. There was a secret passageway discovered in the back kitchen wall when the house was remodeled in 1956. There was a fake cistern in the basement beneath the wall. There was never any water in the cistern and earthen seats were carved inside the brick wall.

When the Illinois Central Railroad came to Southern Illinois, it was B. G. Roots who did the surveying from Centralia to Carbondale. The story is told that B. G. put the curve in the railroad north of Du Quoin so the tracks would cross his property and he would have train service, which was provided free of charge by the Illinois Central because Roots did not charge for the use of his land.

Roots was known as "Father Roots" in the early years of the Illinois educational system. He was a pioneer in using the graded school system. Prior to his time, students progressed from "reader to reader" as their ability increased. Roots was also on the Board of Higher Education and helped J. B. Turner establish the University of Illinois. He rode horseback to attend meetings in Chicago and Springfield.

Roots is credited with taking six teachers from Du Quoin to Arkansas where they established the first public school system for that state. He also taught at the Sparta Seminary from 1846 to 1851. He lobbied for the passage of the Normal School Act, which brought the Normal School, now Southern Illinois University, to Carbondale. The school was planned for Tamaroa, but lost by one vote in the General Assembly.

Locust Hill was a stock farm where purebred horses and mules, registered cattle and hogs were raised. Wheat, corn and hay were the main crops.

There were lots of fruit trees. The yard was landscaped with 40 kinds of trees, all native to Southern Illinois. Peacocks strutted in the four-acre yard.

After the Civil War, some of the run-away slaves returned to the Roots farm where they lived and worked until they died. Many of them are buried in the woods on the farm. A hired hand named Goode was given employment in Springfield after the farm was sold in 1905.

Mr. Roots passed away in 1887. He is buried in Tamaroa with the rest of his family. It is a fitting location since Mrs. Roots and her sister named the village of Tamaroa.

Remaining family members are Frances Roots Hadden and her brother, John Logan Roots of Mackinac Island, Michigan. The Logan Herbert Roots family is buried in the Bishop's family plot on Mackinac Island, Michigan. There are distant relatives in Oregon.

Godfrey, 12, had scarlet fever in 1917 and a quarantine sign was hung on the door, curtains pulled down. The sisters stayed at home but the five Schleper brothers were sent to Howell Hotel, on the corner of Chestnut and East Main. Henry would come to the house and crawl in the window, bringing food. Godfrey and Clem drove the Schleper Brothers delivery cart pulled by two horses. Godfrey, 17, went by train to Camp Custer in Battle Creek, Michigan-a military training camp-for a month in 1922.

Josephine's weekly chore was pumping the water, heating it, and filling the bath tub which was set in the kitchen for the family bathing each Saturday evening. The youngest child went first, then the girls and then the boys. The tub was emptied and then fresh hot water was poured in to the tub for the mother and then the father.

Charles Sanford, Jerry Schleper, Godfrey Schleper, Josephine Schleper "Sister Illuminata", Henry Schleper, Clem Schleper, Tony Schleper.

Josephine loved school and was an eager learner. When she was 19 in 1914 her cousin, Mrs. Addie nee Grone ___, of St. Louis, a widow with young children, invited Josephine to go on an Alaskan cruise and be the children's nanny. Addie Grone was the daughter of Henry Grone and Rose Thelen of St. Louis, who was the niece of Angela nee Thelen Huelsmann of Waterloo, Josephine's grandmother. Josephine was a good nanny and Addie Grone took her on other trips.

Josephine had the "calling to be a nun" and to teach children. She became Sister M. Illuminata on 08 May 1918, C.J.J.S. Precious Blood Order at the Motherhouse in O'Fallon, Missouri. An elderly sister by that name was buried on 08 May and so the nuns suggested that she take "Illuminata" as her name. She professed her vows on 10 August 1921. Josephine did not come back to Du Quoin for about ten years. However, the family could go to Missouri and visit. In later years the nuns allowed her home visits.

She spent many years at St. Genevieve, Missouri, St. Peter's at Marthsville, and Washington, Missouri, teaching fourth to sixth grades. When she was elderly, she retired from ill health and lived at the Motherhouse. Her attitude throughout her life was joyful, peaceful, and fulfilled. She died 08 September 1974 and was buried in the cemetery behind the Motherhouse. Submitted by Janet Schleper Austin.

SCHLEPER, MARY ANNA "ANNIE"

Mary Anna "Annie" was the first child of Frank J. Schleper Sr. and Anna Huelsmann, his second wife. Anna was born 07 February 1885 in the business home above the F. J. Schleper Merchantile Grocery at 30 West Main Street, Du Quoin. Annie's parents spoke German in the home and German was taught at the parochial school. A law was passed during World War I that English would be taught in all the schools. Penmanship, arithmetic, spelling, grammar, history, and geography were stressed by the nuns. In the beginning school only lasted five months. The Schleper children all graduated from eighth grade and then went to work. The youngest Schleper children, Clem and Godfrey, went to high school.

Miss Anna Schleper, Daughter of F. J. Schleper Sr. and Anna Huelsmann.

Annie helped her young mother Anna with the younger twelve children. Then tragedy struck the family. Their father and prominent businessman of the community had an untimely death. Frank Sr. accidentally fell in his mercantile-grocery business. He sustained a broken collarbone, a broken arm, and internal injuries. He was preparing an order for shipment while standing on an elevated platform when he lost his balance and fell, thus causing his death from blood poisoning on 15 August 1906 as a result of this accident five days earlier. He died at age 55 at home with his family surrounding him.

Two years later Annie's mother died from uterine cancer in her home on the morning of 16 November 1908 at the age of 41 years, 11 months, and 13 days. Annie, Beatrice, and Gert had to prepare their mother's body which lay in the front parlor of the Schleper house overnight. Now Annie, 23, and Henry, 21, became the heads of the family, under the guidance of Reverend Klocke of Sacred Heart. Brother Frank, 28, was married and had his own family to guide.

Annie loved to cook. Her specialties were chicken n dumplings, shaum torte, pies, and cakes.

She also loved to sew. She made all her dresses without a pattern and taught the other sisters how to sew. They made the boys' knickers, slacks, underwear, girls' petticoats, bloomers, curtains, etc. She loved to do handiwork as crocheting, quilting, knitting, and embroidery. Annie and the girls were busy making bread, fixing meals, ironing, and cooking for a large family. After their mother died, Annie released the two hired girls in order to save money. The family always ad plenty of food from the grocery store. All of this was under her guidance at home plus helping the younger children in their studies. The family attended Mass every morning.

Annie raised her brother Godfrey since he was a baby when their parents died. Godfrey married Tessie Hicks in 1935 and they moved into the Schleper home. Annie lived with Godfrey and Tessie and their daughters Janet and Agnes. Annie was a substitute grandmother. Annie's sister Gert married Charles Sanford and they shared the other half of he big home. The three women, Annie, Tessie, and Gert, had a wonderful relationship. Annie lived with Godfrey's family until her last days. She died on 31 January 1972 and is buried at the Schleper lot. Submitted by Janet Schleper Austin.

Within the year on 08 November 1881 Katherine died. "The funeral services of Catherine, wife of our esteemed citizen, Frank Schleper Sr., took place this morning at the Catholic Church. The attendance was large and the funeral ceremonies, conducted by Reverend Charles Klocke, were beautiful and impressive. The sermon, eloquent and instructive, was delivered both in German and English." Katherine was born 19 August 1857, Chicago, Cook County. Her parents were Nicholas (born 1821) and Anna (nee Gruenewold) Mueller, both from Prussia, who married in 1851 in Chicago.

Later, widower Frank met Mary "Anna" Huelsmann from Waterloo, Monroe County, Illinois, who was in Du Quoin helping brother Tony Huelsmann's family and sister Adeline and John Koerber. Frank, 32, married Anna, 16, his second marriage and her first marriage, on 03 October 1883 at Sacred Heart with Reverend Klocke officiating. Anna's mother, Angela Huelsmann, had to sign a "consent of marriage" since her daughter would be 17 on her next birthday.

Frank, Anna, and Frank Jr. (three years old) made their first home above his corner merchantile grocery store. After Mary Ann "Annie", 1885, and John "Henry", 1886, arrived, the family needed a larger home. Frank Sr. owned lots 9 and 10 in the Railroad Addition at the corner of 103 North Walnut and Park Streets. In 1887 a modest home, the family's second residence, was built with two large barns in the back for six horses, delivery cart, and surrey. Then new family additions were added: Tony (1888), Charles (1889), Beatrice (1891), Gertrude (1893), Josephine (1895), Gerhardt (1897), and Clement (1898). Also, in 1899 Grandmother Angela from Waterloo was invited to move into the home.

On 03 March 1899 Frank had his modest residence at 103 North Walnut torn down and rebuilt on the same lot. Victor Hatfield was superintendent of the Schleper's new frame dwelling which cost $3500, featuring a beautiful walnut carved staircase, thirteen spacious rooms, large foyer, back stairway, two large porches, and large attic. The family temporarily moved three doors east on West Park to the Pepka house. "In August 1899 the handsome Schleper home was complete. It was one of the finest houses on the west side of the road and as fine a one as there is in the city." (DuQuoin Evening Call 04 May 1899) This was the fourth residence. Two hired girls helped frail Mrs. Schleper with the washing, ironing, cooking, and mending.

The Schleper home saw the addition of four more babies: Rosa (1900), Adelhaide (1902), Edward (1904), and Godfrey (1905). The family enjoyed happy hours here. Then tragedy struck. Their father Frank Sr. died on 15 August 1906 and their mother Anna died on 16 November 1908. Annie, 23 and Henry, 21, held the family together with the guidance of Reverend Klocke who came every Sunday for dinner. The children worked at the merchantile grocery store and wholesale grocery businesses and stayed together in the home until they married and moved away. SCHLEPER-NIEHAUS

Frank J. Schleper was the eldest son of Franz Henrick John Schleper and Carolina Niehaus of Teutopolis, Effingham County, Illinois, born 06 July 1851 in Teutopolis.

His father Franz's parents are Clemens August Schleper (born circa 1797) from Osnabruck, Oldenburg, Germany, and Anna Maria Engelmann, Germany. Franz was christened on 11 November 1817 in Lohne, Vechta, Olenburg, Germany, and his godparents were Franz Henrick Kreyenborg and Alesanorina Engelmann.

Franz's mother died in Germany about 1831 and his new stepmother was Marie Catherine Sommer. Clemens and Marie had a son named Anton Schleper, born on 04 October 1833, Lohne, Vechta. Franz attended the native school until 1835, age 18, when he went to sea as a sailor. He sailed on various seas and made a trip around the world as a sailor on a sailing vessel by the age of 21.

Franz's father Clemens and family came with many German friends and settled in Cincinnati, Ohio, in 1838-39 from the dutchy of Oldenburg. The German Land Company, formed by Clemens Uptmore, pooled money and bought land from the Land Office in Vandalia, Illinois., Clemens and his brother Frances Ludwig were part of the original 140 landowners. On 05 July 1838 the German Land company of Catholic immigrants purchased about 10,000 acres that will become the city of Teutopolis.

In 1841 Anton was seven years of age when the family moved to a farm north of Teutopolis. In 1842 Clemens died and he was the eighth burial on record at St. Francis Catholic Church in Teutopolis. Clemens' brother Frances Ludwig died in 1845.

In 1844 Franz left the sea and came to the United States, coming overland by wagon from Baltimore port on old route 41 to Teutopolis where his father, stepmother, half-brother Anton, uncles and cousins had settled. However, he found no immediate family there. He worked as a farm hand, saving his money for a future farm.

Franz, 32, married Anna Maria "Carolina" Niehaus, 17, on 05 June 1849 in Teutopolis. She was the daughter of Joseph Niehaus (1786-89 Westphalen, Oldenburg, Germany-14 April 1873 Teutopolis) and Elizabeth Bokel, Bokel, No. Germany. Carolina Niehaus was born 22 April 1832 and was baptized at Holy Apostles Peter and Paul at Cappellon diocese in Westphalen, Oldenburg, Germany. The Niehaus family left Germany to Cincinnati, Ohio in 1835.

Franz and Carolina Schleper's children born in Teutopolis were: Frank J. (Sr.)(06 July 1851-15 August 1906 Du Quoin; he became a prominent businessman in Du Quoin), "Mary" Elizabeth (03 September 1854-25 January 1936 Teutopolis; she married Joe Bussman), Maria "Anna" (11 February 1859-26 September 1944; Sister Cunegunda of Precious Blood Order of O'Fallon, Missouri), Maria Elizabeth (24 October 1860-08 September 1871 Teutopolis), Frances (04 October 1863-27 December 1938 Teutopolis; married Peter Koestner), Clemens (25 February 1866-25 February 1939 Teutopolis; married Elizabeth Habing), John Henry (06 October 1868-10 November 1872), Charlotte Theresia "Carolina" (06 January 1872-18 December 1953 Teutopolis; married Joseph L. Rechtiene), "Rosa" Sophia (29 August 1876-02 June 1966 Bishop Creek, Illinois; married John Repking, Bishop Creek).

Frank J. Sr. helped his father Franz with the farming. He attended St. Joseph Seminary in Teutopolis where he met the future Father Charles Klocke in 1864 before Klocke was ordained a priest in 1868. Priesthood was not for Frank Sr. He decided to leave Teutopolis and go to Du Quoin where he had two Masquelet cousins, one owned a German Pharmacy and one taught school. Also Father Klocke had been sent to Du Quoin in November 1868. So Frank Sr. received a dollar from his father Franz and with his good friend Ignotts Koerner, took the train south to Du Quoin. He arrived at the age of 18 on 01 October with fifty cents in his pocket.

Franz died 14 May 1900 and Carolina died 17 February 1895. Both died in Teutopolis and were buried at St. Francis Catholic Cemetery.

Frank Sr. married Katherine Miller of Chicago and to this union was born Frank Jr. Widower Frank Sr. married Anna Huelsmann of Waterloo and to this union was born 13 children (see other Schleper, Huelsmann, and Koerber articles). Submitted by Janet Schleper Austin.

SCHLEPER-ROGERS

Anthony is the third child of Frank J. Schleper Sr. of Du Quoin and his second wife Anna Huelsmann of Waterloo. He was born 20 August 1888 in the small modest home built at 103 North Walnut, the family's second of four residences.

Anthony had been helping his father and older brothers in the mercantile grocery before his father's accidental death. However, Anthony, 19 and brother Henry, 21, became the breadwinners for the thirteen Schleper children since their father and mother died so young. Sisters Beatrice and Gert clerked in the store with them.

(front)Clem Schleper, Tony Schleper, Anna Mae Schleper, (back) Charles Schleper, Frank J. Schleper III, Winifred Schleper, and Josephine Schleper (Sister Illuminata).

"Tony" was drafted into World War I in 1917-1918. He fought in the trenches and mud of Verdun, France. Life in America changed from leisure to a feverish pace to win the war. The Allies won final victory in 1918. The Yanks came home in great joy to their families.

Tony and Henry had keen business sense and good rapport with their customers. They enlarged their businesses by separating the mercantile dry goods store from the grocery store around 1925. Tony sold his interest in the store around 1942 and set up a grocery business at Dowell, Illinois where (Old) Kathleen Union Colliery Coal Mines was successfully mining underground. He operated this store for seventeen years and retired in 1959 in Du Quoin.

Tony married Winifred Rogers on 20 November 1919 at Sacred Heart in Du Quoin. She was born 31 March 1892 and died 18 April 1968 in Du Quoin. Their three children were Roger, Katherine, and Johanna. Roger married Shirley Moore, Perryville, Missouri, and their children are Roger (Kathleen), Mary (Mrs. Mark Unangst), and Nancy (Mrs. Kevin Cartee). Roger and Shirley made their home in Alton, Illinois. Katherine married Jon O'Connor and their children are Kathy, Dan, Jim and Mary Margaret and they made their home in Springfield, Massachusetts. Johanna was a nurse and retired in Alton, Illinois. In later years Tony lived with his children. He died 17 March 1981 at age 93 and is buried at Sacred Heart. Submitted by Johanna Schleper and Janet Schleper Austin.

Edythe was active in Sacred Heart Parent-Teacher Association and Catholic Daughters.

On 24 December 1958 Clem retired from the Du Quoin Post Office after 38 years on the route. His customers gave him a retirement party, a gold watch, and $38 in one dollar bills. Retirement was too quiet for Clem. He went to work selling postal workers' outfits and shoes for Feldman Brothers Clothing Store in a seven-state area. He loved being on the road and meeting new people, but missed Edythe. Clem was a Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus.

Edythe died 06 September 1978 in Du Quoin. Clem, 87, of Evansville, Indiana, formerly of 608 North Washington, Du Quoin, died 27 September 1985 in Evansville. He was buried at Sacred heart Cemetery next to Edythe.

He is a most courteous and obliging clerk. In November 1924 oldest brother Frank Jr. and Jerry opened Schleper's Bostonian Clothing Store at 28 West Main Street, Du Quoin. The building was owned by the Schleper brothers. Frank retired on 13 February 1929 and Jerry purchased Frank's half interest, leaving Jerry as sole owner of the business. The store was robbed several times and the merchandise was never recovered. Jerry had to absorb the losses. Times were difficult since the 1929 stock market and miners' strike. He was forced to sell his business to cover the bank loan in 1932.

Jerry married Emma Wear (1895-1959) of Du Quoin. The couple moved to Milwaukee where Jerry sold men's clothing as a traveling salesman. Later, the couple moved back to Du Quoin for a time and then moved to Scottsdale, Arizona, because of Jerry's arthritis. They opened the "Pottery Shop-Illinois". Jerry died in Arizona on 14 November 1958 and Emma had his body shipped back for the burial at the Schleper lot at Sacred Heart Cemetery. Emma died in 1959. SHURTZ-MC GILL

David Platt Shurtz, born 19 February 1870, and Minnie Jane McGill, born 18 December 1875, grew up near Mt. Vernon, Illinois. They married in the spring of 1891.

Although just 21, Dave was known as a woodsman, craftsman, and animal handler. He used just an ax to split shingles and pales that he twisted into heavy wire for fencing.

Dave and Minnie started life in a small log cabin on the Captain Hans place, in the northeast corner of Perry County. He worked out the timber and fenced and tended the cattle for the Captain and was allowed to add onto the cabin as their babies came. Those babies were: Clarence Andrew (02 February 1892), Etta Mary (04 May 1894), Druzie Marie (30 March 1896), Frank Haines (19 February 1901; author's father), John Hans (08 May 1903; named to honor the old Captain). With timber and fences all completed, they moved on to another tender's cabin to begin repairs on the Charlie Watson place.

Frank was three years and nine months old when they moved and in the spring of 1905 a small pony was bought and Clarence taught him to ride so he could herd their stock. He was too short to wade the weeds. Eventually, Frank became a very skilled horseman. He started school at East Linn in 1906 and it was teacher Zelma Rice's first year to teach. Though he was sickly, he figured he got about a year and a half done there. Frank remembers helping Clarence push mud and chink into the cabin.

They moved to the Hawkins place near the Lee graveyard where Alberta was born, 31 October 1908, and Frank went to school one more year at Roots School. Always a wizard at math, he was also a master story and letter writer.

Clarence eventually married Minnie Crane. Their children are French, Pauline, Davey Harriet (she rests in Lee graveyard), and Hubert.

Etta married Earl Foutch. Their children are Morris, Lester, Ardell, and Ivan-only Ivan survives.

Frank married Elnora Revelle, daughter of Axum and Elsie from near Sunfield. Their children are Hilda Earline, Wayne Martel, Eleanor Lou, and Frank Jerome.

John Hans married Floy Merile Preston from the Paradise area just south of Tamaroa, Illinois. They raised Marion Ray, Marietta, John David (died in infancy), Dale, Jane and Floy Ann. A horrible mine accident injured John so they moved to St. Louis, Missouri.

Alberta married Frank Smith, moved to St. Louis, and adopted John David Smith.

When the author was four her father took her to the Perry County Courthouse. She was simply transfixed by its beauty so her father had to drag her along as she stared up and down and around. He explained that her name and birthday were registered there in a big book. It was her first memory of feeling overwhelmed with pride. It still happens every time she passes it.

Dave and Minnie are interred in Paradise Cemetery. Submitted by Hilda Shurtz Isom Walker.

SLUSHER-MATHIS

Marion F. Slusher was born circa 1848, place unknown. When he was about 12 years of age and a brother David 10 years of age, Indians attacked and killed their migrating parents in Kentucky. Thus, Marion did not know his exact age. A minister happened along and discovered these two brothers alone and took them in and settled around Annapolis, Missouri. The minister's name was Copeland. Marion decided they were being mistreated so Marion ran away. He ended up in or around the Willisville area and a man, named Leonard Mathis, owned and operated an underground coal mine, took him in and Marion worked for him. As time went on, Marion ended up marrying Leonard's daughter, Margaret Ann Mathis, date unknown. Margaret Ann was born 22 February 1850 in Kentucky, daughter of Leonad and Lesty (Coleman) Mathis.

Marion and Margaret had the following children: Molly Slusher Kilgrove; Amanda Slusher Williams, then McDonald; Effie Slusher Higginson; Nellie Slusher Deppe; Anna Slusher Cheek; Emma Slusher Valentine; Ruth Slusher; William "Willie" Slusher; David Earl Slusher and Henry Slusher.

Marion and Margaret lived their earlier years in Randolph County, Illinois around the Percy area and their later years were spent in Pinckneyville, Perry County, Illinois.

Marion died in 1924 and is buried at IOOF Cemetery, Percy, Illinois. Margaret Ann died 20 March 1924 at the age of 74 years and is also buried at IOOF Cemetery at Percy, Randolph County, Illinois.

A grandchild of Marion remembers that he had a speech impediment-he stuttered. He would sing to this grandchild a song entitled, "I Don't Know What Makes Me Stu-Stu-Stu-Stutter So". It came natural for him to sing it just like it was written. Submitted by Marilyn Jones of Du Quoin, Illinois.

Arthur Lester Smith (26 April 1883-17 September 1963) and Ida May Campbell (09 February 1883-03 February 1969) were married in Pinckneyville on 02 December 1903.

Ida May was the daughter of Mary Ellen Stout (1849-1886) and James Madison Campbell (1846-1907). Mary Ellen was the daughter of Sarah A. Egbert (1822-?) and James Stout (1818-?) who were born and probably married in New Jersey. The Stout family moved to Franklin County, Indiana, then on to Perry County.

When Mary Ellen died at age 37, Ida May was three years old. She was taken from her mother's funeral by Elizabeth Catherine Carr (1840-?) and her deaf and speech-impaired sister-in-law, Hannah Mitchell (1828-1917) with whom she lived until her marriage to Arthur.

James Madison Campbell was the son of James Alexander Campbell (1815-1856) the eldest son of John Campbell (1794 in South Carolina-1864) and Nancy Ayers (1791 in Ireland-1865). James Alexander married Jane Ferguson (1818-1846), daughter of Abraham Ferguson Jr. (1789-?) and Elizabeth Edwards (1790-?). James and Jane were married in Chester District, South Carolina and made the journey to Perry County in 1844 in search of a more quiet and peaceful life than that which existed in the pre-Civil War South. With them were their two daughters, Nancy Elizabeth (1842-1914) and Martha Ann (1844-1925). Nancy married twice: her first husband was Madison "Matt" Davis (1824-1880) and after his death, she married Thomas Franklin Ryan (1843-1913). Martha Ann married James Tandy Davis (unknown). Jane Ferguson Campbell died in Perry County shortly after the birth of her third child, James Madison. Her husband, James Alexander married Mary Y. Haberson (1826-1852) in 1850. Mary died in childbirth along with their only child. James Alexander then married Agnes "Nan" Deem (about 1830-?), they had one son, Samuel Campbell (about 1855-?) who married Ella Bigham. After James Alexander's death in 1856, his three orphaned children by Jane Ferguson were raised by their grandparents, John Campbell and Nancy Ayers. After John's death, until her own, Nancy Ayers Campbell lived with James Madison Campbell. The other children of John Campbell and Nancy Ayers were: Hugh Campbell (1817-1871) married Jane Brown (1822-1898); John Campbell II (1820-1862) married Elizabeth D. McFadden (1822-1892), John died of wounds suffered in battle at Fort Donelson, Tennessee during the Civil War; Rebecca Jane Campbell (see below); William Campbell (about 1823-1835); Andrew Ross Campbell (1824-1862) married Cindrilla "Cinderella" Eveline Greene (1835-1868), Andrew died of smallpox contracted on the battlefields at Fort Donelson, Tennessee during the Civil War; Elizabeth Campbell (1830-1864) married Thaddeus King; Martha Ann Campbell (1832-1860) married Ebeneezer "Naze" Bigham; and Samuel Campbell (about 1828-before 1844) buried in South Carolina.

Arthur and Ida May Smith and children circa 1913.

Arthur Lester Smith was the son of James Armour Smith (1851-1884) and Martha Jane Bigham (1857-1905). He had one sister, Nora Viola (1881-1965). She married William Henry Reese (1878-1958), son of Reuben Reese and Mary Jinkins. After James Armour's death at age 33, Martha Jane Bigham Smith married James Armour's brother, Louis Benton Smith (1858-1942). Louis Benton's first wife was Francis Fannin. Louis and Martha Jane Smith had the following children: Anna Mae Smith (1886-1964) married Horace Bradley; Darius C. Smith (1889-1950) married Viola Lipe; Francis M. Smith (1891-1932); Leffa Smith (1892-?) married Everette "Buck" Williams; Elsie L. Smith (1895-1987) married Otto Hallbauer.

James Armour's father was Francis Smith (1804-1884) from Fairfield County, South Carolina. He was the son of Joseph Smith and Elizabeth Culbreath. In 1821, at the age of seventeen, he left South Carolina on horseback in search of land to homestead. He traveled behind a wagon headed north, occupied by a "Brown" family. Francis left South Carolina with a change of clothing and seventy-five cents-monies he used to purchase hay for his horse. When he arrived at the Kaskaskia land Office, the homestead land was gone. He worked on farms as a laborer and saved his money to buy farmland. On 24 May 1832, he enlisted in the Illinois 3rd Regiment, 3rd Brigade, Mounted Volunteers where he served as a spy in the Black Hawk War. For his service, Francis was allowed to purchase Military Track land-beginning his life as a farmer on 120 acres northwest of Denmark. In 1840 he married Jenette "Jennie" McHatton (1819-1873), daughter of Alexander McHatton and Jennie Smith. Francis and Jenette had the following children: Jane Ann Smith (1843-1903) married Benjamine Franklin Jenkins; Robert Alexander Smith (1848-1885); Francis William Smith (1849-1915) married Sarah Margaret Stevenson; James Armour Smith; Thomas Moore Smith (1853-1927) married Elizabeth Ann Stevenson; and Louis Benton Smith.

Martha Jane Bigham, mother of Arthur Lester Smith, was the daughter of Rebecca Jane Campbell (1822-1911), daughter of John Campbell and Nancy Ayers, and Middleton McFadden Bigham (1821-1893), son of Isaac Bigham (1776-?) and Rachel Weir (unknown) of Chester District, South Carolina.

Arthur and Ida May were married by Reverend William Templeton and "returned to the home of her foster Mother for a prayer meeting after the wedding ceremony." They began their life together on 125 acres about one and one-half miles north of Denmark. An existing old log cabin temporarily housed the young Smith family and was later replaced by a new home which stood just north of "the Old Yeller Hill", leading down to the Galum Creek bridge. Their children walked or rode their horses to attend the one room South Six-Mile School, which lay another two miles or so to the west of their farm.

Arthur Lester was an avid fox hunter and raised championship fox hounds, which Dr. Daines, the dentist from Percy, showed in competition, winning many trophies throughout the area-and particularly in Kentucky. Arthur was very proud of his dogs and the trophies they had won. In addition to farming his land, he was the Road Commissioner for District 64, Perry County for 27 years. After his children were grown and married, he and Ida May moved to "town"-Cutler. Arthur worked for a few years in the Wilson Coal Company underground shaft mine in Cutler-continuing however, to farm the old Galum Creek property. Eventually he sold the property to Southwestern Coal Company, but continued to "visit" the old homeplace until his death.

Ida May loved children, quilting bees, "apple butter making time" and driving with Arthur in their Model A Ford back to the old farm. They had ten children: James Clarence "Jim" Smith (1905-1961) married Frances Pauline Gruber-no children; Melba Louise married Erwin Huch and Gary James; Edward Stanley "Bill" Smith (1907-1980) married Eva Mae Schubach, no children; Martha Lorene "Sis" Smith (1909-1974) married Robert Dwight Gruber (1908-1992) one child, Judith Ellen, married William "Bill" Davis; Ellen Irene Smith (1909-1909), twin of Martha Lorene; Laura Lucille Smith (1910-1997) married first Roscoe "Rock" Cofer (1906-1950) two children-Jimmy Lee married Betty Hanes, and Maydell (1937-1937), married second John Hillard; Helen Adair Smith (1911-1989) married James Milo Richmond (1903-1977), two children: James Arthur married Evelyn Apple, and Milo Eugene who married Bonnie Snyder married second Ray Todd; Beulah Adeline Smith (1911-) married Valley Leroy Bigham (1907-1996) and had ten children; Kenneth Norbert married Barbara Allen; Jackie Leroy married Barbara Bigelow; Gwendolyn Sue married Reverend Robert Taylor; Richard Edward married Anna Underhill; Sharon Ragene married Richard Rosemeyer; Donald Smith married Julie Deck; Douglas Bryan married Brenda Adams, Kelly Berry, and Reva Vowels; Brenda Mae married Reverend David Totman; Stephen Paul married Judith Holmes; Helen Elaine married David Miller; Ruth Iris Smith (1916-) married Lawrence Fredrick Mohr (1914-1985) three children: William Arthur married Verna Mae Loos, Ruthann married and divorced Gordon Plymale, and June Iris married John Margenthaler, Randy Edward, and Neal McDaniel; Erma Marie "Nell" Smith (1919-) married Stanley Walter "Mix" Carter (1918-1994) and had two children, Susan married and divorced Richard Patton, and Sally married first John Walter Roberts, second William "Bill" Kokos; and Arthur Lester Smith Jr. (1926-1989) married first JoAnn Buseglio and had one child, Mary Ellen (1957-1958), and married second Margaret Van Ausdahl.

Arthur and Ida May Smith were faithful members of the First Baptist Church in Cutler, where Arthur served many years as Deacon. They are buried in Cutler Cemetery. Their surviving daughters and grandchildren cherish their memories of Arthur and Ida May. SMITH-GARWIN

Martha Jane Smith (1843-1923) was the daughter of George Seigfried Smith (1817-1902) and Rachael Garwin (1817-1923). Her siblings were Adoniram Judson (1842-1923), Walter S. D. (1845-1924) a Baptist minister, and Friend Taft (1847-1893).

The George S. Smith family settled in Perry County, Illinois during the Civil War. Just prior to the War, originally from Ohio, they had settled in Missouri for the mother's health. This new site soon became the scene of Civil War action so they had to hurriedly pack and leave. They decided to go to Perry County, Illinois where friends from Ohio, the Hayes family and others, had settled. They settled at Old Du Quoin where they met the Elijah Bartley Kelly family. Elijah Bartley Kelly (1814-1876) married Eliza Ann Boyles (1814-1901). Later, A. J. Smith married a daughter, Martha Kezia Kelly (1845-1914).

The mother, Rachael, did not live long and was buried in the Old Du Quoin Cemetery. The father, George S. Smith, later married twice more and is buried in the Pinckneyville IOOF Cemetery. The eleven children of A. J. and Martha Kelly Smith were born at Old Du Quoin. The author's father went to school at the seminary that used to be there.

Walter S. D. Smith married Laura Ann Gordon (1851-1895). They had twelve children of which six grew to adulthood.

Friend Taft Smith married Amelia Kennedy (1855-1925) and adopted a daughter. The Ross' had a son, Aradaud(?) and a daughter that died young.

Author's note: As a child I remember visiting Aunt Jenny and Uncle Walter, their visits to us (we lived with my grandfather), and visits to my grandmother's sisters. Carrie, who married Rudolph Wheatley, had a huge oak tree in front of their house in Du Quoin. Aunt Mary Kelly was a missionary who lived at Christopher. My grandmother died before I was quite a year old, from a fall that broke her hip. I think the land the Smith family had is now part of the Du Quoin State Fairgrounds.

Miscellaneous information: Leonard Thomas Ross was the son of Arad L. Ross and Cynthia Burpee. Amelia Kennedy Smith was the daughter of George Kennedy and Ellen C. Ross. Submitted by Evelyn Smith Worthen of Murphysboro, Illinois.

SMITH-KELLEY

Henry Guy Smith (14 March 1883-11 September 1951 at age 65) married at age twenty to an eighteen-year-old lady named Gertrude Hattie Kelley (09 December circa 1885 at Shelbyville, Illinois-08 March 1974 at age 88). The records show that the minister was J. B. Webb with J. C. Taffee as witness.

Their children were Inez (married Charles Dempsey), Percy, Louise (married Ewald Pyle), Mike (married Audrey Bigham), Harry (married Nina Mayor), and Dorothy (married Jayce Coffel) (see Smith-Polito history).

Henry Guy and Gertrude Hattie Kelley Smith.

Henry Guy Smith farmed with his father, Charles Porter Smith, as a young man. When the Illinois Central Railroad began to put in the second track, he took a team and a grader and hired out to help. Illinois Central then hired him as a brakeman on the railroad. When he retired, he had advanced to yardmaster. He died in Chicago, Illinois. His family was informed by his railroad "buddies."

His wife, Gertrude Hattie Kelley Smith, came from Shelbyville, Illinois to teach at the Seven-Day Adventist School south of Du Quoin on the gas plant road. She taught there five years before marrying Henry. Gertrude Hattie's parents were Joseph Samuel and Mary Amanda Tuttle Kelley.

Henry Guy's parents were Charles Porter (died at age 76) and Alice Gray Smith (from the Elkville, Illinois area). Charles and Alice Gray Smith were married 04 May 1884 by Squire Burbank, near Old Du Quoin, Illinois. In a newspaper story covering a family celebration of their 51st wedding anniversary, the bride tells this story. In order to get married, they had to cross a flooding creek. It was so deep that the water came up into the floorboard of the spring wagon.

Most of this family is buried in the Old Du Quoin Cemetery in Perry County.

Charles Porter Smith's parents were Horace Melton and Jane Chandler Smith. Alice's parents were William and Angeline Gray, natives of Tennessee.

As a reminder of the unsettled days, Charles P. had a brother who was scalped by Indians, but the experience was not fatal. Charles helped to move buildings from Old Du Quoin to the new town of Du Quoin on the Illinois Central Railroad. He helped build several of the homes in the south part of Du Quoin, Illinois.

SMITH, LUCIUS SKINNER III

Lucius Skinner Smith III (1919) is the first of his family in four generations of merchants, bankers and newspapermen to serve in uniform. Recipient of an A.B. in Modern European History and Geopolitics in June 1941 at the University of California, Berkeley, he earned his wings in naval aviation early in 1942. Commissioned in the Marine Corps, he helped repel the Japanese offensive at Guadalcanal before that year was out.

In August 1945, second in command of a squadron of night fighters preparing at its base at Kadena, Okinawa for the invasion of the Japanese homeland, he learned that at precisely 17 seconds past 8:15 a B-29 from Tinian had released a revolutionary "atomic" bomb onto the city of Hiroshima, Japan. Within days the War in the Pacific was history.

Home was Laguna Beach, California. There he met his infant first-born, Lucius IV "Duffy", commemorated on the cowling of his daddy's Hellcat at Kadena by an artist's depiction of dice face-up showing a three and a four—"Pappy's Lucky Baby."

Lucius Luc' Smith III—1983.

Luc (as he prefers) remained on reserve call until 1958. By then his children included a daughter, Suzy, and three more sons: Alexander, Bret and Anthony. He retired with the permanent rank of Lieutenant Colonel.

In succeeding years he was a journalist (five years with Hearst Newspapers) which he considered more of a trade than a profession. His interests in history and politics led him to craft a grass-roots lobby to jump-start what became the daddy of today's IRAs—the Keogh Plan—and, in 1975, the stalled American Freedom Train. Pulling rank with Mayor Daley's ubiquitous "Colonel" Riley, Luc won the support of that unrivaled director of civic fireworks and hoopla; the Bicentennial Train tooted up a patriotic storm from Chicago's Navy Pier, and rolled out a critically successful two-year transcontinental pageant.

In 1986 he undertook to win Congressional recognition of the risks of radiation exposure inherent to those service personnel who witnessed the two decades of open-air nuclear weapons tests. In 1988 the Radiation-Exposed Veterans Compensation Act reached the desk of President Reagan. Overturning the White House staff, he signed the bill on 20 May. Within days the bill's author, Congressman (and doctor of medicine) J. Roy Rowland of Georgia, and the ranking minority member of the Senate Committee on Veterans Affairs, Frank H. Murkowski of Alaska, each penned personal notes to Luc Smith to express gratitude for his support. Said Murkowski: "This legislation and its enactment would not have been possible without your support, perseverance and faith."

C. in 1992.

SMITH-POLITO

Percy Smith married Mary Marie Polito in De Soto, Illinois 17 January 1934, or three days after her birthday. Percy retired after working fifty years as a professional exterior house decorator/painter. Except for Percy's two years in the Army, they both have lived in Du Quoin all their lives.

Their names were David (oldest), Robin, Yvette, and Robert Timothy "Mick". All of them graduated from the Du Quoin High School and from Southern Illinois University at Carbondale. The children's father died in a car accident when Mick was a baby. Mick went on to receive two degrees in psychology. He now works as a professor in Library Science at Princeton University in New Jersey.

Percy and Mary Marie Polito Smith.

Fred's first marriage was to Joan Morr. The children were Angel, Christina, Annie, Reyna and Kimberlee. Fred married second to Valeria Baumann 15 April 1978. There were no children from this marriage.

Percy was born in Du Quoin 14 September 1907 to Harry Guy and Gertrude Hattie Kelley Smith (see Smith-Kelley history).

During his teenage years he lived and worked on a farm on the gas plant road, south of town. It belonged to his grandparents, Charles Percy and Alice Gray Smith.

Percy remembers when Washington Street in Du Quoin only went south to about the present Southtown Mall. The main south entrance into town was Madison Street. He also has fond memories of Saturday nights in Du Quoin. His grandfather would come in for a shave and some relaxation and bring Percy along. During the shave he would give five cents to his grandson to spend as he wished.

At age 32, Percy went into the United States Army. He began at camp Kallien, Washington, in a heavy artillery unit, then was transferred into an infantry unit. Most of his tour of duty was in a military police company at Fort Lewis, Washington (Company A, 69th E.T. Battalion). He received his honorable discharge two years later.

During the Depression years Percy supplemented his painting income by using his truck to haul coal. Many days he worked in the Majestic mines as a "mule skinner". He also worked at many small independent mines in the area. Many times they could not pay wages so Percy received shares in the company. He did not work underground. Listening to the roof of the tunnels cracking ("top-a-talking") and the rocks falling did not seem to be a good way to make a living to him.

Fishing is still Percy's main hobby. This has helped him get acquainted with many friends beneath and above the water.

Stanhouse, born 23 January 1878 in Illinois, died 23 March 1944, married Elmer Levi Commean; Margaret Elizabeth "Maggie" Stanhouse, born 02 November 1887 in Illinois, died 1979 in Du Quoin; Walter G. or L. Stanhouse Jr., born 27 December 1881 in Illinois, died 08 February 1955 in Du Quoin, buried in the IOOF Cemetery in Du Quoin; Amos Ardell Stanhouse, born 15 October 1883 Du Quoin, Illinois, died 28 May 1946 in Du Quoin; Rebekah "Sissie" Stanhouse, born December 1885 in Illinois; Thomas "Tom" A. The name Stanners was changed to Stanhouse because the tradition in the old country (Scotland) was to say you were from the "House of someone's surname," but you would tell people you were from the "Stanners House." So people in the United States would mistakenly call them Stanhouse.

Walter Stanhouse was a resident of Illinois for 48 years and died accidentally by top coal falling on him in Forester's Mine (later known as Paradise Mine) in Du Quoin. Walter immigrated to America when he was five years old with his parents and they settled in St. Johns, Illinois. He was a member of the K. of P. Lodge and Red Men. (Source: Du Quoin Evening Call, 12 July 1909.)

It is believed the Stanners migrated to America in 1861. One brother got off the boat in New York and the other two brothers went to Louisiana, then traveled to Kentucky. They worked in the mines in Kentucky and then moved to Perry County, Illinois.

In 1880, Walter and Rebecca Stanhouse were living on South Walnut in Du Quoin, Illinois. In 1900, they were living at 32 Hickory in Du Quoin.

In the 1920 Census, Rebecca was living alone on East North Street, next door and just east of Elmer and Christena Commean's house located at 509 East North Street in Du Quoin.

After Barbara's death, their four children were adopted by different family members. Submitted by Paul Kevin Commean.

STENNERS-STANNERS

Malcolm Stenners II was born 1817 in Scotland and died 22 July 1864 in the Civil War. Malcolm II was the son of Malcolm I and Elizabeth Adamson. Malcolm II married Christiana Stanners in 1838 in Carriden Manse Parish Church, Bo'ness, Scotland. Christiana Stanners was born in 1816 in Scotland.

Malcolm Stenners married Christiana Stanners and this was listed as her maiden name on the church records. Malcolm Stenner's address was Sheersmill Culross, Perthshire, Bo'ness. The Stanners immigrated to America in 1861 (see Stanhouse-Stanners and Morris-Stanhouse histories in Volume I). The Stanhouses can be found in Genevieve Rainey's index cards located in the Du Quoin Public Library.

It is believed that one set of Stanners came over with Brigham Young, the Mormon leader, on the same ship. They traveled with them in the same wagon train west from the East Coast to Illinois. The Stenner name was changed to Stanhouse at Ellis Island due to their heavy brogue. The Stanhouses came over in three groups. The first group purchased a house and when it was paid in full, they mortgaged it to pay for the second group to come over. Then when the next mortgage was paid for, they mortgaged it again to pay for the third group.

Both father and son were in the Civil War and both were killed at Atlanta, Georgia on 22 July 1864. Malcolm Stanhouse, Jr. was a musician in the 12th Infantry, Company G, and he was killed at Atlanta on 22 July 1864 per the book, History of Randolph, Monroe, and Perry Counties, page 210.

STEVENS-WARD

Dr. Harry Ingraham Stevens, son of Harry Ingraham Stevens and his wife, Hannah Paisley, was born in Meade County, Kansas on 26

November 1884. In 1889 they homesteaded land in Lincoln County, Oklahoma. Educated at home prior to attending preparatory school for eighteen months, he graduated from Oklahoma A and M College (now Oklahoma State University) with a Bachelor of Science in chemical engineering in 1903. Following his graduation Dr. H. I. Stevens taught at Oklahoma A. & M.; worked at: a steel mill; By-Product Coke Company in the electrical laboratory; and a paint company in Chicago as a chemist. For three years he taught and took classes at Bennett College of Medicine and surgery (which later became Loyola University Chicago). In 1909 Dr. Stevens was valedictorian of his graduating class at Bennett College of Medicine and Surgery.

Dr. Harry Ingraham Stevens and Frances Ward Stevens.

He surveyed in Alaska for the Kennecott Copper Company before practicing medicine in Ashley, Illinois. On 11 July 1917 he married Frances Ward, who was born 23 September 1894 in Tamaroa, the daughter of Dr. Francis Marion Ward (born 10 May 1856; died 01 September 1917) and his wife, Desdamona Ariadne Lovelady (born 05 December 1858; died 03 October 1941). She received a diploma for Teacher's grade for piano from Forest Park University and College of Music in St. Louis on 28 May 1912.

Dr. Stevens, a major in the Army Medical Corps during World War I, remained at the University of Toulouse in France obtaining advanced certificates in medicine, surgery, French, history, and literature.

During the war, Frances studied violin and music at Drake University. While Doctor was overseas, she continued studying music at Northwestern University in Evanston. She was a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution and the Eastern Star.

Dr. Ward had had his medical office and drug store in Tamaroa. There, Dr. Stevens opened his office upon returning from France. Frances was his secretary, laboratory technician, and assistant. She continued to play the violin many evenings with Mrs. Appel at the piano.

For housecalls, Doctor used horses and cars that were met by wagons when roads were impassable. During World War II, when some Du Quoin doctors went into the military, Dr. Stevens helped their patients in their Du Quoin offices. In 1936 Dr. Stevens became a member of the American College of Surgeons. In 1959 he received the Award of Merit for over ten years service as Secretary of Perry County Medical Society. STOCKTON-WILKS

Kenneth Stockton was born 03 February 1925 in Pinckneyville, Illinois. His parents were Fred and Birdie (Marlow) Stockton. He had five sisters and one brother. They are as follows: Helen Feltmeyer of Greenville, Louise McKinstry of Pinckneyville, Marjorie Nevill of Decatur, Mabel Baudison of Pinckneyville, Robert of St. Charles, Missouri and Vicki Jones of Evansville, Indiana.

Kenneth and Nina Wilks Stockton.

Both Kenneth and Nina lived their entire lives in the Tamaroa area with the exception of three years Kenneth served in the Navy during World War II. Kenneth worked at several jobs through the years, the last one being at Consol #2 mine.

Since his retirement he has become involved in the Perry County Historical Society. The biggest job he has undertaken was cleaning up the Curlee Cemetery, two and a half miles northwest of Tamaroa. There is much history connected with the area, but too much to write in this space. There are Indians buried there and the mounds can be seen. We think this is the reason N.G. Curlee donated this parcel of land to be used as a cemetery.

Mr. Curlee also established a little town called Berlin where he operated a small store. By being a man of foresight we think that he was expecting the Illinois Central Railroad to come past the town. If it had not curved north of Sunfield, the railroad would have come past the little town of Berlin. Mr. B. G. Roots was also a man of foresight and he was able to persuade the Illinois Central to come by his house and that is why Tamaroa is located where it is today.

Speaking of the Illinois Central Railroad, many people living in this area do not know that there is a curve in the tracks north of Sunfield.

Nina was born 18 April 1925 to Harley and Grace (Opp) Wilks, one of two children. She had a brother, William Wilks of Du Quoin.

Kenneth and Nina were married on 25 November 1945 at the Christian Church in Tamaroa. Nina graduated from Pinckneyville High School in 1943. She then went to Carbondale Beauty College and graduated in March 1944. She worked for a short time in Du Quoin. In September 1944 she opened her own beauty shop in Tamaroa. In 1946 she sold her shop but continued to work in her home until health problems forced her to retire from working. Submitted by Kenneth Stockton.

STOMBAUGH-FULK

Rex and Marilyn Stombaugh reside on Laurel in Du Quoin, Illinois in the old Reagan home. Dr. Reagan was a dentist in Du Quoin. The home was constructed by John Williams, James Ward, Ira Breed, and Charles Ellis of the E.M. Wright Construction in the months of September and October of 1904. It was originally constructed with a large three-cornered porch. About ten years after construction one corner of the porch was incorporated into the living room of the home. The Stombaugh's bought the home from the estate of Mrs. Reagan in 1977. At that time there was a hand pump in the kitchen and two cisterns behind the home. The home was heavily damaged in 1991 by an electrical fire. Gene Flint completely renovated the home as it is today.

Jennifer, Marilyn, Rex, and Megan Stombaugh.

Rex is the son of the late Edward Stombaugh and Juanita (Pollack) of Macon, Illinois. Juanita was the daughter of John and Alma Pollack of Walker. Edward was the son of Roland and Millie Carr Stombaugh of Macon. Rex has a brother, Neal, of Macon, and a sister, Sue Ellen Corbell, of Carterville.

Marilyn was born to Ray and Ernestine Fulk of Pinckneyville. Ray's father, John Foster Fulk, was from Noble and his mother, Elva Wilkerson, was originally from Kentucky. Ray was one of twelve children and was first cousin to the late Delmar Fulk of Du Quoin. Ernestine was the daughter of Sam and Martha Buchanan. Their family history is listed elsewhere in this book.

Rex and Marilyn met while attending Millikin University and married on 10 February 1973 in Pinckneyville. Marilyn was an office nurse for her brother, Dr. Bill Fulk, for over twenty years in Du Quoin. In 1996 she became a Physician Assistant and now works at a rural health clinic in Benton. Rex is currently attending Southern Illinois University's physician assistant program and plans to graduate in August 1999.

Rex and Marilyn have two daughters. Jennifer Lynn was born 23 August 1977 at Du Quoin. She is currently a senior at Southern Illinois University majoring in Psychology. She plans to attend graduate school and earn a Ph.D. in Industrial Psychology. Megan Jean was born 11 February 1980 and will be graduating this year from Du Quoin High School as valedictorian of her class. She plans to attend Illinois Wesleyan University in the fall and study medicine or pharmacy.

SUCHOMSKI-TURNER

The only daughter of Louis and Hattie Suchomski, Bernadette Florence, was born in 1942. As she was growing up, she helped her mother with household chores, helped stock items in the store, and babysat her two younger brothers, Jerry and Rich. She attended the two-room elementary school at Todd's Mill, St. Mary Magdalen School, and was graduated from eighth grade in 1955. She then attended Our Lady of Perpetual Help High School, a preparatory high school for girls intending to become nuns, in St. Louis, Missouri and was graduated in 1958. In 1959 she began formal training to become a nun by entering the convent of the Franciscan Sisters of Our Lady of Perpetual Help, the order of nuns who taught at St. Mary Magdalen's School in Todd's Mill. Studies to become a nun included college at St. Louis University, and after two years of college, she began teaching in elementary parochial schools as a nun, while completing her degree in mathematics as a part time student in the evenings and summers. Both her bachelors degree (1969) and masters degree (1974) were in mathematics at St. Louis University. Because a period of reform in the Catholic Church triggered many changes in the lifestyle of nuns, Bernadette Florence, then known as Sister Mary Audrey, decided not to remain a nun and, with the Pope's blessing, became a lay person in 1973.

She immediately began teaching high school mathematics at McCluer High School in St. Louis, Missouri. On 27 July 1974 Bernadette Florence Suchomski married James Turner, a high school teacher she met at McCluer High School who was originally from West Frankfort, Illinois. Bernadette and James have three children: James Jr., born in 1975, Kathleen, born in 1978, and Ruth Ann Turner, born in 1987. They lived in St. Louis, Missouri until 1979 when they moved to Colorado Springs, Colorado. There, James owned a kitchen cabinet and appliance business, known as Aspen Country Kitchens, with several partners, while Bernadette taught mathematics at Pikes Peak Community College. In 1986 Bernadette and James moved to Jefferson City, Missouri where they now reside. Bernadette is currently a mathematics professor at Lincoln University and has an ABD in Mathematics Education (1996) from the University of Missouri-Columbia. James worked as a parochial school teacher, as a nurse's aid, and when his health began to fail, as a desk manager at Lincoln University. He is currently disabled with severe heart failure and when his health allows, serves as "Mr. Mom" to their ten-year-old daughter, Ruth Ann. James Jr. attends Lincoln University where he is working on a degree in psychology and broadcasting. Kathleen also attends Lincoln University where she is working on a degree in secondary education with emphasis in teaching social sciences and English.

Ezekiah A. and Sally had the following children: Margaret, Newton, John A. (author's great grandfather), James L., Jefferson, Nancy, Leroy Huggins, and William.

During or after the Civil War, Ezechiah, Sally, John, Jefferson, LeRoy, and William migrated to Four Mile Prairie in southwestern Perry County, Illinois. By 1880 only John, Jefferson, and William were in the county.

John A. Sweat was born in 1836 in McNairy County, Tennessee. In Perry County he was a farmer and later a teamster. He married Angeline Bryant on 28 October 1869 in Perry County. Angeline was born in Mississippi in 1843. She died in the 1880s and John died in the 1890s.

John and Angeline had one child, LeRoy Huggins (author's grandfather). LeRoy was named after his uncle. LeRoy was born 21 December 1872 in Perry County. Reportedly, LeRoy was a gifted musician and never had music lessons. After marriage he labored at various unskilled jobs.

LeRoy married Luella Marlow on 26

February 1896 in Perry County. She was born in 1880 in Franklin County, Illinois and died on 18 November 1943 in Perry County. Her parents were Merideth and Rachael (Bridges) Marlow. LeRoy died 22 January 1970 in Jackson County, Illinois.

LeRoy and Luella had the following children: Homer, Harry, Bessie Moore, Irene Feltmeyer, Mabel Miller (author's mother), and James Scott.

Mabel Miller was born 10 October 1917. She presently lives in Pinckneyville. She married Clarence Henry Miller on 30 January 1937 in Perry County. Clarence was born 23 December 1910 in Perry County. He died 25 October 1985 in Perry County. He was a coal miner. Clarence and Mabel had one child, Thomas Ray. (See Frank Miller history.) Submitted by Thomas Ray Miller.

SZAREK-CRAIN

Dennis Szarek, the son of Walter and Lucille Poiter Szarek, was born 11 June 1949 in St. Louis, Missouri. When Dennis was an infant, Walter, Lucille and Dennis moved to what was to be their home on a farm located four miles east of Pinckneyville, which was owned by his maternal grandparents, Mike and Stella Poiter.

Dennis was already working on the farm at a young age. After graduating from high school he took full responsibility.

On 17 February 1969 he married Cynthia Crain. She was born on 18 October 1946 to Earl Dean "Red" and Marie Beck Crain, in Du Quoin, Illinois. Cindy was raised in Pinckneyville with her brother Dean and her sister Barbara. After graduating from high school, Cindy worked in the offices of Frazer Truck Lines in Pinckneyville until her marriage to Dennis.

Dennis and Cindy had one daughter, Diana Lynn. DeeDee is married to Raymond Baudison and they have a son, Bradley Matthew.

With the joy of their grandson's birth in 1994, Dennis and Cindy celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary, also in 1994.

Dennis and Cindy have worked side by side in the work and management of their grain farm and farrow-to-finish hog operation.

TALLEY-MAXWELL

They came to know him as "Virg". His full name was Virgil Talley, born 17 February 1908, and even though he hailed from Cambria, in Williamson County, he became a friend to Perry County, Illinois. Born the sixth child to George Marshall and Flora Dell Talley, he joined an elder brother and sister as members of the Pinckneyville community. The purpose for his coming was to work as a coal miner at the Pyramid Mine. His father before him had breathed that black air down in the deep mines with pack mules hauling the heavy rock. His mother had been a community-minded lady with many friends. She was active in their neighborhood church and saw lots of new additions as a mid-wife. Unfortunately, Della left her family in death at the early age of 53. Their children were Verba (Keenan), George, Gladys, Elvin, Elvis, and Virgil.

Virgil's family was originally of Welch descent and migrated up through the southern states before settling in Williamson County, Illinois. Some years ago, while vacationing in Wales, Virgil's oldest granddaughter was pleasantly surprised to find a town named "Talley".

During his first months of residence, Virgil shared lodgings with his sister Verba and husband "Shanty-Boat", Frank Keenan, and their young daughter Billy Lou. He loved to teach her to sing, which eventually led him to the William Maxwell Electric Store where Hannah Maxwell waited on him. On 10 November 1930, the two lovers drove to Paducah, Kentucky and were married. To that union were born three children: Warren Dennis "Rick", Marsha Ann (Segedy), and Marylin Beth (Dinkins).

Vigil Tally 1908-1989.

Rick married Jane Herr on 09 August 1959. They had three children: Wendy Warren, Scott Ryand, and Jennifer Jane.

Marsha wed Harry Jack Segedy on 29 January 1961 and they also had three children: Peter Marshall, Matthew William, and Stephen Michael.

On 29 March 1973 Marylin wed Donald Ray Dinkins. They have five children: Jeffrey Allen, Lisa Dawn, Patrick Bryan, Donald Ray Jr., and Michael Wayne.

Many of Virgil's fishing buddies remember how he would go from one mine pit to another, exchanging fish. His family always saw him as a "Johnny Appleseed" of the fishing world. He dearly loved to be out among nature, learning from the seasons. Perry County is a better place because of the "outsider" who made this his home.

TAYLOR-COMMEAN

Mary Frances Commean, born 17 July 1947 in Du Quoin, Illinois, is the daughter of Eugene and Francis Williams Commean. She entered a persistent state of wedded bliss by marrying David Taylor, 16 June 1967. Dave was born during a snowstorm 22 March 1947 in Du Quoin. When advised of the event, Grandpa Greenwood announced that he would "rather have a new fox hound pup." (These days, this kind of assault on his self esteem could serve as an excuse for anything from a nervous tic to mass murder.) His parents were Denzil and Violet Taylor, both deceased. Denzil's family lived for years (and many descendants still do) in and around Sesser, Christopher, Mulkeytown, and thereabouts. Violet was the daughter of John and Marie Rapuzzi of Du Quoin.

Dave and Mary attended Southern Illinois University beginning in 1965, commuting from Du Quoin. After graduation in 1969, they moved to a suburb of Chicago to seek fame and fortune—Mary as an executive assistant (highbrow terminology for secretary) and Dave as an electronics technician. After three years, it became evident that the seeking of fame and fortune might be abetted by additional education. Both re-entered Southern Illinois University in 1969 and graduated in 1972-Dave with a degree in Microbiology and Mary with a degree in Food and Nutrition. For the next two years, they sought additional enlightenment (with occasional time off for less scholarly pursuits) and graduated with Master's Degrees in 1974. During this time, their positions as bus drivers, research and teaching assistants allowed them to live in a series of palatial estates in Carbondale, Cabria and Murphysboro. By 1974, both had amassed eight years of university education, but as Paul Simon might say "their education didn't hurt them none."

David and Mary Commean Taylor

Fame and fortune seeking resumed in Duluth, Minnesota in 1974. (To find Duluth, go north to the North Pole, then go about another 100 miles.) Dave worked first in the Chemistry Department, then in the Computer Center where he became a self-taught geek. In 1980, they moved to a suburb of Minneapolis where Dave worked in the supercomputer division of Control Data, later transferring to the Advanced Communications division and later, into the Energy Management division. In the late 1980s, not wishing to stray from the path established by other manufacturers of mainframe computers, Control Data began a slow and painful disintegration. Dave's division was traded to Siemens AG. (Unlike professional athletes, he received no signing bonus.) Today, he remains with Siemens as leader and co-designer of a group responsible for a suite of products used to automate electric utility substations.

Mary's first career was in business where she was secretary to the senior vice-president of Clow Corporation in Oak Brook, Illinois. Her second career began at Southern Illinois University where she taught nutrition as a graduate student. Following graduation they moved to Duluth, where she taught at the University of Minnesota, Duluth campus. After four years in Duluth, the Taylors moved to the twin cities. Mary was a nutritionalist for the Department of Education for two years. For the past sixteen years, Mary has been the Director of Medical Nutrition Therapy at Queen of Peace Hospital. She has authored a cookbook entitled "Tempt My Heart A Loving Reunion of Health and Good Taste". She lectures throughout the state and has been active in the Minnesota Dietetics Association holding the office of President and Editor-in-Chief of their newsletters. More recently Mary acquired her certification as a Diabetes Educator and also the Director of the Regional Site of the International Diabetes Center.

Mary loves animals and enjoys biking, hiking and reading. Both of these two have enjoyed exchange students from Germany, Russia and the Netherlands.

Mary and Dave live on five acres in a forest south of Minneapolis with their daughter, Michelle, two cats and a dog. The last time they moved, it was painfully evident that they have amassed a great deal of "stuff". However, fame and fortune remain elusive. Submitted by David Taylor.

TAYLOR, EPHRAIM REESE

Ephraim Reese Taylor, the son of Michael Taylor and Jane Wells, was born 13 March 1840 in Perry County. He married Sarah Harriet Gill, daughter of George Washington Gill and Martha "Patsy" Pelisha Gresham, on 27 March 1862 in Perry County. Sarah was also born in Perry County on 29 November 1841.

In 1868, Ephraim and Sarah, with three young children and several other family members, left Du Quoin in Perry County and headed for Texas. Included in the group were Ephraim's parents, Michael and Jane Wells Taylor, Jane's elderly father, Thomas Bates Wells, and their unmarried children: Elihu, Ellenor, Thomas, Mary, Meredith, John and Samuel. Joining the travelers was Ephraim's sister, Elizabeth Ann Taylor Snider, a recent widow, along with her five children: Harriet, Isaac, Margaret, Eva and Samuel. Another Taylor sister, Mary, brought her new husband, Dr. Edward H. Rees and his daughter Alice. Sarah Gill Taylor's younger sister, Adelia Honeywell Gill, also went with the family, as both of her parents had died by 1868.

During the trip, Ephraim's brother, Thomas C. Taylor, drowned while fording a river. After traveling as far as the Missouri Ozarks, they heard there was a terrible drought in Texas, so they decided to go no further. They homesteaded land in the area known as Roanoke near Joplin, Jasper County, Missouri.

Ephraim later traded this land for property three miles east of Avilla in Jasper County, because it had a spring and a rail fence. This became the Taylor farm and the Taylor Cemetery is now located east of there.

Ephraim died 30 May 1880 and Sarah passed away 14 March 1891. They are both buried in Taylor Cemetery. Two more children were born to them after the move to Missouri, making a total of five. Their children were: Lucine, Benton, Josephine, Hampton, and Thomas.

Lucine Taylor, born 15 October 1863 in Perry County, married William Andrew Hall, Sr., son of Justus Hall, Jr. and Electa Caswell, 15 April 1883 in Jasper County. They had two children, Bertie Leo and Mirtie Linn, before she died 28 October 1887. She is buried in Avilla Cemetery, Jasper County, Missouri.

Benton Gill Taylor, born 07 April 1865 in Perry County, married Alice Marion Zimmerman 11 November 1895 in Jasper County. Benton died 07 April 1865. He and Alice are buried in Taylor Cemetery, Jasper County. They had eight children: Vivian Esther, Viva Eleanor, Herbert Daniel, Alma Josephine, Ephraim Reece, Thomas Ely, Mildred Edith, and Rubye Harriet Taylor.

Josephine Taylor, born 24 January 1867 in Perry County, married William Andrew Hall, Sr., the widower of her sister, Lucine, 16 December 1888 in Lawrence County, Missouri. Josephine died 20 May 1951 in Jasper County. She and W. A. Hall, Sr. are buried in Avilla Cemetery, Jasper County. They had eight children: Justus Earl, Viva Electa, Gertrude Sarah, George Edwin, Nelia Lucille, William Andrew, Jr., Mabel Alice and Rolland Taylor Hall.

Hampton Joseph Taylor was born September 1869 in Jasper County.

Thomas Edward Taylor was born 10 July 1871 and died 04 May 1909 in Jasper County. He is buried in Taylor Cemetery.

TAYLOR, HENRY

Henry Taylor, Sr. was born circa 1780. He lived in the Owensboro, Daviess County, Kentucky area and later moved to Illinois. He had a daughter, Phebe, born circa 1816, who wed William Henry Smith, Sr. in Daviess County, Kentucky. The ceremony was performed 02 January 1832 by Thomas Downs, Minister of the Gospel (Greenbriar Baptist Church). The year William Henry, Jr. was born, 1835, the family moved to Illinois. According to the article in the previous Perry County History Book on William Eugene Smith, Henry Taylor was an Irish farmer from Kentucky.

According to "Taylor Genealogy," located in the Kentucky Room, Owensboro Public Library, Owensboro, Kentucky, it relates life of Benjamin Taylor who married Catherine Lee. Also, Benjamin was a Private, Daviess County, Kentucky, 11 January 1834 (placed on pension roll, pension began 04 March 1831). It could be that he was from Fort Hartford, Ohio County. Benjamin's lineage is outlined in this book. It is believed Phebe's father, Henry, married Ruth Hedges 27 September 1809 in Daviess County, Kentucky (published in Ohio County marriage records). Bondsmen: Henry Taylor and William Hedges. Consent: William Hedges made an oath Ruth was an orphan and he was her guardian. Indications were Benjamin had a family Bible as well as John A. Taylor and references were from these Bibles. "History of Daviess County, Kentucky," page 298, shows Benjamin Taylor, age 84, as a Revolutionary soldier in 1840.

According to W. S. D. Smith, recalling the history of Oak Grove Baptist Church's beginning 05 March 1864, indicated that Phebe Taylor Smith, as well as Enoch Taylor and his wife Nancy J., also William and Sarah Davis, were members (total of 11 in all)-am assuming Enoch was her brother.

On the 1850 Illinois United States Census there is a Joseph Taylor, age 46, wife Edith, daughter Pheby; Michel J. age 40, wife Jane, born in Kentucky; Godfrey Taylor, 32, born in Tennessee, and Lewis Taylor, 43, born in Kentucky. Then on the 1860 Federal Census for Illinois there is a Ruth Taylor, age 62, born in Virginia, living with William B. Taylor, 38, born in Illinois, wife Elizabeth, 23 born in Kentucky, children: Henry B., 2, born in Illinois and Catherine, 2, born in Illinois. On the 1880 Federal Census for Illinois there is a Henry Taylor, age 36; John S. Taylor, age 15; and Enoch Taylor, age 15, shown living close to Asa and Sarah Hill, Jr.; and Richard Taylor, age 24, living with William Henry Smith, Jr. I believe some of these Taylors are related to Phebe and Henry.

Phebe and William Smith named one of their daughters Ruth Elizabeth, who I believe is named for Ruth Hedges Taylor, who is believed to be Phebe's mother and Henry Taylor's wife. Author continues to seek information on these families. Submitted by M.H. Cook.

TAYLOR, MICHAEL JAMES

Michael James Taylor, son of Thomas and Mary Taylor, was born 12 February 1810 in Illinois. Thomas Taylor, a native of South Carolina, had ventured into Illinois about 1803 along with Lewis Wells, Sr., the Pyle brothers and others. The Native American population was restless, and most of the colony returned to Kentucky, with the Taylor family going as far south as Port Gibson, Mississippi.

Sometime before Michael was born, the Taylors returned to Illinois, and by 1812, had settled in Jackson County. The Wells and other immigrants also returned. A history of Jackson County, published in 1878, states that a fort was built at Barcroft Place "by order" of Thomas Taylor in 1814. On 23 April 1818, Thomas Taylor recorded 160 acres in the southeast quarter of Section 25 of Jackson County, which later became Perry County in 1827.

On 08 November 1832, Michael married Jane Wells, the daughter of Thomas Bates Wells and Sarah McClain, and granddaughter of Lewis Wells, Sr. She was born 22 October 1813 in Kentucky. Ellenor Taylor, born about 1842 in Perry County, married David Hunter 09 April 1869 in Jasper County, Missouri. Their children included Hallie and Dee.

Thomas C. Taylor, born in 1844 in Perry County, drowned in 1868, while fording a river with his family during the move from Perry County to Missouri.

Mary J. Taylor, born about 1846, married Dr. Edward H. Rees, son of James and Mary Rees, 20 November 1867 in Perry County. They also moved to Jasper County.

Dr. Meredith Taylor, born 18 January 1850 in Perry County, married Adelia Hackney on 07 May 1873 in Jasper County. She had two children, Mertie and Bessie, before she died. He later married Alice Gill, daughter of Thomas E. Gill and Nancy Pyle, having four more children: Lucille, Ruby, Meredith, and Emerald. Dr. Taylor died 17 September 1913 and is buried in Taylor Cemetery.

John H. Taylor, born in 1853 in Perry County, married Mary Etta Stemmoms on 01 February 1880 in Jasper County.

Samuel J. Taylor, born 24 December 1855 in Perry County, died 16 February 1870 in Jasper County and is buried in Taylor Cemetery.

THORNBURG

The ancestry of the Thornburg family traces back to the time of William the Conqueror and Ivo de Tailleboise the first baron of Kendal of Yorkshire England. Ivo was of Anjouan stock and received land through the grace of William the Conqueror. Over time the family name evolved to Thornborough and later Thornburg.

More recently, Charles of Methop, which is northeast of Cartmel, England, became a follower of Charles Fox, the founder of the Society of Friends (Quakers) during the years 1663 to 1700. During this time of religious persecution members of this family emigrated to Cootehill, Ireland. Robert Thornburg, son of Charles of Methop was given leave to marry in August 1685 Sarah Jackson from Cootehill, Ireland at the monthly meeting of Friends. Their sons Thomas, Walter and Edward immigrated to America. The will of Edward Thornburgh of Lancaster County, Pennsylvania dated 13 February 1734 named his wife Jean and their eleven children.

Joseph, the tenth child of Edward and Jean, believed born about 1730, married Ann Armfield in Pennsylvania. They joined that great Quaker migration and removed to Guilford, North Carolina. The family is recorded in the records of the New Garden monthly Meeting. In keeping with his Quaker beliefs, Joseph served the American Revolution by selling goods to the troops. Thomas served in the Civil War as an artificer with Company F of the Indiana Heavy Artillery. After the war was over he became a minister in the Free Will Methodist Church. TROESTER, FREDERICK Johann Fredrick Troester, a smith from Saxony (Duchy of Gotha), his wife, Elizabeth (Kauth), and children, Albert, Louisa, Christiana, Fred, George and Pauline sailed from Bremen through New Orleans to St. Louis in 1848. George and Fred were twins. Pauline died on the voyage and was buried at sea in a keg of sand. They lived in St. Louis about five years where Albert learned blacksmithing. Two boys, Ben and Lewis, were born in St. Louis.

Frederick Troester with sons, Ben and Lewis circa 1870.

The family moved to Perry County, near Tamaroa, on Little Beaucoup Creek, about 1853. Albert, George and Fred served in the Civil War. Albert served in Company E, 10th Regiment of the Missouri Volunteer Infantry. Fred served in Company K, 142nd Illinois Volunteer Infantry. George enlisted in Company F, 13th Illinois Volunteer Cavalry.

Albert, born in 1832, married Teresia Schmidt 10 December 1856 in St. Louis, Missouri. They lived on the Oakdale-Du Bois Road in Washington County, Illinois at one time. He and his family homesteaded near Parsons, Kansas about 1872. His children were Wilhelmina, born in 1858, Frank, born in 1861, Frederick J., born in 1865, Albert Laurentium, born in 1871, Elizabeth, born about 1872, and Julia Ann, born about 1878.

Louisa, born in 1836, married Henry Mulhausen. The 1870 census shows Henry was born in Prussia, was a butcher and living in Pinckneyville with his family. The family consisted of Louisa, his wife, and three children, Theresa, born about 1861 who later married William S. Wagner; Ernest, born about 1867; and Hulda, born about 1871, who later married Charles Esperson. Louisa is buried in the City Cemetery. Probably some of the descendants of this family still live in the area.

The passenger list when the Troesters came to America showed a Christiana, however, she is a bit of a mystery. A Johann Greislach is named in Elizabeth Troester's will. The administration papers after the deaths of Elizabeth and Frederick list a Christiana Klastry. A marriage record in St. Clair County shows a Julianne Troester married a George Kreislich in 1857. Albert named one of his children Julia Ann. Could Christiana, Johanna and Julianne be the same person. Perhaps we will know someday.

Frederick J. Truster, born in 1845, (he used this spelling), married Sarah J. Morgan in Vienna, Illinois on 17 March 1867. They lived near his parents for several years and moved to Pittsburg, Kansas around 1881. They had the following children: George born about 1870, Emma born about 1872, William born 25 August 1877, Lula born 21 May 1880, Carrie May born 30 November 1882, Joseph born 19 July 1888, and Mildred born 28 October 1891.

George, born in 1845, married Catherine Jenkel 08 December 1866. They had one child, Marietta born in November 1868. George died 26 April 1869. His widow and child later moved to Atchinson, Kansas.

Ben (Bernhardt), born in 1849, married Delilah Hutchings 03 October 1875 in Perry County. Delilah's parents were Eli Hutchings and Manerva (Lindsey) Hutchings. Delilah's paternal grandparents, John Randolph and Delilah Jones Hutchings were early settlers in Perry County. The maternal grandparents were Samuel and Margaret Lindsey. Ben, and his younger brother, Lewis, moved around quite a bit and at one time lived in Chicago where Ben worked for McCormick. Ben and his family moved to Pulaski, Illinois about 1897. The following children were born in Tamaroa: Jenny Ann born about 1877, Henry born 08 July 1879, Frank born 23 October 1881, Louise born 13 March 1884, Nettie Carrie born 09 December 1886, Ollie Elsmer born 12 November 1889, and Lindsey born 07 August 1895.

Lewis, born about 1852, married Catherine E. Atherton on 29 October 1873. Lewis and his wife lived in Perry County several years. They also lived in Chicago, Illinois, in Tanny County, Missouri, and Pulaski County, Illinois. They had the following children: Cora born in September 1873, Flora born about 1877, Edward born about 1879, Elnora born March 1882, Carl born September 1886, and Nettie born August 1894.

Frederick and Elizabeth had died by 1890 when Louisa handled the administration of the estate papers and the farm was sold. Today the families are scattered in Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Texas, California and many other states.

WELLS, LEWIS SR.

Any history of this area would not be complete without the mention of Lewis Wells, Sr. His progeny are numerous and many people in Perry County can count him as part of their family tree. One of the earliest settlers of Perry County that was carved from Jackson County in 1827, he and his family were an integral part of its formation and development.

Lewis Wells, Sr., a cabinet maker by trade, was born in 1750 and served in the American Revolutionary War as a soldier with the South Carolina Militia under Colonel Brandon. He married Elizabeth "Betsy" Bates who was born about 1749. When Betsy was about twelve years old, she and her mother, along with three of her siblings, were taken captive by an Indian raiding party. Her father and a "hired hand" were killed. Betsy's mother later gave birth to a baby and as the group crossed the swollen Roanoke River, the child was torn from the mother's arms by the raging water. The mother and children lived with the Indians for about a year before they were ransomed.

Sometime around the year 1803, the Wells family left South Carolina and ventured into southern Illinois along with the Taylors, Pyles, McElvains and others. Finding the Native American population in a state of unrest, they moved back into Kentucky, staying for awhile in Christian County. Between the years 1812 and 1815, the colonists drifted back into what became Jackson County, Illinois, which later became Perry County in 1827.

Lewis and Betsy lived on this land until their deaths in 1846. Lewis died 12 August and Betsy on 04 October and were buried in McElvain Cemetery. All of their children were born in South Carolina and included: Thomas, Lewis Jr., Elizabeth, Anna, Susan, Elijah, Martha, Sarah, Keziah, Mary, Joseph and Giles.

Thomas Bates Wells, born 24 January 1779, married Sarah "Sally" McClain on 06 January 1813 in Christian County, Kentucky. Elizabeth Wells married John Winters. Susan Wells stayed in South Carolina. Elijah Wells, born about 1784, married Sarah Ford in Kentucky. Martha "Patsy" Wells, born 28 April 1786, married William Williams in 1803 in South Carolina. Sarah "Sally" Wells, born in 1788, married Abner Pyle, Sr. on 23 October 1805 in Christian County, Kentucky. Keziah Wells, born in 1789, married Robert McElvain in Christian County, Kentucky. On 30 November 1911 Ed and Essie were married in Charleston, Illinois. They were accompanied by Homer and Pearl Ragland. Ed was a businessman. He owned Ed's Service Station and had the first Ford dealership in the community. Essie was a graduate of Southern Illinois University Normal in Carbondale and taught school before working with her husband in the family business. WEST-VANCE

Edgar Warren "Barney" West (born 05 January 1913; died 22 March 1996), the only child of Edgar Irvin West (09 January 1885; 19 December 1927) and Essie Pearl Ragland (born 31 July 1890; died 28 April 1982), was born east of Tamaroa. He attended the Tamaroa schools and Du Quoin Township High School his senior year. Active in sports, he received the Tri County Most Valuable Player Award in 1929. After high school he worked for Davies DX, then as a salesman for the Du Quoin Packing Company and Coca Cola Bottling Company.

Thelma Estella (Vance) and Edgar Warren "Barney" West.

In 1937, while working in Terre Haute, Indiana, he met and married Thelma Estella Vance on 28 August 1937. Thelma (born 07 April 1911; died 14 March 1984) was the eldest child and only daughter of Grover Uriah Vance (born 29 August 1888; died 14 February 1955) and Maude W. Reese (born 09 March 1889; died 07 April 1927). Thelma was educated in the Terre Haute school system, graduating from Garfield High. She was employed as sales lady for Meis Department Store and then a receptionist and telephone operator for the American Can Company in Terre Haute. Later, she was a telephone operator for the Tamaroa Telephone Company and then a tester for Decca Records at Pinckneyville.

Barney and Thelma had two daughters: Mrs. Leon (Carolyn Kay, "C.Kay") Longshore (born 08 August 1940) of Du Quoin and Mrs. George (Rita Jill, "Jill") Lawrence (born 09 October 1947) of New Athens.

Later, in 1937, they opened a business in Tamaroa. Called "Barney's", it was a combination service station, appliance/L.P. gas center, dine and dance. The jitterbug and jukebox were popular and this was a favorite spot with teenagers. They consumed an average of 25 cases of Coca-Cola daily. On 03 March 1943 a fire completely destroyed the business. The community did not have a fire department.

Later, Barney and four other citizens (Dr. Enoch Marlow, Herbert Adcock, Carl Jones and David Huggins) signed a note and purchased the first fire truck, an open cab model, nicknamed "Whoopy." An active volunteer fire department was organized and the truck was housed in his service station until their department was built. Barney served as fire chief for many years.

A small station was opened later in 1943 and the present building was constructed in 1951. Barney also worked for the Pyramid Mine as a haulage truck driver until the mine was sold in 1951.

He assisted in organizing the Greater Egyptian Baseball League, which was active in Southern Illinois. A member of the Tamaroa Merchants ball team, Barney was instrumental in constructing a lighted baseball field in Tamaroa. This was one of the first lighted fields in Southern Illinois. The Merchants were host to several major league barnstorming teams. The first pitch thrown in the newly lighted park was by Grover Cleveland Alexander, then with the champion St. Louis Cardinals. The lighted system was later sold to the Du Quoin Lions for their field.

In 1961, Barney was appointed Perry County Coroner to finish that term. He was elected to three more terms. In 1970 he became President of the Coroners Association for the State of Illinois. He has served as a member of the Advisory Board of Necropsy Service, the Highway 51 Association and Greater Egyptian Regional Criminal Justice Planning Advisory Board.

After an unsuccessful bid for State Representative in 1972, he worked as project director for Perry County and as investigator for the Sheriff's Department and the State's Attorney.

In 1974 he became a special agent for the State Fire Marshall's Office working the Arson Division. During his ten-year tenure he investigated over 1500 fires in the southern 27 counties of Illinois. He retired at age 71 because of a new law forcing the investigators to carry guns. That year he filed a petition and was elected coroner of Perry County for four years; at the end of the term he retired. After retirement he remained actively interested in politics and in his hometown community of Tamaroa.

West's great-great grandfather, Dempsey Odum, was an elected Representative from Williamson County and served with Mr. Lincoln at Vandalia. Barney carried on the family tradition of wearing bow ties.

The family belongs to the Baptist faith. Deceased members of the West family are buried in the Tamaroa City Cemetery. Vance family members are interred at Highland Lawn, Terre Haute, Indiana.

WRIGHT-KUHNERT

Of the many people born in and around Perry County who bear the name "Wright", seven were born to and raised by Charles L. and Emma Wright. There was a "saying" in that branch of the Wright family, "When you're Wright, you can't be wrong." Of course, that was only for fun; and their's was, indeed, a "fun-filled" family.

Charles Luther Wright and Emma Lois Kuhnert were married in November 1906. He was 27, and she was one month past 16. When someone teased Charlie, as he was always called, about "robbing the cradle", he was quick to inform them that, "She is the only woman in the world for me, and I'll marry her if I have to push her down the isle in a baby carriage". Their marriage endured for nearly 60 years, until death separated them when Charlie died in 1965. Emma lived for another seven years, until 1972, but seemed, really, to be only "half alive" without her life-mate.

Charlie's parents were Jeemiah Nathaniel "Nun" Wright and Lydia Culley Wright. Emma's parents were Charley Kuhnert and Augusta Sitchlough Kuhnert. Augusta was born in Hoengrapha, Germany. She came to America as a teenager in 1867 and, one year later, married Charley Kuhnert. Emma was the youngest of their twelve children, and her father died when she was only eighteen months old.

Taken in November 1956 on the occasion of Charles L. and Emma Lois Wright's 50th Wedding Anniversary—(front) Charles Richard, Charles Luther (father), Emma Lois (Kuhnert) (mother), Patricia Wright Reidelberger, (back) Harry Gerald, Luther Lee, Less Franklin, Floyd Jerry, and Elmer Ray.

As already stated, Charlie and Emma's marriage produced seven children. First, they had six sons. Elmer Ray married Kathleen Brown and had two children, Jennie Marie and Steven Ray. Luther Lee married Wilma Giacomo and had six children: Lloyd Lee, Gladys Faye, Jackie Murrell, Wanda Eloyse, Jimmy Roger, and Gary Don. Charles Richard married Virgie Benedict and had five children: Betty Lou, Barbara Anne, Carolyn Sue, Judy Kaye, and Richard Dean. Harry Gerald married Ruby Skeen and had one child, Geraldean. Floyd Jerry married Thyra Mae Gieser and three children: Floyd Eugene, Jimmie Edward, and Gerald Lee. Less Franklin married Clara Mildred "Sue" Ellinger and had three children: Less Patrick, Michael Charles, and Kelly Shaun. Michael was killed in an automobile accident at age 21. Charlie and Emma finally had one daughter, Patricia. She married Reidelberger and had three children: David Ray, Randy Bill, and Sheila Rene'.

In May 1988, only two of the original seven siblings (Harry and Patricia), and only four of the original seven spouses (Kathleen, Wilma, Ruby, and Mae) remained alive. Several of the sons lost children in infancy, but those names are not recorded inasmuch as the dates of the births and deaths and other details are not easily available. All of the twenty-two grandchildren as listed are adults, almost all are married with children, many with grandchildren—the number unknown to the author, since this branch of the Wright Family Tree has spread to the four corners of our nation. Many of the great-grandchildren live far, far away, and have not kept in close contact with the family. Nevertheless, they are family—claimed and loved. It is, therefore, the sincere wish for each of them that they might know the same type of love—for God and for their families as we shared and passed down to their children by their great grandparents, Charles and Emma Wright. Letters still in existence today were written by John Yancey to his wife Margaret E. (Bridgewater) Yancey while he was in Vicksburg, Mississippi during the Civil War.

John H. Yancey died from Small Pox and is buried in Vicksburg, Mississippi. John was absent without leave from the Civil War due to his wife being pregnant with George Yancey. People owed John money so he thought they would pay his wife, Rebecca, to help take care of her while he was in the war. The people did not give her the owed money and she was becoming destitute. So John left the Army and went to work in Belleville to make money for his wife. He gave his wife money and the turned himself in to the Army. Rebecca never received a pension.

YEHLING-HENKE

Charles Yehling was born 16 September 1860 near Red Bud in Monroe County and came with his parents, Charles and Margaret (Schmolbach) Yehling, to St. Johns in the early 1870's. After helping on his father's farm, he was employed as a clerk in the Illinois Central Coal and Salt Company Store owned by William P. Halliday at St. Johns. In 1884 he married Catherine Henke, niece of prominent businessman Henry Henke, who brought her from Crollager Arohde, Nordrhein, Westphalia, Germany, where she was born in 1858, with her brothers and sisters after the death of both parents. While here Charles and Catherine had four children: Bertha M. (1885-1963), Albert Charles (1888-1909), William Walter (1890-1960) and Frank Henry (1892-1983).

Catherine and Charles Yehling with children: Albert, William, Frank & Bertha.

In 1889 Charles moved to the corner of Vine and Cole in Du Quoin. In the late 80's he became active in Sunday School work and spent the rest of his sojourn in Du Quoin actively engaged in starting and improving Sunday Schools throughout the county. During most of this time he served as President of the Perry County Sunday School Association. He started "Normal Institutes" to train teachers, Bible Institutes, promoted Sunday Schools in the "colored" churches and was Superintendent in his own German Evangelical Church. By the time he left Du Quoin he became well-known and often commended in the Du Quoin Tribune for his leadership and was being sought after to speak at conventions in neighboring counties. In the course of these pursuits he was sometimes called upon to conduct church meetings, give Bible talks and occasionally lay-preach, which he did for Reverend Thomas Spilman, the Presbyterian pastor, when illness kept him from outside engagements. He purchased a portable organ and recruited singers to assist him in these services.

1884 wedding of Charles and Catherine Yehling.

He devoted himself to other causes, such as Temperance and Prohibition. He addressed a district WCTU Convention and was President of the local Prohibition club. On a cold night in January 1895 while he led a prohibition meeting in the schoolhouse at St. Johns his horse's brand new harness was cut to shreds, an event roundly condemned in the Tribune.

Charitable causes for the poor and orphans mobilized him. He collected books for the poorhouse, called an Almshouse, and held services there. When the Seminary building at Old Du Quoin was purchased and turned into the Van Arsdale Home for orphans he participated with gifts and services.

In July of 1898 Charles and his family moved to Anna, where he purchased a store of his own. He had worked 17 years in the St. Johns store, and as manager, probably 14 years. A daughter, Ruth, was born in 1900 and still lives in California. He moved to Kansas City to relieve son William's asthma and operated a store, as he did later in Sparta, Illinois and Tamaqua. He founded Sparta Bottling Works with the help of his nephew, William R. Hayes (see Volume 1, page 142). Submitted by Donald R. Yehling

YEHLING-SCHMOLBACH

Charles (Karl) Yehling (Jehling) was born in 1836 in Alsenborn, Rheinland-Pfalz, Germany and came to United States with his parents, Johann Friedrich (1800-1853) and Barbara (Weingart) Jehling (1801-), in 1842 and settled on a farm north of Red Bud, Monroe County, Illinois. His siblings, all born in Germany, were Louisa (1825-), Ludwig (1829-), Johann (1831-1876), Anna Maria (1834-), and Johann Friedrich (1837-). In 1855, at Horse Prairie, Monroe County, he married Margareth Schmolbach, of Freeburg, Illinois, who was born in 1838 in Darmstadt, Germany. In December 1870 the Belleville and Southern Illinois Railroad was completed to Du Quoin and the Du Quoin Tribune reported, even in January of the year, a large influx of Germans from St. Clair County. It is likely that the Yehlings were part of this movement when they settled in St. Johns in the early 1870's, probably with four of their six children, who were Mary J., Charles, Frederick, Sophia Louise, Louisa, and Gottlieb.

Mary J. married Thomas J. States in 1879. Charles (1860-1930) was born in Red Bud and married Catherine Henke in 1884. Frederick (1864-1936) was born in Red Bud and married Martha L. Knauer in 1887. Sophia, born 1868, married John George Wilson in 1891. Louisa, born 1872, married Ernest Christian Gessner in 1894. Gottlieb (1876-1947) married Alvira Roethe in 1901. All were married in Du Quoin.

Charles had a dairy farm on the Pettes property and advertised milk at five cents a quart delivered in Du Quoin. Afterward, he did general farming and later operated a restaurant in St. Johns.

He served in H Company, 149th Infantry Volunteers in the Civil War. He died in 1909 and is buried in the IOOF Cemetery in Du Quoin. Margareth died in 1911 and is also buried there.

Another Yehling family moved to Du Quoin from Monroe County in the 1870's. This was Gottlieb (1845-1894) and Louise (Heuer) Yehling. He was a wagon-maker and had two sons, Fred "Fritz" (1873-1951) who continued the wagon-making business, and John (1869-1941) who operated a furniture-mortician business and a saloon. The Yehling name can still be seen North side of Main Street in Du Quoin. Charles and Gottlieb were related to a common ancestor in Germany, Gottlieb Jehling (1745-1820), a schoolmaster in Enkenbach, Rheinland-Pfalz, Germany. This ancestor was Charles' great-great grandfather and Gottlieb's great grandfather. Charles' father and Gottlieb's father and his three brothers emigrated from adjoining villages in Rheinland-Pfalz about the same time, the former Alsenborn-Ekenbach and the latter from Sembach.
